Two Plaques Unveiled at Barnum House

The Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada and the Ontario Heritage Foundation collaborated to unveil two plaques at Barnum House Saturday. The Historic Sites plaque recognizes the house as a building of historical and architec-

More than 50 people attended the ceremony and reception, organized by Parks Canada to recognize Barnum House as an important architectural site in the histories of both the province and the nation
