

Hahn reminded trustees that they have until Dec. 11 to apply for positions on one or more of the many committees that allow TLDSB to function.

There were over a dozen potential committees highlighted including a parent involvement committee, a code of conduct and investigations committee, an equity task force committee, an equity working group committee, a student discipline committee and a committee responsible for Indigenous education initiatives. The application process will be entirely online this year.

The board will next meet virtually on January 12, 2021.
