STATE IS RESPONSIBLE

MUST RESTORE FUNDS OF THE ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY.

By Its Agreement with the Federal Government the Institution Mast Be Preserved Trustees Are Accused of Neglecting their Duty.

The state of Illinois is responsible to the federal government for the state university endowment fund which has been hypothecated by ex-Treasure: Spalding, president of the Globe Savings Bank, which recently suspended at Chicago. This endowment fund was originally received from the government by the state, and was then in the shape of lands. Before giving this fund the government required that the state agree to forever maintain it, and in case of its depreciation from any cause to make it good,

In accordance with the proposition made by the government to the state, the endowment fund was accepted. After a few years the lands became valuable and were sold. The proceeds from the sale of these lands, together with the interest, were invested in bonds. These bonds, amounting to $418,810, were deposited with ex-Treasurer Spalding, and are the ones hypothecated by him with Chicago banks. Ex-Treasurer Spalding's shortage will have to be made good by the state, and the investigation of the ex-treasurer begun by the board of trustees may be taken up by the state authori tion by the state.

plate a March to Athens. London cable: The outbreak of hostilities on the Greek frontier has caused but little sensation here. The prominent officials and the Turkish embassy have received no information beyond the fact that war has been declared.

The correspondent of the Associated Press understands that Turkey has no idea of territorial conquest, for she knows the powers would not sanction an advance to Athens. She probably will first attempt to capture Larissa and then march on Trikahala and Phanari. If these also are captured Turkey could compel Greece to comply with the demands of the powers. The Turkish fleet, however, is still in the Dardanelles, where it is likely to remain as long as the Greeks continue active. It is reported that the powers, instead of blockading Greek ports, will allow Col. Vassos and his army to return to Greece if he desires to do so.

Trifles That Add to Worry.

"Overwork and underexercise result in nervous diseases," said a physician recently. "Preventive measures may be summed up in two words," he continued-"physical development. Worry annually kills more people than work. One should strive, however, to avoid all things that tend to disturb the nerves. Throw away the pen that scratches and a pencil that has a hard spot in it. Discard a needle that squeaks and a basin that leaks. Use sharp tools, wear soft garments that do not rustle. Oil the hinges of the rheumatic door and fasten the creaking blind. These may seem trifles, but such trifles irritate the nerves as much as a piece of woolen does a sore. Chas. Lamb once said that a carpenter's hammer in a warm summer noon would fret

Merit Wins.

The invention of Alabastine marked a new era in wall coatings, and from was a most important discovery. It has from a small beginning branched out into every country of the civilized come so offensive to property owners that manufacturers of cheap kalsomine preparations are now calling them by some other name, and attempting to sell on the Alabastine company's reputation. Through extensive advertising and personal use, the merits of the durable Alabastine are so thoroughly known that the people insist on getting these goods and will take no chance of spoiling their walls for a possible saving of at the most but a few cents. Thus it is again demonstrated that merit wins, and that manufacturers of first-class articles will be supported by the people.

A Bad Name.

"A. Swindle" is the name that appears over the office door of a struggling lawyer in the city of Stratford, Ont. A friend of the unfortunate gentleman suggested the advisability of his writing out his first name in full, thinking that Arthur or Andrew Swindle, as the case might be, would sound better and look better than the significant "A. Swindle." When the lawyer, with tears in his eyes, whispered to him that his name was Adam, the friend understood and was silent, -- Wirconsin Blade.
