The eighth congressional is still the banner republican district of the state. It gave the ticket over 18,000 plurality.

It would take about six years of this kind of sloppy weather to convince some property owners that sewers and paved streets are a necessity.

Pictures of Downers Grove streets should be sent to the good roads convention in session in Chicago as an example of how not to make streets.

Had the young boys who tampered with the railroad switches in the yards here succeeded in wrecking one of the fast trains they would have perhaps had their fill of seeing the wrecker work—their undoing.

A number of new brick crosswalks have been ordered and the street and alley committee of the village board should see that the new ones are constructed better than some of the old ones recently built, which are below the street level and consequently always muddy.

The republican party is just such a party as the Chicago Chronicle says the democratic party should be, and consequently the only reorganization that is necessary is for the conservative and substantial elements of the Democracy to join the republican party with which they have been voting in recent years, and to gain a voice in its councils.

The fact that Illinois has elected a governor by nearly 70,000 votes, yet could only elect 11 congressmen, and barely get a majority in the state legislature shows the importance of the state being re-districted, and the democratic gerrymander being wiped out, so that the people may have fair representation and free expression at the polls. In more than one respect, the election was of great importance in Illinois.

Had the DuPage County farmer, who bought three watches in a Chicago pawnshop and when he learned they were worth only $5, returned and indulged in a little target practice with the pawnbroker, discovered the watches were worth two or three hundred dollars he would probably not have made a return call to inform the pawnbroker of that fact. It is another illustration of the saying about the good ox.

The speakership of the Illinois legislature is now agitating the political mind in this state. Judge I. Y. Sherman, former speaker of the house, is again a candidate for the same post of honor. David E. Shanahan and Carl Mueller, of Cook County, Chas. A. Allen, of Vermillion, E. C. Curtis, of Kankakee, and Col. Geo. C. Rankin, of Warren, are also regarded as probable candidates. Judge Sherman, from present indications, appears to be far in the lead, and many regard him as certain to carry off the honor. He is one of the ablest parliamentarians in the state and his record as speaker in the last house is entirely to his credit. With Judge Sherman in the speaker's chair the republican party will honor one of its ablest men—a gentleman who will reflect credit on himself as well as on the party and the State of Illinois.—Harvard Herald.

Now that the campaign is over, such democratic papers as the Chicago Chronicle and Chicago American are frantically exclaiming "we told you so." Free silver is declared by them a corpse that would kill any man. They claim they were opposed to it, and all democrats opposed to it, except Bryan, but having been adopted as Bryan's dietitian as part of the platform they supported it as a matter of party duty. They further say it was a mistake to take a position against expansion, as that has ever been the doctrine of democracy in this country. They are howling for a reorganization of their party on a new basis, and from the casual reading of their newspapers it must be concluded that the only reorganization they have any hope of success with before the people is to bodily take the late republican platform. It will be gratifying to know that the old democratic party is to be reorganized.

Farmers and townpeople who send to Chicago for the goods catalogued or advertised by the department stores are striking a blow at the prosperity of the country towns. In most cases they can buy just as cheaply at home and the home dealer can be found if the article is in his line. The home dealer helps to pay the local taxes and he and the people of the country towns make a home market for their products. The larger the country towns become the better market they will be for the farmer—a market which will mean the prices received in payment for his products to the city. Delegation of business in Chicago means the concentration of business in the hands of a few big concerns. It means also the concentration of the country towns, and

LED IN THE FIGHT.

The political campaign of 1900 is history. It was the most vigorous, closely contested and enthusiastic one ever waged by the republican party in the history of Illinois, and more so than in any other state in the union by any candidate of a political party. Weeks before the close came the democrats exhausted all modern tactics in political maneuverings in a futile attempt to stem the tide of indignation and defeat that had set in against their standard bearers, William Jennings Bryan and Samuel Alschuler, democratic nominees for president and governor, respectively. Tactics unheard of before were employed for the sole defeat of the republican candidate for governor, Judge Richard Yates. Practices unbelievably to be possible were thrown in his path; boomerangs, roobacks and absolute prevarication indulged in with desire to elect Samuel Alschuler governor. The name of William Jennings Bryan was sacrificed in this desire. Cartoons were gotten up, issued and sent broadcast throughout the state by the democratic leaders with intent to seduce votes by charging the republicans with carrying on a "racial war." Other matters were placed in vogue, known full well to every citizen now. All these, and far more, did Richard Yates have to contend with, and with him his honest, steadfast friends and workers.

For seven long weeks was the entire state honeycombed with scores and hundreds of spellbinders, orators and campaign features. The work greatly benefited the canvass of the nominees, and it will long be remembered and pointed to with pride whenever the historic campaign is mentioned. But of all these workers and enthusiasts none approached that of the gubernatorial candidate himself, Judge Richard Yates, the standard bearer of the grand old party in the Prairie state. Months before the republican state convention was held he asked the people of the state to make him their choice for governor. He pledged himself that if nominated he would carry the flag into every county in the state in the interest of his party and bring it back in triumph, and in vigor and push the campaign would be all the most earnest campaigner could desire.

He was nominated and then mapped out a campaign and itinerary for himself that was believed by everyone to be a physical impossibility to fulfill. Physically, Judge Yates appears to be a frail man, but in strength of endurance he is equal to the strongest. His nerve and pluck are incomparable. He has shown himself able to withstand the most strenuous campaign and demonstrated his ability to carry out the plan he promised the people. He commenced his work with energy, enthusiasm and stern determination for victory. Not one moment did he lose, not one miscalculation did he make and not one time did he waver from the work at hand. His energy and constitution were far stronger than his fondest ones imagined. Never was such a campaign planned; never was such an one fulfilled and never will it be surpassed, nor probably equalled, again in political history. He accomplished every idea promised, fulfilled every pledge, made no promises, but stood with the people, for the people and by the people. No gubernatorial candidate ever made as strong personal campaign among the workers and wage-earners of Illinois as Judge Yates. An indefatigable worker himself the laboring men of all classes appreciated his tireless efforts.

Regarding the work of the state committee and Chairman Rowe's efficiency Judge Yates said in an interview after the election: "Leading men of all elements of the party have within the last few days expressed to me their admiration for State Chairman Rowe. At the outset it was frequently predicted that, owing to its new officers, the state central committee would not manage the campaign capably and wisely. It is now conceded by all observers that the contrary has been true, and that the new committee has waged a campaign the success of which justly entitles it to a rank which could have been expected only from veteran managers. And it is to be observed that the more closely any given county committee throughout the state observed and followed the advice and suggestions of the state central committee, the better showing at the polls was made by that given county."

Pages of history could be written of his wonderful campaign, and each page a glorious monument to his bravery, honesty and determination of purpose. The brave son of a noble father—Gov. Elect Richard Yates.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat; and all wrong, if too thin already. Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion. Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity. The genuine has this picture on it, take no other. If you have not tried it, send for free sample. Its agreeable taste will surprise you. SCOTT'S BOWNE CHEMISTS, 409 N. Dearborn St., Chicago.
