RICHARD YATES,

Candidate for Governor. Richard Yates, the Republican candisate for governor of the State of Illinols, was born at Jacksonville, Ills., Dec. 12, 1860, less than one month after his illustrious father, Richard Yates, bad received a majority of the votes of the people of Illinois, and less than one month prior to his inauguration to the position which he so ably alled and won for him the title of "The Great War Governor." His parents ware Kentucklans by birth, while his grand parents were natives of Virginia. He was married in 1888 to Helen Wadsworth, who was born in Jacksonville in 1865. Her parents were born in Oblo: her grandfather, General John Wadsworth, participated in the war of 1812, and her great grandfather was a not the Revolution. They have es daughters, Catherine, aged eight, and Dorothy, four years of age.

Richard Yates entered Whipple my, the preparatory department Illinois college, in 1873, the year of his father's death, and entered Illinois lege proper in 1876, graduating in on class orator. In 1884 he gradufrom the law department of Sehlean university at Ann Arbor, d the same year was admitted to the bar in Michigan and Illinois and oon after to practice in the United ales elecult and supreme courts.

From the time he came of age, in he was active in the public life the community. He has been a Odd Fellow, Knight of Pythias, lodern Woodmen, for five years was er of Company I in the First siment of the Hilnois National and and for two years was city the Jacksonville Daily At the age of thirteen he a member of the Methodist al church, and was a delegate the last general conference, held cently in Chicago. Richard Yates was so intimately associated with the events of the war of the rebellion and reconstruction, that so far as actual acquaintance with American politics is concerned, he is the equivalent of a man of at least fifty. He saw the agony of the war time from the home side. He remembers the return of the regiments in 1865. visits to Washington and Richmond in 1866, to Fortress Monroe in 1867, when Jefferson Davis was in confinement there. A boy of eight he witnessed every day the impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson in 1868, and from that date to this be has been a close student and active participant in politics. His effort has been to thoroughly acquaint himself with all political conditions, and his life-work a preparation for political activity and public service.

WILLIAM A. NORTHCOTT.

Candidate for Lieutenant Governor. William A. Northcott, lieutenan governor and president of the senate. was born in Murfreesboro, Tenn. When the war between the states commenced, his father, General R. S. Northcott, was forced to leave his home on account of his Union sym pathles. He went to West Virginia, where he accepted a commission as colonel and served throughout the war nine months of the time as an inmate of Libby prison.

William A. Northcott received hi education in the public schools, and at the United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis. He taught school, mean time reading law, and was admitted to practice his profession in 1877 continu ing practice after his removal to Greenville, Bond county, Ills., in 1879. The next year President Hayes appointed him supervisor of the census for the Seventh Illinois district. In 1882 he was elected state's attorney for Bond county by a majority of 252; was reelected in 1884 by a majority of 383, and was for the third consecutive time re-elected in 1888 by a majority of 513, In 1890 President Harrison appointed him a member of the board of visitors to the United States Naval academy, and he delivered the oration to the

In November, 1890, Governor Northcott was elected head consul of the Modern Woodmen of America, a fraternal insurance society, which has a membership of over 500,000-over 100,-000 of that number being in Illinois. over the fusion candidate by a ma-Two years ago the record stood at 230,-000 and 70,000. The figures indicate a wonderful increase, attributable to an intelligent and energetic management of the society. Governor Northcott has been elected three times in succession to the office of head consul, and now fills that office. In June, 1896, he was nominated for lieutenant governor by the Republican state convention, and at the election following received a majority of over 137,000 votes over M. C. Crawford, Democrat-Populist, a fusion candidate.

March 31, 1890. Governor Northcott married the daughter of State Senator them more than once. Dressor. Mrs. Northcott died in about a year, leaving a son, Nathaniel Dres. sor Northcott. His present wife was Miss Ads Stoutzenberg, of Marine, Ills., and they have one daughter.

As a presiding officer in the senate Governor Northcott has not an enemy, Democrat or Republican. He has prov-on one of the ablest and most popular which denied the minority their common rights have been disregarded, and his decisions have been equally just to political friend and foe. At the Peorla (1900) convention he was renominated by acclamation. JAMES A. ROSE,

Candidate for Secretary of State. James A. Rose, the incumbent of the office of secretary of state of Illinois, was born Oct. 13, 1850, and has spent his entire life in Illinois, having been raised in Golconda, the county seat of Pope county, his present home. Opportunities for education in the higher branches were not many to the youth of southern Illinois, and Mr. Rose was forced to content himself with a common school education in Pope county, followed by one term in the State Normal university. Early he was town clerk of his town for thrown upon his own resources, he began teaching at the age of 17 in country school in his own county. Four years thereafter, when he had harely attained his majority, he was elected principal of the graded schools of his home town, Golconda. The next year, when he was 22, he was chosen superintendent of schools for Pope county, as a Republican, and was re-elected at the end of his term, serving eight years. In the meantime he studied for the bar and before the close of his term he was admitted to practice, and before the close of his term as superintendent of schools he was petitioned to become a candidate for state's attorney of Pope county, which he did, resigning his office as superintendent, and being elected state's attorney without opposition. To this office he was renominated and reelected, and at the close of his second term declined to be a candidate for

In 1889 Governor Fifer appointed Mr. Rose one of the trustees of the not quite one year, when he was complimented with an advance, being appointed commissioner for the southern Illinois penitentiary at Chester, which he retained until the advent of the popular. Democrats in 1893

Early in 1896 Mr. Rose was solicited by a host of friends throughout the state to become a candidate for secretary of state, and yielding to them he was nominated. He entered upon the work of the campaign with vigor and spote in nearly every county for the Republican ticket, and was elected fority of 137,611. July 14, 1874, Mr. Rose married Miss Elizabeth Young, of Golconda. He is a communicant with the Presbyterian church and a Mason of high degree. Mr. Rose has always been a Republican and without an exception his time and his purse have been at the disposal of the leaders of his party during campaigns.

In every office he has filled he has given to its duties and responsibilities the close personal attention demanded of any business rightly conducted.

MOSES O. WILLIAMSON,

Candidate for State Treasurer. Moses O. Williamson, the Republican candidate for state treasurer, was born on the Atlantic ocean, July 14, 1850, and is the son of William and Margaret Williamson, natives of Sweden. It was during their ocean voyage to America that he was born They came directly to Illinois and seted in Sparta township, Knox coun ty. His father died in 1854, and his mother in 1886. Of their family of six children, all grew to manhood and wemanhood.

Until 12 years of age Moses remained on the farm, and then for two years worked on a neighbor's farm. He next engaged himself to Olson & Gray, Wataga, to learn the harness trade. At the end of four years be bought out Mr. Gray, and in 1879 bought out Mr. Olson. He thus made his way from mere boyhood.

A Republican in political belief, be early manifested an interest in politics and in 1884 was so prominent and influential that he was chosen secretary of the Republican county central committee. He was elected county treasurer in 1886 and county clerk in 1890-1894-1898. He never shirked a political duty. It is an interesting fact that eighteen years, and that he served his village as clerk, a member of the board of trustees, and justice of the peace. In every office he has held from town to county clerk his career has been honorable and irreproachable.

Mr. Williamson was secretary of the county Republican committee from 1884 to 1892 and was elected chairman of the Republican county central committee in 1892. In this capacity he has since served. He was one of the organizers of the Swedish-American Republican League of Illinois and was its president in 1897. In the campaign of 1896, he was one of a committee of five, associated with the Republican state central committee, having charge of the Swedish part of that campaign in this state.

In his religious belief Mr. Williamson is a Congregationalist. His private life is exemplary. His personality is congenial. To efficiency in the discharge of his official duties, he adds a courtesy that wins warm friendships. Married Oct. 18, 1871, to Miss Mary Pontiac Reformatory for Boys, serving Driggs, he has two children, Ada and Neille, the former just graduated from Knox college. In his home city, Galesburg, where he is best known, no man stands higher or is more deservedly

JAMES SKILES M CULLOUGH.

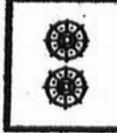

Candidate for Auditor of Public Accounts Hon. James Skiles McCullough, the Republican candidate for auditor of public accounts, was born in Mercersburg, Franklin county, Pa., and when he was a mere boy he traveled all the way from his early home to Urbana, Ills., in slow wagons, in company wit his parents, who came west to try their fortunes in a new country. They settled on a farm within a few miles of Urbana, and there he grew up to the stature of a man, but not to a man of years, by the time the war of the rebellion broke out.

He enlisted in company G. Seventyaixth Illinois infantry, and began his military service in March, 1862. He was but a mere sprig of a youth at that time, but he stood the hardships of the service like a true soldier, and tramped all over the south, till April 9, 1865, when in the charge on old Fort Blakely, Ala., his left arm was shot off not far from the shoulder. He was picked up on the field for dead. and recovered only after long and carefol nursing.

Some time after his return from the army he went to theold military school at Fulton to take a course of study. and while there, in 1868, he was appointed deputy county clerk of Champaign county, which office he held up For the Finest Photograph
