Here's an update on COVID-19 cases in Ontario as well as in the greater Kawarthas region.

There's a mix of good news and bad news in today's update. The good news is Ontario is reporting 3,469 new cases — the first time in a week cases have been under 4,000 and the smallest increase since April 7 when 3,295 cases were reported — with the seven-day average of daily cases decreasing by 29 to 4,319.
