VILLAGE ETCHINGS.

And it came to pass after the days of the invine of the water mains and the building of the electric lights, that the people which dwelt in the village which is set in the forms rejeleed greatly and were much lifted up. And they communed together saying, "Go to, verily are we not the real thing. Have we not water works, and electric lights of the brilliancy of many Breflyw and bright colored insects? Now will the people of the great city pass by the hill tribes and the dwellers of the plains, which are over against us, and sojourn during the summer days in our tents. Yes, they will buy of our many roomed houses and take up their habitation with us and we shall have abundance of the riches which they bring."

And of a truth it seemed that this prophecy was fulfilled, for the people of the great city came to the village, which is set in the forest, traveling in numbers upon the accompdation train, even the dinkey, and exclaimed concerning the exceeding beauty of the village and the kindly nature of the inhabitants thereof.

Now when these people from the great city were come to the village, they did sook out certain men well versed in trading which were known as real estate men Now these real estate men, which were also known by the name of agents, possessed of an exceeding honeyed speech sad a certain sharpness which outstripped the wit of the people of the city.

And behold before-the summer was endof and the snow fell upon the sidewalks the real estate men, which were known as aments, had gathered to themselves a vast number of leases signed by the people of the great city. But some of the people of the great city bought to themselves lots and builded thereon houses, even many smed mansions, surpassing the homesteads of the villagers. But when they came to put in modern improvements, ever buildibe and such furnishments, that the water from the high tower might course through their dwellings, they were sore dismayed for behold there was no provialon for drains.

Now this thing perturbed the city people, which were now villagers, and caused then to omplain, and with one accord they sight out the real estate men, which were known or agunts, and expectulated to them in an unjust tome saying, "Behold thin is a most unkindly thing which ye have done note us. Verily did ye not my when we came to you: 'Lo, the place has all the medern improvements. Look at the water works how it possesseth excellence and the electric light how it shineth with great brilliency. No mistako will ye make, if pernerenture ye tarry here.' Now behold we have spent much money and put in modern furnishments, but your drains, where are they? Verily of what good are the water works. We turn on the faucet and it floodsth the cellar likewise the Alteben is dampened."

Then did the real estate men tremble see had agreed with them on this thing.

How this improvement had come to pass and a great sower had been builded and the desire of the people satisfied but that the first cost of the cower was mighty and estain creakers had set themselves against It and their words were heavy, being newson of much land.

So there was no more building of manin the village which is set in the forand the city people which had invested a lote marmared much but stayed on and ries to secupe from the village.

Downers Grove is literally teeming h bears hunters, and most unfortunated. Every few days there are parties from the city looking for houses, both the number and during the entire year.

ability to properly attend to the duties of the office. It is stronge that the republi cans of Winfield could not releas a more canable official to represent them on the county board.

The question of water works for Naporville will be made a feature of its municipal campaign again this year. "Keeping everlastingly at it brings success," and in the not too distant future Naperville will take her stand among the other progres sive towns in DuPage county. Water works have been a paying investment for Downers Grove and the plant pays a handsome surplus annually over operating expenses.
