PROF. JOHN K. RASSWEILER

DIED SUDDENLY OF HEART DISEASE IN CHICAGO SATURDAY.

DEATH A GREAT SHOCK TO FAMILY.

Funeral Held Tuesday at the M. E. Church—Interment at Naperville—A Short Sketch of His Life.

Nothing has so stirred this community with sorrow and sympathy as did the announcement of the sudden death of Prof. John K. Rassweiler, superintendent of the Downers Grove schools, in the waiting room at the Union depot in Chicago, early last Saturday morning, September 18th, while talking pleasantly with his son Ralph.

Ralph and his father left home for Chicago on the early morning train which left here at 6:25 o'clock. Ralph was on his way to attend school at Normal, Ill., and Mr. Rassweiler accompanied him as far as Chicago. They reached the city at 7:15 o'clock and had 45 minutes to wait before the train which would carry the young man to Normal pulled out of the Union depot.

Side by side the couple sat in the waiting room and chatted and in the course of their conversation the father wished his son success during his winter's schooling. Hardly had he uttered these words when he laid his head on his son's shoulder. Ralph thinking his father was tired paid no further attention to his action. Mr. Rassweiler continued to lean heavily on his son and then the young man thought that probably his father had suddenly been taken ill. He spoke to him, but there was no answer. Ralph called for help, but it was too late, for the unfortunate man had succumbed to heart disease and was dead at the time he first fell forward against his son. The ambulance was called and the body was removed to Rolston's morgue on Adams street, where the remains were prepared for their removal to the home in this village. Ralph accompanied the body of his father to the undertaking establishment and fell exhausted on a lounge as soon as he entered the door. When he was asked to examine the contents of his parent's pockets he was unable to walk and was allowed to remain in a reclining position until he regained enough strength to enable him to move.

H. H. Rassweiler, a brother of the deceased, who has an office in the city, was hurriedly summoned and with other friends from the village took charge of the body, which was brought home after the inquest on the train arriving here at 4:05 p. m. The post mortem examination revealed the cause of death to have been heart disease, of which the deceased had been a sufferer for over twenty years.

Kind friends prepared the family here for the terrible homecoming of the one who had left that morning in such good spirits. His son Ralph, in speaking of the awful blow, said:

"My father was feeling good that morning and as we alighted from the train he was in a very happy mood. He said he wished me success during my school term and told me he wanted my sister, who was already at Normal, to write him. Father remarked that morning that he intended to spend the day in purchasing and would return home late in the afternoon."

Miss Lulu Rassweiler, who was attending school at Normal, was telegraphed to and came home late Saturday evening. Other relatives of the deceased at Naperville and LaGrange were notified and came on the following day.

The home was besieged by sympathizing and sorrowing friends Saturday and Sunday, who brought messages of sympathy for the bereaved ones and love for one who was more generally loved and deeply respected than any one in the village. His upright character and nature of his public career, together with his other many excellent qualifications, not only appealed to the love of his fellowmen, but commanded their deepest respect. His influence has been felt by all who have come in contact with him, and many have been guided to a better knowledge of the higher things in life through his life and teachings. He is mourned by all the scholars of the school from the lowest grades to the highest. In the Methodist church, of which he was a trustee and member and was superintendent of the Sabbath school, there is deep sorrow that he should be called from his field of usefulness. His place can never quite be filled in the hearts of his townspeople, and in vast numbers they showed this by their messages of sympathy and offers of assistance to the bereaved wife and family during their sorest hours of trial.

The schools were closed Monday and Tuesday and American flags were floated at half-mast on the school buildings. The board of education and the officials of the Methodist church took charge of the funeral arrangements. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the Methodist church and was the largest ever held in the village, all the business houses closing in respect to the dead man. After a prayer at the house by Rev. Truman R. Green, the cortege moved to the church. The honorary pall bearers were members of the board of education and officials of the church as follows: D. G. Graham, W. M. Carpenter, C. B. Blodgett, A. G. Prince, E. H. Nourse, J. W. Worley, E. Wootton, W. J. Herring, Geo. P. Luce, H. W. Morton, Jas. A. Burns, F. R. McBurtie, and F. A. Brode. These walked by the casket. The actual pall bearers were the members of this and last year's high school classes and were Paul and Earl Herring, Lynn Wheeler, Rupert Bateman, Maurice Puffer and Irving Heartt. The ushers were members of the alumni and were A. H. Wetten, M. K. Bush, Walter and Arthur Whiffen.

Children from the schools to the number of two hundred in double lines strewed flowers in the way of the casket as it was carried to and from the church, each flower attesting in its mute way the love of its donor.

The music was furnished by the high school pupils and alumni. Following the opening hymn, "Abide With Me," Rev. Geo. C. Moor offered a prayer, after which Rev. Herbert H. Rood read a scriptural lesson. Rev. Truman R. Green delivered the sermon, taking as his text the 8th verse of the 6th chapter of Micah, "To do justly, and to love mercy, and walk humbly with thy God." This was the character of the man dead before them. Rev. J. T. Ladd of Ottawa gave the closing prayer, after which hundreds viewed the dead body as it lay in state for an hour before being taken to the final resting place in the cemetery at Naperville. There as here the love of the school-children and teachers was shown in their meeting the long procession and scattering flowers in the way. At the grave the ritual burial services of the Methodist church was read and not a tearless eye could be seen as the earth fell on the remains of all that was earthly of one so generally loved.

The floral pieces were many and beautiful. The board of education sent a handsome design, the "open book," with the dates 1876-1897; a "broken column" from the church; an anchor from the deceased's associate teachers, and "gates ajar" from the alumni, besides a handsome wreath and many cut flowers, were among the offerings of love and sympathy.

Numerous relatives and friends from out of town were present at the funeral among whom were Prof. Frost of Hinsdale; C. F. Kassweiler, Dr. J. A. Bell, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Miller, Miss Hattie Miller, of Naperville, relatives of Mrs. Rassweiler, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baker of Streator. From Wheaton many friends came; among them Dr. Owen, Prof. R. T. Morgan, N. E. Matter, A. D. Ayer, Washington Wheaton, Jno. Strickland, and Fred Knowles. Rev. J. T. Ladd of Ottawa, Mrs. Ella Foster of Evanston and many others were here Sunday and Monday.

John Koehl Rassweiler was born in Millersburg, Dauphin county, Pennsylvania, Sept. 10th 1852. His parents, J. Philip (deceased) and Anna D. (Haesler) Rassweiler, were representatives of that nationality to which the United States is indebted for many thousands of her best and most prosperous citizens, being natives of Hanover, Germany. The father died at Naperville last year and the aged and feeble mother still lives there. Prof. J. K. Rassweiler was the fourth in a family of eight children, two brothers and five sisters, as follows: Prof. H. H. Rassweiler and C. A. Rassweiler of Naperville, Miss Amelia Rassweiler and Mrs. Lizzie Froge of LaGrange, Mrs. Mary Shisler of Gibsonburg, Ohio, Mrs. Joanna Rutter (deceased) and Louise Rassweiler who died in her childhood. The former four were present at the funeral.

In 1857, with his parents, our subject came west and settled permanently in Stephenson county, Illinois. Not being in affluent circumstances he worked on the farm during the summers, thus laying the foundation for his remarkable energy and in the winters, when farm labor was not to be obtained, he applied himself to mental improvement with eminent success. His school days began in the country and when at a seasonable age he entered an academy at Cedarville, Stephenson county, where he advanced very rapidly. He set his mind for a thorough education and as his parents were unable to keep him devised every means in his power to reach his aim. He became qualified to teach in a country school at the age of fifteen and took advantage of that vocation, teaching in the winters and attending col-

DREES-TENNEY NUPTIALS.

Quiet Home Wedding held at the Bride's Home Last Wednesday Evening.

A pretty and quite home wedding at the A. L. Tenney homestead southwest of Downers Grove last Wednesday evening, united Miss Ella T. Tenney and John H. Drees of LaGrange. Rev. Truman R. Green performed the ceremony which united the lives of the happy couple, at 7 o'clock before the immediate friends of the family and a few invited guests. After a wedding luncheon had been served the young people left on an early evening train on a journey to the old home of the groom in Ohio. They will be at home to their friends after October 1st at LaGrange. The bride is one of Downers Grove's estimable daughters and was a prominent worker in the Methodist church of which she is a member. The groom is connected with a large wholesale house in Chicago and is to be congratulated in securing such an amiable helpmeet.

The REPORTER joins their many friends in extending good wishes. At the wedding those present were Rev. and Mrs. T. R. Green; Mr. and Mrs. Tenney of Hinsdale; Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hawk and Mr. and Mrs. John French of LaGrange; Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Talbot and Miss Effie Prentiss of Chicago; Misses Hattie Suydam and Alice Hayer of Leland; Miss Mabel Pye of Northfield, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Squires and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Luce of Downers Grove.

WASN'T ACQUAINTED THERE.

One of the leading society young men of the village thinks that the road commissioners of DuPage county should be prosecuted for criminal negligence in not erecting signboards at every country cross-road.

In company with a friend he rode to West Chicago last Sunday morning. While enroute he was much smitten by the charms of a Winfield damsel, who so entranced him that he left his companion and a good dinner at West Chicago and hastened back, his mind filled with thoughts of his fair enslaver.

For five long hours he wound his weary way over the dusty country roads and at last came to a village. With eager tones he hailed a passer, "Is this Winfield?" "Naw," came the reply, "this is Wheaton. You must be lost, stranger."

With a dogged determination he continued his search for Winfield and at 6:30 o'clock, after following some very contradictory directions from farmer boys, brought up at the York Center windmill. Here his courage joined his temper which he lost a mile or two out of Wheaton and he meekly turned his wheel toward Downers and pedaled home with weary limbs and a heart lacerated by the thought that his toot-sy-wooty was still hanging heavily over the gate-post waiting and watching for him.

When at last his tired head struck the pillows in the silent watches of the summer night he felt about one-half as fit as when he began his Earnest flirtation with the buxom milk-maid on the Winfield pike.

CHICKEN LAW EXPIRED THE 15TH.

Last Wednesday was the first legal slaughter of the prairie chicken, as the state law making it illegal to kill them expired on that day. The little feathery birds of prey took it wherever a Nimrod was fortunate enough to land—in the wing, the neck, the shoulder or the hip. It didn't matter so long as some of the small globular masses of lead collided with them. The chickens are in great plenty this fall and at first they were remarkably tame. But they soon discovered where they were at and what the harvest was and then recovered themselves of their genuine old family hustle. The farmers say it was continuous skirmish since the first hours of Wednesday morning. It was bang, bang, bang all day long from all manners of fire arms, such as the rifle, shot gun and musket. Many old hunters put in several days at the sport and came in with full game bags.

NOTICE FOR APPLICATIONS.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that applications will be received by the county clerk of DuPage county for the position of superintendent of DuPage county poor farm. All applicants must be married men. Said applications to be on file by Saturday, the 2d day of October, 1897, at 9 a. m. Address all applications to H. F. Lawrence, county clerk, Wheaton, Ill. J. E. BENDER, Chairman Poor Farm Committee.

A CARD.

To all our kind friends who have, in word and deed, so abundantly proved their deep sympathy for us in our great bereavement, and their loving regard for our dear husband and father, we tender our most sincere thanks. Mrs. M. E. RASSWEILER and Children.

WILL SURVEY FOR SEWERS

VILLAGE BOARD VOTE TO HAVE AN ESTIMATE MADE.

ALVORD & SHIELDS TO PREPARE PLANS

Will Furnish Maps, Plans and Estimates and Submit Same to the Board by the First of October.

The village board met in adjourned session Monday evening, and acted favorably on the report of the local board of improvement recommending the appropriation of $150.00 to pay for a preliminary survey and estimate for a separate sewer system for the village of Downers Grove.

President Bush, Clerk White and Trustees Root, Schultz, Hughes and Mochel were present. Mayer and Barr were absent.

The improvement committee have had the matter of sewers under consideration for some time, and Monday night Chairman Root reported they had sufficient data to put the question before the board of the advisability of having a preliminary survey and estimate made of the probable cost of sewers. Trustees Root reported that Messrs. Alvord & Shields of Chicago, the engineers who designed and built the waterworks system here, have agreed to prepare preliminary plans and maps for a sewerage scheme, giving an outline of location and size of sewers required, an estimate of the cost thereof and a description of method of assessing its cost against the property within the village, and giving the approximate cost per front foot of property as it should be assessed according to the benefits derived. This is to be done by the engineers, Messrs. Alvord & Shields, by means of maps and drawings illustrative of the scheme. They will also prepare an estimate for paving the creek and location and design for the filter beds required and the approximate cost of same.

These plans and estimates will enable the board to lay before the property owners the figures for the cost of sewerage for the village of Downers Grove and give them sufficient data and a foundation on which to base a petition for such a sewerage system. The engineers expect to have their plans and estimates ready to report at the October meeting of the board of trustees.

In connection with the sewer matter, Trustees Root read a letter from Chauncey A. Castle, a business man of Quincy, regarding the separate sewerage system at the soldiers' home located in that city. The letter stated that the system had been installed in that institution for a number of years and had given the very best satisfaction.

After a motion was carried to request the railroad company to erect storm sheds over the north platform at the depot in accordance with its agreement to do so when a new platform was built, the board adjourned.

Ernest Smith, the right halfback of the Downers Grove football eleven, was severely injured Saturday afternoon while engaged in a practice game.

He attempted to make a touchdown but was tackled by Lynn Wheeler and in the mix-up his right fibula was broken and the ankle bone shattered. Dr. W. A. Topp set the injured limb and Fred Briggs conveyed the wounded hero home, where it is needless to add he will remain for some weeks—a warning to all aspiring youths who look for fame on the gridiron field.

Downers Grove has been unusually free from such sad casualties. Until about a year ago "Rigby" was a thing unknown to the village, but the long haired enthusiasts have effected an entrance and unless a damper is speedily put upon this brutal sport we may expect again to join in the sad refrain: "Another unfortunate gasping for breath; five yards he tried to make—trampled to death. Pick him up anyway; what makes you stare? It's only a football fiend, with thirteen-inch hair."
