-Ottawa parents have voted twd to one in favor of home work for the pupils of Public Schools. That is not surprising, although some people seem to think it is. The parents probably feel that a reasonable amount of home study is of advantage to their children, and they think they are the best judges as to what should be set. When teachers and parents co-operate, as they should, home work will not be abused.

mention of Saturday night's sleet building Mr. Kennedy was very much storm. This was inexcusable, for it was the means of inducing the ungodly in our mids to display acircum-spection in their daily walk that was not surpassed by the pastors of our churches or the elders of congregations. Sidewalks and roads roads were covered with a coating of ice about half an inch in thickness, and walking was almost an impossible feat. Many fell by the wayside, but only a couple of trivial injuries were recorded.

Business Education Free Fares A business education in these days of commercial activity is one of the necessities of the young people of our country. Many up-to-date institutions now supply this need, and as an evidence of the success of students, the Federal Business Colleges point to the fact that ninety-nine per cent. of their advanced graduates for the year now closing have been appointed to good positions. Mr. Houston informs us that he will allow railway fares to all students registering for a full course before Jan 2nd, distance not to exceed 100 miles. For further particulars write the Federal College, Lindsay, Ont .- w1.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE KENNEDY DAVIS MILLING COMPANY

Now Carries a Costly Gold-headed Cane, Suitably inscribed.

On the evening of Dec. 20th Mr. Robt. Kennedy was asked by one of his employes to go over to the graining room of the painted lumber department, where a gentleman wish--In our Monday's issue we omitted ed to see him. Upon entering the surprised to be greeted by loud cheers from about fifty of his men, who had previously gathered there to express to him in a practical way their appreciation of the uniform fairness which characterizes all his dealings with them. Mr. Kennedy was asked to take a position in the centre of the room, when the foreman read the following address:

Robt. Kennedy, esq., Lindsay; Dear Mr. Kennedy - This season (1 reace and good will mellows the heart and turns the mind unto thoughts of kindness. Moved by this spirit, we, your employees, wish to express to you our esteem for you rersonally, and to assure you of our appreciation of your fairness and kindness in our mutual dealings. token thereof we ask you to accept the accompanying cane, coupled with the hope that, while its use may keer our good will aiways fresh in your mind, it may be long before you need it as a staff to lean upon -Signed on behalf of the men. Geo. Burton, C. Dagenais.

After the rearing of the above address Mr. Kennedy, who is of Irish descent, and whose nationality came to his rescue upon this occasion, in a short but pithy address thanked the men for this expression of their kindly feelings towards him. complimented them by saying he was proud to be their employer, as he believed them to be the equal in every way of any staff employed by any other firm in town. He appreciated the gift, not so much fon its money value as for the expression of the relationship that existed between them and the firm. He said he was always glad to see his men prospering, and expressed the desire to do for them, in the future even better than he had drue in the past. He valued the gift, more than if he had received it from the rich. because they had given it out of their hard earnings. In conclusion he expressed the hope that nothing would arise in the future to mar the good feeling which now existed be. tween them, and hored that might never have occasion to use the cane as a rod of correction.

Another Presentation. After all assembled had enjoyed a treat prepared for the occasion, Mr. Burton, foreman, was asked to ster forward, when Mr. Hussey read the following address: To Mr. George Burton, Foreman, Kennedy & Davis Milling Co.,

HONORED BY HIS EMPLOYES Company under your immediate orto place on record an unqualified expression of the high esteem, respect and regard we entertain for you. Your genial disposition, respect and regard for the feelings of others, have earned for you cur respect and

We beg you to accept this casy chair as a slight token of the esteem and respect we have now feebly attempted to express, hoping that after your daily labors you may often find this a source of comfort and res' as you sit by your own fireside and remember the occasion of this gift. - On behalf of the employees, Wm. Hussey, Duncan Fisher, Wm.

Conlin, Isaac Miller, George Graham, James M. Kennedy. Although Mr. Burton was very much surprised he replied in a very suitable manner, thanking the men for their generous gift. He spoke of the kindly feeling which had existed between them, and said that, nlthough he had been foreman for three different firms, where many men were employed, yet his present position was most congenial because of the character of the men and their The crowd then dispersed after singing the old-time song, 'For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and wishing each other the compliments of the

The Christmas Farmer's Advocate. "The Golden Fields are waving. The sun sets golden red:

A sleeping Empire's waking, An Empire's day is breaking. maiden Empire's making A mother Empire's bread."

The above lines were written by Cy. Warman, the clever American author who makes his home in Canada, for the beautiful colered frontispiece of the Christmas Farmer's Advocate, of London, Ont., to which the readers of that every popular periodical have been treated. Some idea of the magnitude of the issue may be seen from the fact that it actually required over 161-2 tons of paper to print it! Some 30 or 40 speciallywritten articles on every phase agriculture and kindred themes, by the most eminent writers on this continent and in Great Britain, appear in its 80 pages, which are embellished with over 100 photogravures and reproductions of many of the best of something of interest and value. congratulate the Farmer's Advocate on its success, and the farming interests of this country on having such a splendid exponent, With a large competent staff, thoroughly understanding the practical needs of all departments of agriculture, the Advocate has laid plans for 1903 that make it indispensable to the man who wants a reliable and high-class farm paper at a very modest outlay.
