be done with him?" "Not Annis thinks it will be better that you and I should be there to make up a little party to welcome him."

"Very well, I shall be glad to see him. Won't you let me take you through the park, Viola?"

"I like to part here - our old place," I said. "You like to part and I like to meet here," he answered, smiling. "Good-bye till tomorrow, darling. Don't you sometimes think, Viola, that an heiress like you might make a better match than marrying penniless, indolent, and dissipated, only a society man?"

"You are not as cheerful now," I cried. "I am so glad you are out of that partnership, Gilbert. I don't like lawyers."

"Except on," he added. "I don't believe you would have had me if I were still Carden's partner."

"I don't think I should?" "You are half-heavenly of him. I begin to suspect."

"But you know you might marry some great rich fellow. Why don't you look out for a Viscount, a Baron, or a Duke?" "I don't like to be a proper orphan for the Grange?"

"I don't like to be a proper orphan for the Grange?" "I don't like to be a proper orphan for the Grange?"

"What do I care for, except you, my own dear?" "What do I want, except to know that you are my own name for ever?"

"I don't care for anything but you, my own dear." "I don't care for anything but you, my own dear."

"I don't care for anything but you, my own dear." "I don't care for anything but you, my own dear."

From LaGrippe.

How Dr. Miles' Nervine Brought One of Kentucky's Foremost Business Men Back to Health.

NO DISEASE has ever presented so many peculiarities, developed so many aggravating symptoms and baffled so many physicians as LaGrippe. No disease leaves its victims so debilitated, so sleepless, nerveless, as LaGrippe. It is a disease of the nervous system, which attacks the tissue, the life-giving nerve force that feeds the brain. There is one remedy that will replace this worn-out tissue; that will restore the lost vitality and restore health. Read what Mr. D. W. Hilton, of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Kentucky, one of the best insurance men in the south, and whose portrait appears above, says about Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored him to health when all else had failed.
