THE TORONTO DISMISSALS.

I It has been charged - and with much plausibility-that Messrs. In order to relieve the tension and reassure the liquor men of the province tuc brewers decided to make full use of their vast influence and demand the heads of the Commissioners. In effeet the Government have been warned that a strict enforcement of the liquor law will not be tolerated by those engaged in the traffic

The Toronto Weekly Sun has the following to say regarding the probable effects of the numerous dismissals made by the Whitney Government:

At the same time The Sun does not justify the dismissals which took place last week. There seems to flave been something approaching a sweep of those authorized to issue marriage licenses and of Division Court officers as well. This, instead of satisfying the appetite of a horde of hungry office-seekers, has merely whetted these appetites, and mow there is a renewal of the demand far higher game in the form of the county offices and offices in the de-

"Official returns show that when Sir Oliver Mowat resigned the Premiership in July, 1896, there were still no less than thirty-seven out of sixty-four officers of the Ontario permanent civil service who had been appointed before he became Premier in November, 1872. Of the remaining twenty-seven twenty had been superannuated, and one had been dismissed."-Biggar's Life of Sir Oliver

And the Hamilton Times asks: How many Liberal officials would be found in office after thirty-seven years of Whitneyism, think you?

The New York Herald says that the Department of Commerce and Labor has issued a statement in which is asserted that there is no doubt that the English on the average have one-third more to spend than the French, and all things being equal, more money is earned in England than in France. Further, the cost of living in England is far less than it is in France. The contrary from operating hotels by loaning high tariff in France and free trade money to proprietors and binding in England have produced their rethem to use only their particular | sults. > In the November number of the Fortnightly Review Mr. Benjamin Taylor has an interesting paper on "The Housing of the Poor." dealing with the problem as it is found in Glasgow. From it it is learned that the chief difficulty lies with the shiftless poor, the profligate class, those who will not work, the great majority of whom are poor entirely through their own fault. A Municipal Commission was appointed over tion on the subject. It was found that one cause of the difficulty in housing the poor was to be found in the fact that hundreds of houses in commodation being provided for those evicted. One witness, a buildbuilders' waggs had been increased about 80 per cent, while the cost of living was much lower, except the charge for rent.
