

Given its popularity, she says they'll keep the curbside flavour packs available for order until about Christmas, then they'll see where it goes from there. The serving window, however, closed for the season Sept. 4.

Down the Trent-Severn in Bobcaygeon, Kawartha Dairy has also seen an increase in demand for its ice cream.

"If you've come to one of our stores or visited another scoop shop and didn't get your favourite ice cream flavour, simply put, we've been overwhelmed this year by your love for our ice cream," Kawartha Dairy posted to its Facebook page.

"More people than ever have been enjoying it at home during the pandemic and many others have treated themselves to an extra cone or two during this beautiful summer."

The post stated they've been making more ice cream than ever before.
