WHAT IT TAKES TO BUN A PAPER A few days since the editor of the News published at St. Johns, Kansas, remarked that "It takes money to run a newspaper" whereupon one of his sunflower contempo- reports of special committees, miscelraries arose in his place and delivered laneous business. of himself the following: which intended to be entirely humorous, contains some solid chanks of truth, as those who are ly attest. What an exaggeration, what a whopper, It has been disapproved a thousand times It is a clean case of air fancy. It dosen take money to run a newspaper. It be run without money. It is not a business venture It is a charitable institution. begging concern, a highway robber. newspaper is the child of the air a cresture of the dream. It can go on and on, when any other firm would be in the hand of a receiver and wound up with cobusts in the windows.

It takes wind to run a newsparer. takes a scintillation, acrobatic imagination and half a dozen white shirts and railroad passes to run a newspaper. But money, heavens to Betsy and six hands round who ever needed money in running a newspaper? Kind words are the medium of exchange that do business for the editor-kind words and church social tickets. When you see an editor with money, watch him. He'll be paying his bills and disgracing his profession. Never give money to an editor. Make him trade it out. He likes to swap.

No, never pay the editor a cent, If you can possibly avoid it. When an important question arises in your county or the national campaign is on, he will come to the front and work for his party, or uphold what he takes to be the right side of the perplexing question. Then when the matter of election has been settled, don't pay any money or attention to the editor-be does not need it. Just form a stock com pany and start a paper of your own. You can get lots of fun out of it.

Then when your die after having stood around years and sneered at the editor and his little Jim Crow paper, be sure and have your wife send in for extra copies by one of your w ceping children, and when she reads the generous and touching no tice about you, forwarn her to neglect to uta to the editor. It would him. Money is a corrupting he editor knows it, and what he your heatfelt thanks. Then he Ak the printers and they can thank their grocers. Send your job work to the job office and then come and ask for half rates for the church notices. Get your lodge letter heads and stationery printed out of town and flood the editor with beautiful thoughts in resolutions of respect and cards of thanks. They make such spley reading, and when you pick it up filled with these glowing and vivid mortuary articles, you are so proud of your little local paper.

But money scorn the filthy, the filthy thing. Don't let the pure, innocent editor know any thing about it. Keep that fer the summer and running down sordid trades people who charge for their wages. The editor gives his bounty away The Lord loves a cheerful giver. He'll take care of the editor. He has a cluster from the state to act as door mat for the community. He will get the paper our uncehow: and stand up for the town and whoon it up for you when you run for office, and lie about your pigeon-tool daughter's tackey wedding, and blow about your big-footed sons when they get a job of $4 week and weep over your shriveled roal when it is released from your grasping body, and smile at your gid ly wife's second ma: riage. Dou't worry about the editor, he'll get on, the Lore knows how-some how"

Dun's Review, a commercial publica tion without politics, had this to say in its issue for last Saturday. "There is n step backward in business, although the season of midsummer quiet is here. Improvement continues, gradual and prudently cautious as before, although in many branches evident where no signs of it appeared a few weeks ago. Business men of the highest standing in all parts of the country, having gradually perceived that the tide has begun to rise, are regulating their contracts and investments and their plans for the future with some confidence. Great changes before the adjournment of congress are hardly to be expected, but removal of uncertainty i with reason expected to bring into operation buying forcess which have been restricted for months. The main factor at this time is the steadily brightening prospact for crops.
