December...

is the acknowledged Holiday month.

Bountiful greetings for the last days of 1899. The ebb and flow of every day's buying marks the growth of this store's output, and the appreciation of those who are constantly coming to swell its numbers. This month promises to surpass every other December we have known. Look over our list and decide where you will buy your

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, DEC. 8, 1899

FRAUDS IN APPLE EXPORTS

Toronto Star: The British consumer and purchaser of Canadian produce has a charge of petty theft to lay against some unscrupulous apple packers. Barreled apples have been sold in Great Britain, and commanded good prices as being of standard quality and full quantity, but occasionally barrels have been opened that contained old boots, blocks of wood and such rubbish. The top and bottom of a barrel would convey every indication of honest picking, but four or five of the layers down the fraud would be discovered. The British merchant has complained to the Minister of Trade and Commerce of this deception practiced in Canada.

It will take but a few instances of the improper packing of apples to give Canadian exporters an unenviable reputation in the English market. Complaints such as have reached Ottawa will be generally advertised and the effect of even one instance of deception will be far-reaching. Any apple packer who will load up a barrel of apples with rubbish is not robbing the purchaser of the apples as much as he is robbing himself. The fraud can be traced but the danger is that opprobrium is expressed against the entire community of which the short-sighted dealer is a member.

The duty of providing against all deceptions, that may be disastrous to Canadian trade, lies with the government, and it is warranted in passing strict penalties against all transgressors of honest business methods.

A CANADIAN THIEF.

(Chicago Daily Tribune, Nov. 24.)

For the benefit of its Canadian contemporaries, who have doubtless marveled at the enterprise displayed by the Toronto Mail and Empire in printing daily special cable dispatches from London, containing the news and editorial views of the London Times, The Tribune desires to state that such cables have been stolen from it by the Mail and Empire. Sometimes they have been stolen for simultaneous publication; more frequently they have been stolen the day after publication given a false date, and palmed off on the Mail and Empire's readers as cables "hot from the wire."

The fact that the Mail and Empire knows the Tribune's exclusive Times cable to be a good thing is shown by a letter from one of its editors asking if the Tribune would sell this service. But that paper—which has been one of the loudest howlers in the Canadian chorus charging Americans with pirating English literature—evidently thought it cheaper to steal than to buy. The question of honor apparently did not enter into the transaction. Steps have been taken which will either deprive the Mail and Empire's readers of this news or daily brand it a news thief of the most pronounced type.

The Toronto Telegram of Tuesday had the following to say in relation to the above charge:

It is not surprising that the Chicago Tribune should be indignant at the Toronto Mail and Empire, which appropriates the results of its special telegraphic service without credit. The surprise is that the Tribune should be surprised at the Mail's exposure of itself in the customary attitude of a reaper who other journals have sown, the appropriator of the results of others' journals' liberality. If the Chicago Tribune knew the Mail as well as the journal is known in Toronto, there would be no outburst of United States indignation in Chicago. The Telegram spends a great deal of money on special cables, and the Mail spends a great deal of care and labor in appropriating those special cables without a word of credit to indicate the source of the news which enriches its barren columns.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Will somebody please tell Oom Paul that the Sardinian has arrived and the young lions are sharpening their claws.

The Montreal Star is championing the reimpement of the duty on binder twine. The combine for which it pleads is not satisfied with conditions under which the business paid 60 to 100 per cent. profit.

The remains of Mrs. Marie Melins, widow of the pioneer Milwaukee brewer, were a few days ago sent from Germany by mail. That suggests a new convenience offered by the cremation system. No double fare, either, simply parcel post rates.

One of the transports that is nearing or has arrived at a South African port carried 1,276 lyddite shells for the British howitzer batteries. It is said that one shell will almost annihilate a regiment in close formation. An early acquaintance with them may tend to make Boer converts to peace.

Three things should parents be careful of. What their children see, what their children hear, and what their children read. Set a good example in word and deed, be careful of the papers and books you give your children and the problem of the young people will be greatly simplified.—Presbyterian Review.

If parents took a proper interest in their children's morals and habits society at large would be immensely the gainer, both in character and money. The difficulty seems to be that too many fathers and mothers busy themselves in regulating other people's children to the neglect of their own, or to the neglect of the true reform required in the home. The parents must mould character, for the state must suffer.

Dundas Banner: Mr. Ross says the claim that when there is a reform government at Ottawa, there should be a conservative government at Toronto, is absurd. He sums it up by saying that there should be good government at both places, and this the country is enjoying. The claim that the government at Ottawa should be of a different stripe to that of the provinces was never heard of when the Ottawa government and the Quebec government were both conservative.

The news that the business of Harper & Brothers, the great New York publishers, has to be surrendered to creditors, with liabilities of more than $5,000,000, including a mortgage of $3,500,000, will be a surprise to many, who had supposed the old house to be prosperous and wealthy. The firm was organized three-quarters of a century ago, its membership consisting first of two and then of four brothers, James, John, Wesley and Fletcher Harper, sons of a Long Island farmer. Before the middle of the century they were the leading publishers in America, and they have always done a large business. Of course, the original members of the firm are long since dead.

PROVINCIAL BY-ELECTIONS.

The Liberal Party's Platform.

The by-elections to fill the vacancies in the Ontario legislature are to be held right away, and more interest attaches to them than the numerical strength of the two parties in the local house is probably evenly balanced and the contingencies themselves are close enough to make a fight interesting. But while the election is being fought, are declaring with all the earnestness of apparent conviction, that they have the fate of the Ross administration at their mercy, the electors are intelligently considering the situation, giving attention, not only to the twenty-seven year of an honest and progressive past, but also to an equally honest and progressive future. That program contains fifteen principal planks, everyone of which is in complete accord with the principles of sound liberalism as so long interpreted and practiced by the provincial administration. They are as follows:

To make a full and impartial investigation into all the charges of corruption reported by the Judges at election trials.

To ascertain the exact financial position of the province by a commission of experienced men, and to open up New Ontario by trunk colonization roads and railways in order to make homes for the sons of Ontario, who otherwise might seek a home in another province or under a foreign flag.

To make a thorough survey of the province north of the Canadian Pacific Railway to Hudson Bay, covering an area of over 100,000,000 acres. To apply a reasonable portion of the waste lands of the province in aid of railways—the lands to revert to the Crown if not settled within a limited time.

To extend the arable lands by draining swamp lands, now reported as amounting to 3,000,000 acres.

To develop the agricultural resources of old Ontario by encouraging better methods of farming, making larger grants to farmers' institutes, dairy schools, and by a more practical education in agriculture in the schools of the province.

To preserve the perishable products of the farm and dairy, such as butter and cheese, for a suitable market by the establishment of cold storage and collecting stations all over the province.

To assist the Dominion government in obtaining the quick and cheap transportation of the products of the farm and workshop to the markets of Great Britain, and to improve local means of transportation within the province by means of good roads and cheap railways.

To improve the practical education of the artisan classes by the establishment of technical schools, as is now being done in England and the United States.

To promote the manufacture of all natural products such as lumber, copper, nickel, etc., into the finished product within the province.

To insist upon the control of all local rights and franchises, so far as practicable by municipalities to which they properly belong.

To maintain with a firm hand the rights of Ontario against the Dominion or against any other outside province. To enforce all laws enacted for the protection of public morality with firmness and impartiality.

To maintain the efficiency of our system of education and to administer the same in the interests of the whole people, irrespective of class and creed.

Newspapers and Magazines.

—The glory and glow of the fall and the tang of early winter color Outing for December. Its votaries are not deprived of their pleasures because high summer has past. The Wild Fowl in Old Virginia compensates for past pleasures on the prairie. A "Possum Hunt by Night" is as enticing as a fox hunt by day. The Building of an Eagle is a story as pleasurable as building a canoe, and Fishing in the Bahamas no whit less exhilarating than that in the closer waters of earlier seasons. No bird has been earlier seen which would make Outing for December comprehensive, instructive, and interesting: sport afield and afloat, amusement, adventure in foreign lands, travel and the acquisition of health are all comprised within its pages. In the Monthly Review our friend, the Gentlemen's Roadster, has a new department devoted to him.

The Companion's New Calendar.

The Youth's Companion Calendar for 1900 is unique in form and beautiful in design. The oval centerpiece, in high colors and enclosed in a border of flowers, represents "A Dream of Summer," and is supported on either side by an admirably executed figure piece in delicate tints. The whole is a delight in sentiment and in general effect. Larger than any of the previous years' calendars, it is equally acceptable as a work of art. As an ornament to the home it will take a prominent place. The calendar is published exclusively by The Companion. It cannot be obtained elsewhere. It will be given to all new subscribers for 1900, who will also receive, in addition to the fifty-two issues of the remaining weeks of '99, free from the time of subscription, an illustrated Announcement Number containing a full prospectus of the Companion for 1900, will be sent free to any address. THE FORWARD POLICY. U.S. CONGRESS OPENED

Premier Ross Explains His Plans for Developing Ontario.

MR DRYDEN'S MANLY DENIAL.

Minister of Agriculture Gives a Final Denial to Charges of Corruption.—Meetings at Which Ministers Latchford, Davis and Stratton Spoke.—Consultative Committee in School Matters.

Port Perry, Nov. 30.—If the enthusiasm which characterized the splendid meeting held here last night in the interest of Hon. John D. Dryden and addressed by Premier Ross, is any indication of the feeling in the riding, then it is safe to predict that the Minister of Agriculture will be returned by a handsome majority. The Town Hall was filled to overflowing, several hundred persons being compelled to stand. Premier Ross was listened to with keen interest throughout, and at many points in the enunciation of his policy he was interrupted by warm demonstrations of approval. This was Mr. Ross' second visit to the riding within a few weeks, the first being at the convention at Whitby which nominated Mr. Dryden. He elaborated the points of his policy as previously announced, but added a new plank of importance in the form of a proposed consultation committee, whose duty it would be to consult with the Minister of Education on which the Minister desired their views. This had been recently proposed in England. It would be understood, however, that the Minister's responsibility would in no way be lessened thereby. Mr. Whitney had urged the necessity of an advisory board; that he would not grant, but he would allow Mr. Whitney the privilege of naming half the members of the committee. The campaign was waged in the riding, and the Liberals are entering upon it with enthusiasm and a determination that so far as they are concerned it shall be a clean contest.

Mr. Dryden's Manly Denial.

Columbus, Nov. 30.—Hon. John D. Dryden and Mr. Charles Calder, the two candidates for the seat in the Provincial Legislature that represents the electorate of South Ontario, held a joint meeting last night in the hall at Columbus. Mr. Dryden was supported by Mr. George P. Graham, M.P.P., of Brockville, and Mr. Calder by Mr. Thomas Crawford, M.P.P., of Toronto. The hall was packed by the supporters of both candidates. Enthusiasm ran rampant. The entrance to the building was occupied by a few who interrupted the speakers by voicing cries of corruption that were not feebly echoed by a few of the audience. The feature of the meeting was Mr. Dryden's manly and point-blank contradiction of the charges that have so recently been published, with a view to connecting him with the persons charged with operating the corruption machine, and in the South Ontario, but, as Mr. Calder has undertaken to impress upon his constituents, in all of the constituencies throughout the Province where by-elections have taken place since the last local elections.

Latchford and Davis at Oshawa.

Oshawa, Nov. 30.—Hon. E. J. Davis and Hon. F. R. Latchford last night addressed a Liberal meeting that was well attended, despite the fact that many had driven out from here to Columbus to attend the joint meeting of the two candidates. Mr. Davis outlined the forward policy of the Government, more particularly in his own department, and both he and Mr. Latchford were listened to with close attention and frequent applause.

Mr. Stratton in West Elgin.

Dutton, Nov. 30.—The Town Hall was packed last night on the occasion of a meeting in the interests of Mr. Donald Macnish, the Liberal candidate for West Elgin. The chair was occupied by Mr. James Beattie, President of the Provincial Reform Association. Speeches were made by Messrs. George E. Casey, M.P., Candidate Macnish and Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary. Mr. Stratton spoke for nearly two hours, making a masterly address, in which he outlined the progressive policy of Hon. G. W. Ross and the record of the Liberal Government of Ontario. Speaking of saying that the chair was occupied by Mr. James Beattie, President of the Provincial Reform Association. Speeches were made by Messrs. George E. Casey, M.P., Candidate Macnish and Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary. Mr. Stratton spoke for nearly two hours, making a masterly address, in which he outlined the progressive policy of Hon. G. W. Ross and the record of the Liberal Government of Ontario. Ross and the record of the Liberal Government of Ontario.

A BOUNDARY CONFERENCE.

Britain's Business, but Italy Was Invited Out of Courtesy.

Rome, Dec. 5.—The conference here between the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Marquis Visconti Venosta, Commissioner Martin, the British Ambassador, Sir Philip W. Currie, and Mr. James Rennell Rodd, the British Consul-General in Egypt, who was special envoy to King Menelik of Abyssinia in 1897, was solely concerned with the delimitation of the frontiers of Erythraea and the Sudan, and the details of frontier arrangements affecting intercourse between the two territories. It was for Martin, who is Governor of Erythraea, who suggested the expediency of Mr. Rodd's visit in order to adjust and verbally arrange matters. The Associated Press officially informed that Emperor William of Germany was neither consulted nor interested in the arrangement, which was purely one of boundaries, upon which Italy, more as a matter of courtesy than anything else, was consulted. No element of offensive or defensive alliance was considered, and the reports to that effect published in the United States are officially characterized as absolutely untrue.

All the Members Sworn in But Roberts of Utah.

7,000,000 NAMES ON A PETITION

What the Resolution of Mr. Taylor Against the Mormon Representative Contains—Quay's Credentials to the Senate Sent Back—The New Speaker Is David P. Henderson of Iowa.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Seldom, if ever, have such enormous crowds swarmed about the House of Representatives to witness the opening scenes of the session as besieged the doors yesterday. The assembling of a new Congress always attracts a big attendance. Yesterday the proceedings in the case of Representative-elect Roberts, which promised to be exciting and possibly sensational, furnished an additional attraction.

Roberts on Deck.

Shortly before 11 o'clock Mr. Roberts of Utah, in high hat and black frock suit, made his way through the crowd to the members' private lobby. A buzz of comment followed the gentleman from Utah wherever he went, but there was no disrespectful demonstration. Both Houses were called to order at 12 o'clock, the Senate by Mr. Frye of Maine, and the House by its clerk, Mr. McDowell. The Senate sat but a few moments, taking an adjournment until to-day.

Very early in the day a monster petition, said to consist of 7,000,000 names, protesting against the seating of Mr. Roberts, was presented to the hall. It had been collected by a New York newspaper. It consisted of 28 rolls of names, each about two feet in diameter. These rolls were stacked up in the area in front of the clerk's desk, and were viewed with great curiosity.

Quay's Credentials Sent Back.

When the credentials of Matthew S. Quay of Pennsylvania were presented in the Senate they were, on motion, referred to the Committee on Credentials. A number of remonstrances and petitions were presented against Mr. Quay taking his seat, on the ground that his selection as Senator by Governor Stone of Pennsylvania was unconstitutional.

Immediately after roll call in the House the clerk announced that the next order of business was the election of a speaker. Mr. Grosvonts of Ohio, as chairman of the Republican caucus, presented the name of David P. Henderson of Iowa.

Mr. Hay of Virginia, chairman of the Democratic caucus, presented the name of James D. Richardson of Tennessee.

Mr. Ridgely of Kansas nominated John C. Bell of Colorado as the Populist candidate, and Mr. Wilson of Idaho placed Francis G. Newlands of Nevada for the Silver party. Henderson received 177 votes; Richardson 138; Bell 4 and Newlands 2. The clerk announced the election of Mr. Henderson amid great Republican applause.

In accordance with custom the oldest member of the House in point of service, Mr. Harmer of Pennsylvania, administered the oath to the speaker.

Then as the names of the new members were called they appeared at the bar in groups of about a dozen, and there with raised hands were sworn in by the Speaker.

The Mormon Member.

When the name of Brigham H. Roberts was reached, the Utah member-elect proceeded to the speaker's desk and awaited the administration of the oath.

At the same time Representative Taylor of Ohio secured recognition, and protested against the seating of Roberts on the ground that he in Roberts on the ground of his being a polygamist, and not a properly naturalized citizen. Representative McKee of Arkansas followed, with a protest from the Democratic side, saying that this issue was one involving the sacredness of the House, a sentiment that brought an outburst of applause.

Speaker Henderson then addressed Roberts, saying: "Will the gentleman stand aside until the roll call is completed?" Mr. Roberts assented with the statement that in so doing he waived none of his rights.

It was agreed by unanimous consent that the consideration of the Roberts case should go over until to-day, after the reading of the President's message. The swearing in of the remaining members was then concluded.

Mr. Taylor's Resolution.

After the remaining members had been sworn in, Mr. Taylor presented the following resolution:

Whereas it is charged that Brigham H. Roberts, a Representative-elect to the 56th Congress from the State of Utah, is ineligible to a seat in the House of Representatives, and

Whereas such a charge is made through a member of the House, on his responsibility as such member, and on the basis of the reports of public records, affidavits and papers evidencing such ineligibility;

Resolved, That the question of the prima facie right of Brigham H. Roberts to be sworn in as a representative from the State of Utah in the 56th Congress, as well as his final right to a seat therein as such representative, be referred to a special committee of nine members of the House, to be appointed by the Speaker, and until such committee shall report upon and the House decide such question and right, the said Brigham H. Roberts shall not be sworn in, nor be permitted to occupy a seat in this House, and said committee shall have power to send for persons and papers and examine witnesses on oath in relation to the subject matter of this resolution.

The early adjournment of the Senate was out of respect to its late presiding officer, Vice-President Hobart.

After the Roberts matter had been disposed of in the House, the usual committee was appointed to wait on the President and ask if he had anything to communicate to Congress. Then followed the drawing of the seats, which occupied the balance of the session.

Is Roberts an Alien?

The formal memorial and protest against the admission of Brigham H. Roberts to a seat in Congress was circulated in printed form and placed on the desks of members during the day. The main points are that Roberts is not a citizen, since at "all times after 1838 he was and now is a bigamist and polygamist," contrary to the law; that he has been prosecuted and punished for "unlawful cohabitation with more than one woman"; that he was born of British parents within the British realm, and has never renounced his allegiance to Queen Victoria.
