Un in Stratford a clergyman in his public to judge which was the most satisfactory visage.

Using this occurrence as an excase, the Toronto Star gives us some practical and interesting relections upon the subject of faces and heads generally. "After all is said and done, faces do not count for very much. It is only in story books that the boy with 'a frank open countenance is stopped on the street by the childless old man, sent to college and made the heir to a large fortune. Some very rascally people are wear-ing frank open countenances at the present time of writing. The visitor to the Central Prison will be surprised to see the number of good added that a prominent Toronto clerstrange pulpit and faced a congrebut the inside of a man's head that counts. It is not the dial that makes a clock good or bad; it is the works. In addressing a meeting of farmers the other night a lecturer told of two men living near each other and owning orchards of equal size, yet one sold his fruit on the tree for $1,006, and the other sold his for $100. Both these men had heads, and perhaps their countenances were equally pleasing to the eye, but one of them only used the cutside of his head-used it to see, speak and hear with and to feed himself through, but not to think with. He did not caltivate his orchard and spray his trees. Some fine looking men got through the world prosperously by relying entirely on the outside of their heads. They look wiser and greater than they are and go through life at a high premium, but everybody cannot do this. Young persons usually have faith in physiognomy, but experience with men teaches them that except for some flaring indications of character that mark some countenances, the outside of a man's head may rereal nothing of the quality or voltage of the works within."

Belleville Ontario: The great fault that we find with the Board of Water Commissioners (not the individuals composing it, out the system of management) is its complete independence of the Council and perple. It is a very important department of the city's business, and we do not think it should be conducted with such absolute secrecy as the Comsioners have seen fit to adopt. However, the question has reached the point at which we wanted it to arrive when we first broached the matter last spring. It is before the recople, and if the majority of the ratersyers want the change made it will be made.

Toronto Star : The issue that confronts the Sons of Temperance, the Dominion Alliance and all such organications is this: Being anable to reach immediate prohibition, will they refuse to accept temperance? They have secured in Toronto some thing they were not seeking, and because it is not exactly what they sought, will they throw it aside? The iron is hot for a blow in favor of the greater restriction of the sale of intoxicants, and by an unreasonable attitutde at this time prohibitionists may repel the advances of thousands of recpie who favor reform but not revolution. What can be gained right now-with the aid of those who are not in favor of p-ohibition-is the enactment into law of the principle that a barroom must have a better reason for existence than a thirst for drink in the neighborhood where it is located. Let us explode the theory that because a bar can sell liquor enough to support it, then its existence is justified. We fully believe that if the prohibitionists will direct their eliforts to practical ends they can cut off at once fifty baroom licenses in the city of Toronto. This will be one of those practicable reforms that wili prove so successful that it wili quickly lead to others. There are a dozen other practical advantages to be got from the rresent situation, and we hore they are not to be thrown away.

The Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York has addressed a stronglyworded circular to the liquor dealers of his flock, calling attention to the pronunciamento of the third plenary council of his church against the liquor traffic. His Grace says that to the consideration of the means of reformation to be used, the members of the council devoted a whole chapter of the proceedings of the Council -"a chapter of sad but salutary reading." A feature of this chapter was the admonition to the liquor dealers to get out of the business, to "choose some more honorable way of making a living." If they found it impossible to quit it they should remove the occasion of sin from themselves and from others by not selling to minors or those who go to excess, by keeping their saloons closed upon the Lord's Day, by prohibiting on the premises blasphemy, cursing and scene language. "But if," says the Archbishop, "through their action, or with their co-operation, religion is dishonored and men are led to ruin let them remember that there is an Avenger in heaven who will certainly demand of them a terrible retribution." The Archbishop uses very strong language, but he probably found none other would be equal to the oceasion.

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH AT PENE-TANGUISHENE IS DEDICATED.

The Story Told of Fathers Jean de Breboeuf and Gabriel Lallement.

Penetanguishene, Dec. 12. - Two A meeting for the purpose of re- hundred and seventy-live years ago Father Jean de Breboeuf and Father Gabrief Lallement, two Jesuit missipnaries, were matryred at the stake near Penetanguishene. The fiends who martyred them were the Iroquois Indians, whom they had endeproved to reach with the Gospei of Peace and Plenty. To-day, St. pro tem, and Mr. H. J. Noswarthy | Apne's memorial church, a magnificent stone building, stands a monument to the two men who gave their lives for the cause of missions. The ceremony of dedicating the church took place yesterday, and was a most impressive one. Archbishop O'Conner, Bishops O'Connor and McEvay, and many other of the distinguished clergy and laity of the arriving here from Terento on a special train.

The church was begun on Sept. 5. 1886, when the corner-stone was laid by his Grace the late Archbishop Lymch. The site chosen was the most prominent in this old historic town. > The name of Father de Breboeuf stands prominent in the roll of honor in Jesuit missions. The story of his almost surerhuman achievements in the evangelization of the Huron Indians and of his terrible death was told to the great gathering by Rev. Father Jones, S.J., of St. Mary's College, Montreal, the authority upon the history of Catholicism in this

tion and execution

Father de Breboeuf kissed the stake which was to be finally the instrument of his death. A girdle of pine knote was put about his massive frame and lighted, and he still continued to exhort his companions A necklace of hot axeheads was hung over his shoulders, and when he continued to pray to his companions to be strong in the faith, the enraged Iroquois cut out his tongue, and when his heart was out out and death came, the Indians drank his blood, in the hope that they might become as brave as he had been. The next day they brought out the frail and heroic Lallement, and his soul, too, went back to heaven. The speaker dealt with each lo-

first Iroquois attack as taking place on the east half of lot 4, of the seventh concessions of Tay, a most interesting discovery made recently. The cremony of blessing the church was a most impressive one. His Grace Archbishop O'Conner recited a prayer at the main entrance, and then, with the clergy and altar boys, marched in processional order around the edifice, sprinkling the walls with holy water. The procession was followed into the church by the congregation, and the ceremony of sprinkling the interior walls and blessing the altar and ornaments was proceeded with by his Grace. The holy sacrifice of the Mass was celebrated, Bishop O'Connor, of Petecboro, contificating, with Vicar-Dean Egan as deacon, Father Beau-Grace assisted at the Mass in cope and miter. Two sermons were preached, one in French by the Rev. Father Allward, S.J., of Montreal, and one in English by Rev. Father

A Lively Runaway.

A team of horses belonging to a farmer named Thos. Devell, who resides near Mount Horeb, maused, some exictement on Kent-st. last Friday afternoon. They were being driven east on Kent-st. about 4 o'clock, and when near Sylvester's foundry the animals took fright at some object and made a dash for liberty. After crossing the railway track the animals separated from the bob-sleigh, but young Devell held fast to the reins and was dragged as far as the market, where the reins broke. The spirited team ran down Kent-st. at a lively gait, turning south on Lindsay-st., but were stopped near Dr. White's residence. Young Devell escaped injury, but the horses were cut and the harness and steighs badly wrecked.

Chapter of Accidents,

-Mr. B. Cook, of Ridout-st., met with a painful mishap as the was coming up street last week.
