

Ontario.

Mike Perry, whose late mother Mary was a resident of a nursing home in Lindsay, is the Kawartha Lakes co-chair of the coalition. Perry was thrilled that residents affirmed specific, concrete measures. “This is about how we as a society value and care for our elders,” he said in the media release. “We want local voices to be part of the solution province-wide and to make sure we support our front-line workers while working to fixing things. With so many people coming together and on the same page, there really is room to keep working with some hope,” Perry said.

More information is available online at: www.ltcneedsyou.ca; email: hckllongtermcarecoalition@gmail.com; or call Bonnie (705.286.2414) Haliburton or Mike (705.934.2704) Kawartha Lakes to get involved.

FACEBOOK

TWITTER

GOOGLE

PINTEREST

LINKEDIN

TAGS:

BONNIE ROE

COVID-19

HALIBURTON-CKL LONG TERM CARE COALITION

LONG TERM CARE

MIKE PERRY

ONTARIO HEALTH COALITION

YOU MIGHT BE INTERESTED IN

JANUARY 29, 2021

Schmale under fire for seeking guidance from constituents on outlawing conversion therapy

A growing outcry is developing after local MP Jamie Schmale decided to hold a constituency-level referendum

JANUARY 26, 2021

Catching a cold still possible, even with exceptional hygiene: Health unit

While most of us are being extra cautious these days when it comes to personal hygiene,

JANUARY 20, 2021

Kawartha Lakes students back to school Monday

Many parents in Kawartha Lakes are overjoyed to hear that their school-aged children who were attending

GO TO TOP