Dr. Miles' Nervine Cures.

Mrs. Chas. A. Myers, 201 Hanna St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes Oct. 7, 1904: "I suffered terribly with nervous headache, dizziness, backache and nervousness, gradually growing worse until my life was despaired of, and I tried what you would call a 'miraculous' cure. I found no relief until I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nervine. I have taken five bottles and now I am a well woman, and I feel like a new creature. I can now do all my friends would have me do. You may publish this letter if you wish, and I hope it may be the means of saving many other lives as it has mine."

HINSDALE.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Townsend visited in Downers Grove, Tuesday, with T. T. Thompson.

The celebration to be given by the Country Tennis club is creating an amount of interest and enthusiasm among our citizens and if the weather man vouchsafes a pleasant day no one need lack for entertainment on the glorious 5th.

The peat bed on H. C. Middaugh's farm burnt with unusual vigor during the past two weeks and for a time fear was entertained as to the safety of the buildings. The heavy rain and hard fighting by the farm hands finally extinguished it.

Work on the Hinsdale directory soon to be published by the Merrill Printing Company is progressing finely and when complete the book will be invaluable for reference. Every household necessity as well as a convenience. It will contain the name, residence and occupation of each resident, eligible under the customary directory regulations.

The Suburban Electric under the enterprising management of Naugle, Holcomb & Co., is now almost completed. Work on the roadbed and overhead wires was pushed last week with marvelous rapidity and in several particular features of the construction Mr. Holcomb's firm has outdone the world's record and the one mile of track laid in a single day is a monument to the firm's enterprise. Regular trains will be run from La Grange this week. The traffic of the road has thus far exceeded the anticipations of its directors, so that the future appears especially bright.

WHEATON.

Furniture for the court house will commence coming July 1. J. H. Kamp has the contract for furnishing the same, and will see to it that everything is first-class.

Fred Winbolt and wife are taking advantage of a "long vacation", and will be Wheaton visitors during the summer. Mr. Winbolt has been retained as teacher of the Cass school for another year.

A fourth of July celebration committee called a meeting for last Friday evening to map out a monster demonstration. There was only one person present and he made a motion to adjourn.

The Council was wise in compelling the telephone line to place service poles in alleys and over the rear end of lot lines. Our shade trees must be protected from the pruning hand of wire stringers, or in course of time our streets will be lined with unsightly poles and dead trees.

George Brown is having a new suit of Circuit Judge clothes made for his first appearance at the October term of Court. He will put in the first week deciding cases to be tried by "His Honor." The remainder of the term will be presided over by Judge Bishop, who will have a petit jury at his disposal and preside over trials. The Grand Jury will make their report the second week, which will give them ample time to round up all irregularities in the county.

Sheriff Hoy had a few extra deputies on his force last week to see that order and quietness reigned supreme around his home. The little son which arrived on Sunday was given recognition, and Clint placed a motto over the cradle on which was inscribed: "The whole house is yours, yell if you want to".

A condemnation case from Elmhurst, for the opening of a street on the town line north of the village, occupied a greater portion of the time in the County Court last week. Judge Brown appeared for the property owners, and as it was the last case of importance he will actively figure in as attorney for six years, he just let himself out for a good time and he had it.

LITERARY NOTE.

With the exception of the world's fair number of the Cosmopolitan, which reached a price of five dollars a copy after the last edition had been exhausted, no stronger number of this magazine has ever been issued than that for July, 1907. The report of Julian Hawthorn, the special commissioner sent by the Cosmopolitan to India to investigate the horrors of the plague and famine, is of an extraordinary character, and will open the eyes of the world to conditions that were scarcely suspected. The same number contains what is probably the greatest poem of this quarter of the nineteenth century. The new rendering of Omar Khayyam's Rubaiyat, which departs entirely from Fitzgerald's, occupies four pages. Amelie Rives reappears as a story teller for the first time since her marriage with Prince Troubetzkoy. One of the cleverest stories yet from the pen of Robert W. Chambers is given. The remarkable story of the war of the Martians by Wells, which is attracting the attention of both the scientific and non-scientific good story loving public is continued, and there is a fourth story by a Becket elaborately illustrated by the humor of Peter Newell. The educational discussion—this time by Professor Peck of Columbia—the story of "The Every-Day Life of a Sister of Charity," elaborately illustrated; the "Genesis of a Comic Opera," given by Reginald de Koven; President Gillman of the Johns Hopkins University, on "The Bankruptcy of Science," and an interesting story by the Greek who conceived and brought into existence "The streets of Cairo at the World's Fair" these are some of the contents of this ten cent magazine.
