Dear Sir,-As the question of how

for the citizens of Lindsay is noder discussion, will you kindly permit me to offer a small item of information in regard to artesian wells. A few months ago we required a supply of water for building purposes, and as the town water was not sufficiently near we were obliged to sink a well in the old-fashioned manner, and succeeded in getting a quantity of water for the work in progress, but it was very far from being fit for family use Recently we engaged the services of Mr. A. Mosely (the man who labored on a test well for the town some years ago to search the depths below for a living spring, and if possible to pierce it with his massive drill and bring it to the surface. For days he went on pounding and thumpig, (one would have almost thought he was endeavoring to steal a march into Mr. D. C.
