

BRYAN'S INDIA FAKE

His Repeated Assertions Concerning India Wheat Proven False.

HON. JAMES BRYCE SPEAKS.

Denials by Members of the English Parliament and a Prominent London Merchant.

In the speech delivered by William Jennings Bryan to the farmers of New York assembled at Chautauqua, the India wheat fake was revamped by the silver candidate for president.

The Bee now has the facts and the figures that effectually explode Mr. Bryan's India fake. Over two months ago the editor of the Bee directed a personal inquiry on this subject to Hon. James Bryce, who is now and has for many years been a member of Parliament and was a member of the British board of trade.

You are quite right in thinking that Britain is turning into a gold mine. The sharp competition, especially of the Hindoo native merchants, cuts down their profits and they lose heavily on the exchange between India and England.

This letter has been supplemented by Prof. Bryce with an article prepared by his brother, J. Annan Bryce, a very prominent London merchant, who was for many years a resident of India.

Dividing the last twenty years into periods of five years each, you will see that during the last three five-year periods the exports from India have been falling off, while those from the United States, Argentina and Russia have been increasing.

Whether the facts illustrate the conclusion of Mr. Rosewater's conclusion is not the question. The fall in price of commodities due to more economical production and transport, in India, in Russia and in Argentina wheat exports became possible because the exchange value of silver was higher than that of gold.

The statistical exhibit accompanying this statement is exhaustive and convincing in support of the conclusions arrived at by Mr. Bryce. In 1875 the United States exported 45,791,000 bushels to England; from Russia, 42,040,000 bushels; Argentina made no exports and India exported a fraction over 3,250,000 bushels.

PUTTING RINGS ON THE RIGHT HOGS.

I was passing through Iowa some months ago, and I got an idea from some hogs. [Laughter.] An idea is the most important thing that a person can get into his head, and we gather our ideas from every source.

MAJ. M'KINLEY'S HOME A Household Truly Homelike and Entirely Free from All Ostentations.

NOTES OF A VISIT TO CANTON.

The House Where the McKinleys Have Made Their Home for Twenty-five Years.

Rejoicing a few days recently near Canton gave opportunity for a charming visit to that new center of attraction. Canton is alive with enthusiasm, the courthouses, business places and private homes are decorated with flags, portraits of Maj. McKinley, national colors and various national and patriotic devices.

It is easy to recognize the McKinley residence by the lawn, which is worn brown and bare by the delegations that continue to come from all parts to pay their respects to the future occupant of the white house.

Never before have women taken such an active interest in the presidential campaign, and never before since the nomination of President Lincoln have women's hearts been so stirred over the condition of the country.

While he talks his secretary occasionally hands him a telegram which he reads without interruption to the conversation. Mr. McKinley will remain in Canton most of the time until after the election in November.

Free Silver and Degradation. Labor, today, has reached its crisis. This is a very simple proposition, to anyone who looks at it with common sense and reason, but one on which hangs the fate of labor.

At present she is away on a visit; and although she has reached the age of 81, she is in excellent health. Any anticipatory pleasure we may have had in meeting Mrs. McKinley is more than realized. Seated in the handsome parlor, where all lights and colors harmonize, prevailing harmony impresses one first and last in the McKinley home.

FARMERS AND TARIFF

Home Demand Supplies the Chief Market for Agricultural Products.

WHERE THEIR INTEREST LIES.

Effect of Curtailing the Purchasing Power of the Men Employed in Factories.

We export about one-third of the wheat grown in the United States either in the form of flour or of wheat. We export only about 3 per cent. of our corn crop.

The domestic market is the chief market for agricultural products. It is the chief market for the farmer, and it is the chief market for the farmer's laborer.

The tariff is a protection to the farmer and his laborer. It is a protection to the farmer and his laborer, and it is a protection to the farmer and his laborer.

The tariff is a protection to the farmer and his laborer. It is a protection to the farmer and his laborer, and it is a protection to the farmer and his laborer.

The tariff is a protection to the farmer and his laborer. It is a protection to the farmer and his laborer, and it is a protection to the farmer and his laborer.

The tariff is a protection to the farmer and his laborer. It is a protection to the farmer and his laborer, and it is a protection to the farmer and his laborer.

The tariff is a protection to the farmer and his laborer. It is a protection to the farmer and his laborer, and it is a protection to the farmer and his laborer.

FARMERS AND TARIFF

Home Demand Supplies the Chief Market for Agricultural Products.

WHERE THEIR INTEREST LIES.

Effect of Curtailing the Purchasing Power of the Men Employed in Factories.

We export about one-third of the wheat grown in the United States either in the form of flour or of wheat. We export only about 3 per cent. of our corn crop.

The domestic market is the chief market for agricultural products. It is the chief market for the farmer, and it is the chief market for the farmer's laborer.

The tariff is a protection to the farmer and his laborer. It is a protection to the farmer and his laborer, and it is a protection to the farmer and his laborer.

The tariff is a protection to the farmer and his laborer. It is a protection to the farmer and his laborer, and it is a protection to the farmer and his laborer.

The tariff is a protection to the farmer and his laborer. It is a protection to the farmer and his laborer, and it is a protection to the farmer and his laborer.

The tariff is a protection to the farmer and his laborer. It is a protection to the farmer and his laborer, and it is a protection to the farmer and his laborer.

The tariff is a protection to the farmer and his laborer. It is a protection to the farmer and his laborer, and it is a protection to the farmer and his laborer.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

I would willingly defend free trade with my life," said Mr. Bryan in his first speech in Congress, and as he is now defending free silver with his tongue only it is easy to see to which policy he is most devoted.

The workingman does not want a cheaper dollar. He wants a steady employment paid for in dollars as good as gold.

The simplest way to elect McKinley is to vote for him, Mr. Bourke Cockran observes to his fellow Democrats, and that remark contains all the wisdom of all the ages.

The one question Bryan never answers is the simple one, "How about free trade?"

The Bryan party is made up of all kinds of factions, led by all sorts of cranks, and if it should get into office it couldn't work together.

In denouncing wealth the Democratic organs are consistent with their party, for it has done everything it could to make the people poor and keep them so.

The Republican pledge to promote the free coinage of silver by international agreement offers the only solution of the money problem which good business men can accept, and for that reason even the Democrats among them are working with the Republican party this year and will vote for McKinley.

Any Popocrat who believes that Bryan can carry Kentucky when Palmer is a native and Buckner a native and a resident of the Blue Grass state, doesn't know the Kentucky nature.

It is easy to see from Thomas B. Reed's speeches down in Maine that he is perfectly serene and happy. But then he usually feels that way. He was born so.

Mr. Bryan errs in saying that it is idle curiosity that draws people to his meetings. It is both interesting and profitable to study a man who, in this civilized country in this age of the world, apparently thinks that wealth can be created by legislation.