For the Stomach Heart and Kidneys

Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a Cause Cure—not a Symptom Cure.

It is a common mistake to take artificial dietaries for stomach troubles—or heart stimulants for weak heart—or so-called kidney remedies for diseased kidneys. These organs do not act separately or of their own accord—they have no control over themselves—and not once in 800 times is the sickness the fault of the organ. It is the fault of the nerves which control the organs—and only through these nerves can stomach, heart or kidney troubles be cured. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a powerful medicine that acts on the nerves, and restores them to their normal condition. It cures all cases of indigestion, heartburn, nervousness, insomnia, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism, and all other ailments of the nervous system. It is a safe and reliable remedy, and is recommended by all druggists.

RECORDS FARTHEST NORTH

Great Hardships of Trip—Incessant Battles With Ice, Storms and Head Winds—Message From Hopedale, Labrador, Tells of Explorer's Adventures—Point Reached 203 Miles of the North Pole.

New York, Nov. 3.—The United States navy holds the record of "farthest north," 87 degrees 6 minutes. This feat was accomplished by Commander Robert E. Peary of the United States navy. What Commander Peary did, and his experiences during the past year in the frozen north, are briefly but vividly summarized in a communication received by Herbert L. Bridgeman, secretary of the Peary Arctic Club. This communication follows:

"Hopedale, Labrador (via Twillingate, Newfoundland), Nov. 2.—To Herbert L. Bridgeman: "Roosevelt wintered north coast of Greenland, somewhat north of Alert's winter quarters. Went north with sledges in February via Hecla and between 84th and 85th degrees. Beyond 86th six days. Gale disrupted, ice destroyed coaches, cut off communication with supporting bodies, and drifted north latitude, over ice, drifting eight days eastward. Returning at eight dogs. Drifted eastward and delayed by open water; reached north coast of Greenland in straightened conditions. Killed musk oxen and returned along Greenland coast to ship. Two supporting parties were driven on north coast of Greenland. One rescued by me in starving condition. After one week recuperation on Roosevelt sledged west, completing north coast of Greenland, and reached our land, near 100th meridian. Home ward voyage incessant battle with ice, storms and head winds. Roosevelt magnificent ice fighter and sea boat. No deaths or illness in expedition. (Signed) Peary." Over a Year Gone.

P.)—The Admiralty is considering a scheme to make a further use for the navy service of the maritime population of the colonies, and is prepared to establish a training ship in every convenient port where a division of the Royal Naval Reserve is formed, and to appoint drill instructors and the necessary officers and staff from the navy.

Passing Away of a Woman Pioneer of Manitoba.

(Winnipeg Free Press, Oct. 6.)

In the death of Mrs. John Campbell, in this city, on October 1, the west lost a pioneer. Mrs. Campbell was one of the noble band of women whose brave soul and dauntless spirit overcame the privations and hardships which were known and felt when the west was young. Mrs. Campbell was the daughter of James Campbell, a Major-General in the British Army and a pioneer himself of Ontario. Eldon was the place of birth of this lady, sixty-three years ago. In 1872 she accompanied her husband to Fort Garfield, a mail fur trading post. She lived to see the growth of a city of one hundred thousand souls where but a scattered "back" community once lived.

Some twenty years ago Mrs. Campbell, with her husband moved to the Morris district from Dunsford, Ont., where they took up land, and the first settlers, on the river plains. The energy and ability of this woman characterized her every day life, brought to her compensation and wealth which she had just begun to enjoy when the hand of death was laid on her brow. Having been laid on in every sense of the word, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell had given up the more strenuous life of the farm, and a year ago removed to Winnipeg, intending to settle down here and enjoy life's evening.

But the call came and friends and neighbors, who had tangibly expressed their esteem for this splendid woman of the plains in many ways, bade her last good-bye with unfeigned sorrow.

Mrs. Campbell's remains were laid to rest in Brookside cemetery on Wednesday, Oct. 3, Rev. Dr. DuVal, Rev. C. Mackinnon and Rev. Mr. Bennett, of Morris, and Rev. Mr. Bennett, of Morris, were attending by a large number of friends and acquaintances, and the pallbearers were selected from the same circle of friends, being Hugh A. Ure, family friend, being Hugh A. Ure, Dr. Ure, (Morris), C. Stewart and J. Fisher.

The deepest sympathy is felt for the bereaved husband, and the Free Press expresses its regret that one so intimately connected with our city in its early days should not have lived to enjoy the reward which her willing hand and warm heart had won so well.

INTERESTING FARM NOTES

BALKING HORSES.

The vice of balking is not a specially common one but stands out plainly as the most annoying weakness possible for horse flesh to display. Reams may be written as to what to do and all the remedies may fail. Proper consideration would look at once to the cause, especially in a young horse, and if this be done it will be found that in ninety-nine per cent. of the cases, the origin of the trouble is in putting on too much load. Colt-breakers should never be in a hurry to complete any job nor should colts be rushed at the first work that comes along, no matter how busy the season or short the help.

Naturally the draft-bred colt needs the least breaking and possibly on that account less care need be taken with him. In the case of horses of trotting breed or less "high strung" lineage being broken to pull the driver must be forever on the lookout. It is a very easy matter to make such a horse balky. One of the easiest ways to do this is to hitch him with some other horse that is much slower. The younger one being the faster and more ambitious is continually surging ahead and as continually being taken back. Unless the driver has unlimited patience—a characteristic rarely seen in any but the owner—he will after a time, long or short, do some yanking at the youngster and the trouble looms like the headlights of a locomotive approaching at the rate of 60 miles an hour.

As to the matter of curing a balking horse once the habit has become fixed many men tell many stories. The most ridiculous, cruel and inhuman acts have been credited with success, but once a balker, always a balker comes pretty near fitting the case. However, as there is no infallible rule and as patience that never gives out coupled with good management alone may be said to hold forth any hope of ultimate and permanent success, the writer would advise the owner of the colt which shows signs of becoming balky to abstain from using him in any wheeled vehicle for some time. Instead hitch him to a light sled, giving him enough advantage on the sledge so he will be able to do his share of the work easily and comfortably. Then if he does well—and the probability is that he will—the transition to the wagon may be gradual. The writer can only offer such measures remedial as he has successfully tested and seen tested. He once cured a mare by using her this way in the middle of a tray for a whole year and eventually hitched her to the wagon in the tray, then to the bolts drawing on the sledge and when spring came and the mare horse was taken off, she went all right. It was a mean job, but it paid.

Another point to be considered is condition. Many a colt has balked simply because he was poor and run down, without ambition and generally in better shape for the knacker's yard than his breaking harness. Always see to it that young horses are in good flesh and spirit when the breaking process is begun.

Again, the ridiculous idea of "bitching a colt up and driving him right off like an old horse" is all buncombe. A man who knows no more than to bridle a horse and try such capers ought to get into trouble. Some have succeeded but they are the exceptions and when these instances are looked up it is generally found that the real breaking has been done consciously or unconsciously in some other way. A colt's mouth is a very tender thing. It should be thoroughly toughened before any driving is attempted. It should be perfectly accustomed to it and a close watch should be kept to see that the collar and straps all fit (neither too free nor too bind).

For a Man and His Wife to Work on Farm

Eight dollars a week.
Free house.
All the potatoes they could eat.
One quart of milk each day.
All the apples they could eat.
A farmer came in from York county this morning and visited the immigrant office at the Union Station. He said, "I want to hire a man and his wife. I will give him $8 a week, a free house, potatoes, one quart of milk a day, and all the apples they can eat." After making this announcement the visitor waited a while, but there was no response from the crowd. Then he asked "Is that not good enough?"

Then one from amongst the crowd remarked, "How about the beer?"

"No," said the farmer, "I have made my offer and it stands. There will be no improvement on it."
