EDIBLE AND POISONOUS MUSHROOMS.

A Valuable Treatise on the Subject, Written for The Post by Mr. Ross N. Leggett, Lindsay, for the Guidance of Collectors.

The indoor cultivation of mushrooms is an undertaking attended by a great many failures, but they are entirely owing to wrong conditions, and improper methods. The entire operation is simple, but great care must be used to insure success. In the cultivation of ordinary plants almost any sort of treatment will yield results, but not so with mushrooms. They require certain exact conditions of soil and manipulation, and these conditions must be complied with.

There are almost as many theories and methods regarding the cultivation of mushrooms as there are cultivators of experience, but in this paper I shall give those which are in general use, and which have been demonstrated to be successful by years of practice.

The extent of your beds must be governed by the amount of available space suitable to the growth of the plants. The best conditions exist in a well ventilated, dry cellar, free from drafts. The temperature should never fall below 59 degrees F., nor rise above 65 degrees F. The beds may be made directly on the floor, or in boxes of suitable size for moving and handling. Or an old chest of drawers makes a first-rate mushroom bed. For the cellar cultivation of mushrooms on a small scale, probably the most convenient method is the use of boxes four feet long, two feet wide and eighteen inches deep. By the use of boxes the curing of the beds may all be done out of doors and not taken into the cellar until all disagreeable odors have disappeared. It is erroneously supposed by many that the presence in the cellar of some mushroom beds would cause unpleasant and unwholesome odors to permeate the entire house. If the manure composing the beds is properly cured, no unwholesome emanations are given off, and the little odor noticeable near the beds is of a sweet mushroomy character.

To the curing of the manure and the preparation of the beds is where nearly all failures are traceable, and in this great care should be exercised. Use only fresh horse manure as free as possible from straw and other refuse. Do not take it from a pile that has been standing two or three days, but be sure it is fresh. Make manure into piles according to the amount to be used, but not less than three feet deep. Thrust well into the pile a thermometer, and do not allow the temperature to rise above 130 degrees F.

Your Throat. Gargles can't go back far enough, sprays don't reach deep enough; but the air you breathe touches every part. Then why not put some healing medicine in the air and let them go along together? That is what Vapo-Cresoline is for. It puts the healing medicine right on the places that most need it. You now see why it so quickly cures sore throat, bronchitis, hoarseness, whooping-cough and asthma.

C. P. R. SHORT GRAIN ROUTE. WAS A HIGH CLASS CONCERT

SURVEY WORK BEGUN ON PETERBORO-MIDLAND LINE.

New Line Will Form Junction With Main C. P. R. Line at Peterboro. (Peterboro Examiner.)

The survey of the new grain route of the C. P. R. from Midland to Peterboro will be commenced to-morrow. The survey party of sixteen members arrived last night, and are staying at the National hotel.

Mr. Gourlay, head of the party, states that they will at once begin operations working westward from Peterboro. The undertaking of the survey is a large one, and the greater part of the winter will be occupied with it. A second party, working from Midland, will commence operations after Christmas and will meet that working from here.

The definite announcement that the line will join the main line of the C. P. R. at Peterboro will be heard with general satisfaction by the citizens, and the immense accompanying advantages will be at once apparent.

The short route proposal has been one much mooted for some time past, and though it has been a practical assured fact that the line would be constructed the exact location was not definitely known. It has, in the past, been to a considerable extent handicapped in the handling of grain in the eastern territory by reason of the fact that they had no harbour on Georgian Bay where the transfer of the cargoes of the great lakes boats might be effected with facility.

The traffic on the new line will be a heavy one, and the advantages locally of having the junction with the main line located here can scarcely be over-estimated. The survey party has been engaged in Western Ontario, and have moved to Peterboro from Stratford, where they recently finished a survey.

DANGER IN DECORATIONS.

Timely Caution Issued by Fire Underwriters' Association.

The danger to life and property involved in many Christmas decorations and displays is being urged upon store keepers by the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association. Mr. John A. Robertson, the secretary, points out that it is impossible to make perfectly safe displays in which Christmas greens, harvest specimens, draperies, cotton to represent snow, and such like are used, especially when in connection with light or electric wires. This warning applies to school decorations as well. The danger to life in crowded stores or meeting places in case of panic occasioned by a fire is very great.

If a fire occurs from such cause the loss would probably fall on the owner or occupant, as a display of the kind is an increase of hazard and the third of the statutory conditions which voids them if chances material to the risk but within the control of the assured are not notified to the company.

Circulars issued to clerks of municipalities call attention to the necessity of having fire-lighting appliances in order at all times. At this time of year care should be taken to prevent accidents about the tanks, and fire halls should be kept heated to preserve apparatus in good order. Frequently fire which would have been tried and extinguished had it not been for a reduction in the fire-works by greater care.

BABY CAME NEAR DYING

From an Awful Skin Humour—Scratched Till Blood Ran—Wasted to Skeleton—Hands Like Claws—Cuticura Brings Blessed Relief and Speedy Cure.

"When my little boy was three months old his head broke out with a rash, which was very itchy and ran considerable watery fluid. We tried everything we could think of, but he got worse all the time till it spread to his arms, legs, and then to his entire body, and he came near dying. It itched so he would scratch till the blood ran, and a thin yellowish stuff would be all over his skin in the cradle. We tried to put mittens on his hands to keep him from tearing his skin. He got so weak he took fainting spells, and we would think him dying. He was almost a skeleton and his little hands were thin like claws."

"He was bad about eight months when we tried Cuticura. I had not laid him down in his cradle in the daytime for a long time. He had got so that he just slept in our arms all the time. I washed him with Cuticura Soap and put on one application of Cuticura Ointment and he was so soothed that I put him in the cradle. You don't know how glad I was when he felt better. It took one box of Cuticura Ointment, one cake of Cuticura Soap, and about half a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent to cure. I think he would have died only for the Cuticura. —Mrs. M. C. Maitland, Jasper, Ont."

No return in 14 years: Mrs. Maitland writes, under date of Feb. 24, 1905: "It affords me pleasure to say that it is fourteen years since my boy was cured of the terrible skin disease. He has been permanently cured and is hearty and strong."

ENGLISH GRAND CONCERT CO. PLEASED EVERYONE

A Large Audience Present—Prof. Jackson to be Congratulated.

The music-loving people of Lindsay were last week given a rare treat in the Academy of Music, the occasion being the appearance of the English Grand Concert Company. A very representative and appreciative audience was present, and was well pleased with the splendid program presented—even if the soprano, Miss Hope Morgan, was a prevented, through illness, from singing. However, the audience was more than pleased with Miss Helen Davies, of St. Paul's choir, Peterboro, who kindly consented to sing, and although those present were no doubt disappointed at the non-appearance of Miss Morgan, Miss Davies' singing left nothing to be desired from a musical point of view, and filled the gap most admirably. Her several numbers, "Love the Deed," by Edward German; "Orpheus with his Lute," Sullivan; and "Enchantment," by Mascagni, were all given with that excellence of technique and sweetness of voice for which she is noted.

In Madame Beatrice Langley, those interested in music in Lindsay get the best violinist ever seen here, and to those, more or less students of this kind of instruments, it was the treat of a lifetime. Madame Langley had a large share of the work, and although a difficult number it was rendered in a smooth, rich tone, her superb bowing being a masterpiece. Her playing of the first was strong and brilliant and marked with fine interpretative instinct, and nothing could excel her in interpretation of the chaminade composition, the brightness and tuneful qualities of this French writer's compositions being always enjoyed. Miss Meggy played the accompaniments for the other artists of the company throughout the evening with sympathetic perfection and faultless execution.

At the close of the concert Mr. Stanley Adams sang with fine effect "Canada Forever," the music of which was composed by Prof. W. H. Jackson. The music lovers of town were unanimous in expressions of gratitude to Prof. Jackson for his pluck and enterprise in securing the performance of the English Grand Concert Company.

Benefit of Good Roads. Ontario is going to spend $150,000 this year on the betterment of the old and established roads. No other investment will pay better interest. A good road means more money in the farmer's pocket for the goods he carries over it, and a longer life for his wagons and horses. To the town dweller it offers a delightful chance for carriage exercises, and will entice the automobiles and the cyclist farther afield. Europe could better do without its railways than without its net-work of good roads.
