

The Eminent Kidney and Bladder Specialist.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root at Work in His Laboratory.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Then the richness of the blood—the albumen—leaks out and the sufferer has Bright's Disease, the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root the new discovery is the true specific for kidney, bladder and urinary troubles. It has cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases, after all other efforts have failed. At druggists in fifty-cent and dollar sizes. A sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper.

A LONESOME WAIT ON THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

JUDGE YATES ON THE EDWARDS LAW.

"My attention has been called to a confidential circular sent out by Mr. Henry Raab, in which he states that I, in the campaign of 1892, took a strong position in defense of the law known as the 'Edwards law.'"

"It is true that I was at that time a candidate for congressman-at-large, an office not having to do with state issues. At no time did I take any part in the passage or defense of this law."

"There can be no purpose in the resurrection of this law, except it be a political one, in the interest of the democratic party. The only way that the Edwards law, or one similar thereto, could be reenacted, would be over my veto."

"RICHARD YATES."

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND'S ADVICE.

Archbishop Ireland, of Minnesota, on his arrival in New York from Europe, was besieged by inquiries as to how he intended to vote. In reply he gave out the following statement:

How do I intend to vote? It cannot at first sight but seem more or less impertinent for any citizen to tell the public how he intends to vote. In voting each citizen obeys the dictates of his own sense of civic duty; he should simply do this and leave to others to do likewise. However, since a certain number of newspapers have undertaken to say how I intend to vote, and in so doing have misinterpreted my intention, and have not been unwilling to make political capital out of my supposed vote, I will give to the question: "How I intend to vote?" a categorical and unmistakable reply.

I intend to vote for William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt. In giving my vote for the candidates of the republican party I am satisfied in my own conscience that I serve the best interests of the country at home and abroad; that I contribute to the maintenance of the country's material prosperity and of peace and good will between the several classes of its population; that I aid the country in bringing about the safest and most honorable solutions of the complex problems which confront it as the result of the late war, and in retaining for itself the exalted position which it holds at present, commercially and diplomatically, before other nations of the world. I trust no further doubts will be expressed as to how I intend to vote.

JUDGE YATES ON THE TRUSTS.

Judge Yates, in a speech at Monticello, touching on the trust question, said, in part: "I wish to talk to you a short time on a democratic text. I see it now right over there on a placard: 'Remember the trusts.' All right; we will remember them. We will remember the most cruel, most cowardly and contemptible trust that ever existed—the new York I C trust."

"Remember the trusts is the most absurd and insane cry I have ever heard. The only effective legislation against trusts has come from the republican party. In the year 1890 the Sherman anti-trust law was piloted through congress by a congressman from Ohio, whose name was William McKinley. William J. Bryan has just discovered that the trusts are an evil. You never used to see that placard, because Bryan never knew, apparently, that trusts were an evil. Ten years ago McKinley was on guard against the trusts."

"Ten years ago, before William J. Bryan ever thought of trusts, William McKinley was on guard guarding the homes of the American people. What did William J. Bryan do the next year, 1891? Anti-trust bills introduced into the democratic congress in 1891 were referred to the committee on ways and means; that committee was democratic, and a member of it was William J. Bryan. What did that committee do? It simply recommended the whole matter for consideration by the succeeding congress, knowing that the next congress would be republican."

"When the democrats had control of every branch of the national government in 1893 they neither exterminated nor controlled trusts. On the other hand, recently, when the republican party sought to pass through congress a constitutional amendment to enable congress to pass laws to prevent states like New Jersey, for example, from chartering trusts to do business in other states, democratic opposition prevented its passage."

DEMOCRATIC RECORD ON TRUSTS.

Every line of legislation now on the statute books of the United States directed against trusts and unlawful trade combinations was placed there by the republicans.

That there is not more stringent law against them is the fault of the democratic party.

The last occasion on which the parties, as represented in congress, went on record on the trust question was on June 1, 1900.

On that day a final vote was taken on a constitutional amendment to grant congress power to "define, regulate, prohibit and dissolve trusts, monopolies and combinations, whether existing in the form of corporations or otherwise."

It requires a two-thirds vote of congress to submit a constitutional amendment to the state legislatures for ratification.

The question to so submit it was lost by a vote of 154 yeas to 132 nays.

Of the yeas 149 were republicans and only five were democrats. The five were Campbell, of Montana; Naphean and Taylor, of Massachusetts; Scudder, of New York, and Sibley, of Pennsylvania.

Of the 132 nays only two were republicans, Loud and McCall. Richardson, Leutz, Sultzer, Ruppert, Salmon and all the other professional "trust killers" voted nay. They declined to give congress the power to grapple with the trusts. The democrats indulged in spasms of virtue for two days, denouncing the trusts, and then voted to continue them.

In one of Mr. Bryan's recent speeches he gave the republican remedy as the final one he would adopt, in case he was elected and all other means failed.

In other words, Mr. Bryan admits the value of the republican idea, but wants to try other measures first. He has not said what those measures are to be.

Some trusts operate all over the country; others, like the New York I C trust, operate in a single city. The requisite power to reach each and all and bring them within the federal law was denied by a margin of 36 votes, all democratic.

Denouncing is one thing. Doing is another. Mr. Bryan's trust denunciations, in view of his party's record, promise no better than the prophecies he made four years ago, and as a prophet Mr. Bryan has not succeeded.
