

Council 118 A. Coburn Collegiate Institute (07-10) P.1

Throughout the years English was remained at the core of the curriculum. In earliest days the classics, Greek and Latin, were offered, as was Mathematics, History and Geography, of course, were on the curriculum. The Arts were represented by Painting and Drawing. In the 1870's, French, German, Penmanship, Bookkeeping and Natural Science were offered. In the 1890's, with the advent of the typewriter, the Board offered Typing but it cost pupils 50¢ per month to use the machines. Physical Education called in the 90's Calisthenics, has been long a compulsory subject. Home Economics was added during the years of World War I; Industrial Arts was instituted when the 1939 wing was completed. Now Vocational Education has come into its own with Technical courses at the East School and Commercial courses at the West school, the latter offering business machines, secretarial science and automated office practice. What will the future bring? Possibly computer courses, but certainly ETV with all its possibilities for mass instruction via the air waves. Have we advanced? Certainly in knowledge; questionably in adaptability for 'matter' is outstripping 'mind'.

*In 1866 the United Counties Council and the Town of Cobourg Council refused to support the Cobourg Grammar School. As a result the Board suspended operations as of 1 January 1867 and rented the school for 25¢ per quarter to Mr. Barron, the Headmaster, who conducted it as a private school. The Trustees then consulted Dr. Nelles of Victoria College to ask if he would consider having his Preparatory class affiliate with Cobourg Grammar School so it would be re-opened. This was done, and on 1 November the Secretary was told to notify the Chief Superintendent of Education that "The Cobourg Grammar School is now in operation" and to ask for the provincial appropriation.
