

ACUTE DYSPESIA.

SYMPATHETIC HEART DISEASES OFTEN ATTENDS IT.

The Modern Treatment Consists in Removing the Cause.

From Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Republican. Mrs. V. Curley who has resided in Clarence, Iowa, for the past twenty-two years, tells an interesting story of what she considers rescue from premature death. Her narrative follows: "For years prior to 1894, I was a constant sufferer from acute stomach trouble. I had all the manifold symptoms of acute dyspepsia, and at times other troubles were present in complication—I did not know what it was to enjoy a meal. No matter how careful I might be as to the quality, quantity and preparation of my food, distress always followed eating. I was despondent and blue. Almost to the point of insanity at times, and would have been glad to die. Often and often I could not sleep. Sympathetic heart trouble set in and time and again I was obliged to call a doctor in the night to relieve sudden attacks of suffocation which would come on without a moment's warning. My troubles increased as time wore on and I spent large sums in doctor bills, being compelled to have medical attendants almost constantly. During 1892 and 1893, it was impossible for me to retain food, and water brashes plagued me. I was reduced to a skeleton. A consultation of physicians was unable to determine just what did ail me. The doctors gave us as their opinion that the probable trouble was ulceration of the coats of the stomach and held out no hope of recovery. One doctor said, "All I can do to relieve you suffering is by the use of opium. About this time a friend of mine, Mrs. Symantha Smith of Glidden, Iowa, told me about the case of Mrs. Thurston of Oxford Junction, Iowa. This lady said she had been afflicted much the same as I had. She had consulted local physicians without relief, and had gone to Davenport for treatment. Giving up all hope of recovery, she was persuaded by a friend to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The result was almost magical. I was led to try them from her experience, and before many months I felt better than I had for a dozen years. I am now almost free from trouble, and if through some error of diet I feel badly, this splendid remedy sets me right again. I have regained my strength and am once more in my usual flesh. I sleep well and can eat without distress. I have no doubt that I owe my recovery to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood, and restore shattered nervous systems. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, 235 N. 5th St., by addressing Dr. Williams' six boxes for $2.50.

SPRING AND SUMMER.

GLIMPSE AT WHAT THE WOMEN WILL WEAR.

Stata Will Be Daring and Coquettish—An at Home Gown—An Evening Dress—Comfortable House Dresses in Vogue—Notes.

An at Home Gown.

ATS CONTINUE to be so daring and coquettish that the staidest women now go unblushingly into the street with cocky headgear that a few years ago they would have considered rakes. Even for their granddaughters, a hat that is in entirely good taste for spring wear is pictured here with, though it has, too, a rather sunny air about it. Made of fancy braided straw, it has a crown of Greek jet tangle through which black watered ribbon is drawn, the top of the crown being plain watered silk. Black chiffon faces the wide brim and a narrow tucking of the same edges it. The crown is encircled with black satin ribbon which forms one large looped bow in back and another at the right side. The garniture is completed by dark red veils that lie on the brim, together with several ostrich tips. Now that big hat bills are under discussion women seem inclined to show that they can be like without having a bill passed to make them so, and tiny theater hats are the vogue. The most popular and generally becoming style is a band that bridges the head, well back from the forehead. At each end of the band a knot of flowers is placed. Of course, there is a tendency to exaggerate these knots, till the horizontal extension is as annoying as the late repudiated one used to be; still, fashion is trying to induce women to train the elaboration of bows and ends of flowers down against the hair and toward the neck. Where this style is becoming, the pretty, dames and belles submit; where it isn't they don't; and, after all, both are right. Don't attempt to wear cheap veils. A big mesh is dreadfully unbecoming.

India craze has the waist with little jacket fronts of velvet, and a heavy cable braid of velvet ribbon, with long end of silk and bead tassels, is set in at the side seams and looped over the front. The shirt waists is to be the regulation out of door waist for spring and summer. Under a jacket or blazer, with a skirt to match, this is an ideal outfit. A belt of leather, metal or ribbon is worn, and a tie or small scarf is knotted around the throat.

Delightful for Summer. Shirt waists of wash silk will be worn, and if properly made, are among the most delightful articles for summer wear. They must be substitute of cotton or any thread of shrinkable material if they would preserve their good form. If the collar is lined, the lining should be of silk, several thicknesses being necessary in order to keep its shape. One great objection to the use of silk waists that have to be laundered is that they draw and get out of shape. This is entirely obviated by lining and stitching with silk, and if it is necessary to have fastenings in the form of silk also. A single thread of cotton may mar the entire garment. Silk waists may be fastened all around the edge, and are very pretty and effective when so finished.

The above is a late design and will be very fashionable the coming summer. It can be made to suit most any pocket book.

Of Nona's Veiling. An exceedingly pretty house dress is of nona's veiling in silver gray. The yokes of fancy material and full fronts shirred into the yokes, the straight breadths falling the entire length of the skirt and held in by a ribbon girde or corset.

Linon Shirt Waists.

Linon waists, simply buttonholed around the collar and cuffs, are pretty and very much liked. They launder beautifully, and are so useful and durable that those who have worn them once are quite enthusiastic about them. A moderately heavy grade of linen is used for them, and they are done up with but very little starch. It is a great mistake to make shirt waists very stiff, for their comfort and grace are destroyed by so doing.

Hearing Plants Grow.

The farmer who used to rouse his sons and daughters in the morning by calling out to them: "Wake up and hear the grass grow," little dreamed, perhaps, that the time would come when it would be among the possibilities actually to hear the growing of vegetation; but this sound may now be made audible to ordinary ears by means of the microphone. House Dresses.

Special attention is just now given to stylish, comfortable and becoming house dresses, and what is not less interesting to many ladies, the negligee costumes that are such a comfort and luxury to those who are resting from the fashionable dissipations of the season. Very soft wool, soft silks that do not crush, with lace and embroidery, are among the favorite materials. Wool fabrics on the order of nun's veiling and tamsis cloth, with some of the cashmere and Henriettes, are liked for such purposes. Many of the dresses of this sort are made with fitted backs,
