Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the Filipino army and head and shoulders of the islanders' insurrection, is a prisoner in the hands of the Americans. Gen. Frederick Funston has crowned his brilliant record in the Philippines by directing in person the final hunt that has ended the flight of the fugitive of fugitives. Funston sent no reports or rumors from the province of Isabella, in southern Luzon, where the expedition. He silently worked out his plans, caught his man this material two letters were constructed, osiensibly from Lacuna to Aguinaldo. One of these contained information as to the progress of the war. The other asserted that, pursu-Aguinaldo, Locuna was sending his Macabebes were four ex-insurgent officers, one being a Spaniard and the other three Tagalos, whom General Funston trusted implicitly. General blue shirts and knaki trousers. They carried each a half blanket, but wore no insignia of rank. The Macabebes commander gasped incredulously. But when he peered a second time at the sallow countenance of the indomitable Filipino he realized that the object for which more than a year of time and the efforts of thousands of soldiers had been expended fruitlessly was attained at last. The commander's first utterance was that the insurrection would die out as soon as the hostile natives learned for a certainty that their leader was a prisoner. He had an immediate audience with Aguinaldo, whom he treated with great consideration. General MacArthur, however, would not divulge anything that passed during the conversation. The most rigid precautions were taken to guard against any attempt at escape-on the part of Aguinaldo or of any of his faithful adherents to rescue him.

The end of General Funston's chase came on March 23. He had just be-

Story of Againside's Capture. Following are the details of the capture of Aguinaldo by General Funston: On Jan. 14 a detachment of General Funston's troops captured at Punta Bangan, province of Neuva Ecija, a messenger from Aguinaldo's headquarters at Palanan, Isabella province, who was carrying letters to the various insurgent chiefs asking them to send reinforcements. On Feb. 8 one of Aguinaldo's staff officers surrendered to Lieutenant Taylor of the Twentyfourth infantry. This officer had in his possession valuable correspondence, which told of Aguinaldo's whereabouts and of the strength of the force with him. One of the letters was addressed to Baldomero Aguinaldo, ordering him to take command of the insurgents in central Luzon and to send 400 riflemen to Aguinaldo's headquarters. Upon learning the nature of the correspondence, General Funston immediately conceived the plan of equipping a number of native troops who and brought him in. General MacAr- would pass themselves off as the ex-oned for three days, surreptitiously giving orders at night. After many more adventures the Tagalos entered the house where Aguinaldo was. Suddenly the Spanish officer, noticing that Aguinaldo's aid was watching the Americans suspiciously, exclaimed "Now, Macabebes, go for them. The Macabebes opened fire, but their aim was rather ineffective, and only three insurgents were killed. The rebels returned the fire. On hearing the firing Aguinaldo, who evidently thought his men were merely celebrat ing the arrival of re-enforcements, ran to the window and shouted, "Stop that foolishness; quit wasting ammunition."

Hilario Placido, one of the Tagalog officers, and a former insurgent major, who was wounded in the lung by the fire of the Kansas regiment at the battle of Caloocan, threw his arms around Aguinaldo, exclaiming, "You are a prisoner of the Americans!" Col. Simeon Villia, Aguinaldo's chief of staff, Major Alambra, and others, attacked the men who were holding Aguinaldo. Placido shot Villia in the shoulder. Alambra jumped out of the window and attempted to cross the river. It is supposed that he was drowned. Five other insurgent officers fought for a few minutes and then fled, making their escape. When the firing began General Funston assumed command and directed the attack on the house, personally assisting in the capture of Aguiraldo. The insurgent body guard fled, leaving twenty rifles. Santiago Barcelona, the insurgent treasurer, surrendered without resistance.

Trollowed Mrs. Minh. Advice and Now Lam We

A woman is sick—some disease peculiar to her sex is fast developing in her system. She goes to her family physici and tells him a story, but not the whole story.

She holds back something, loses her head, becomes agitated, forgets what she wants to say, and finally conceals what she ought to have told, and this completely mystifies the doctor.

Is it a wonder, therefore, that the doctor fails to cure the disease? Still we cannot blame the woman, for it is very embarrassing to detail some of the symptoms of her suffering. even to her family physician. This is the reason why hundreds of thousands of women are now in correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can give every symptom, so that when she is ready to advise them she is in possession of more facts from her correspondence with the patient than the physician can possibly obtain through a personal interview.

Following we publish a letter from a woman showing the result of a correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham. All such letters are considered absolutely confidential by Mrs. Pinkham, and are never published in any way or manner without the consent in writing of the patient; but hundreds of women are so grateful for the health which Mrs. Pinkham and her medicine have been able to restore to them that they not only consent to publishing their letters, but write asking that this be done in order that other women who suffer may be benefited by their experience.

Mrs. Ella Rice, Chelsea, Wis., writes:
