Here's an update on COVID-19 cases in Ontario as well as in the greater Kawarthas region.

Ontario is reporting 92 new cases of COVID-19, which includes cases from Toronto Public Health omitted from yesterday's data. Ontario has had fewer than 100 new daily cases on each of the past 12 days, except for one day. The number of hospitalized patients and patients in ICU also continues to decline, and the number of patients on ventilators has fallen under 10 for the first time since the peak of the pandemic.

In the greater Kawarthas region, there are no new cases to report in Peterborough, Kawartha Lakes, Northumberland, Haliburton, or Prince Edward and Hastings counties. Two additional cases in Haliburton are now resolved, as is one additional case in Prince Edward and Hastings counties.

Since the pandemic began, there have been 100 confirmed positive cases in the Peterborough area (97 resolved with 2 deaths), 177 in the City of Kawartha Lakes (156 resolved with 32 deaths), 26 in Northumberland County (26 resolved with no deaths), 15 in Haliburton County (14 resolved with no deaths), and 44 in Hastings County and Prince Edward County (39 resolved with 5 deaths). The most recent death was reported on May 7 by Hastings Prince Edward Public Health.

Province-wide, there have been 40,459 confirmed cases, an increase of 92 from yesterday's report, with 36,772 (90.9% of all cases) resolved, an increase of 83. There have been 2,788 deaths, an increase of 1 from yesterday, with 1,800 deaths reported in long-term care homes (no change from yesterday). A total of 2,528,403 tests have been completed, an increase of 30,137 from yesterday, with 35,426 tests under investigation, an increase of 6,337.

This report is based on data supplied by the province's integrated Public Health Information System (iPHIS), as well as any additional information supplied by health units. This information is at least 24 hours old, so it is not real-time data. Note that each health unit reports the information in a different way.
