ter Ocean, Congressman George W.
Prince of Galesburg makes use of some very strong language in relation to the administration of Governor Yates. Mr. Prince's interview has the Sunday School at 12 m. Prayer meeting ring of true Republicanism and will be sure to have great weight throughout the state, as the congressman is well known and highly respected by the Republican party of the state.

This is what he says: "From all I can hear in conversation with me throughout the state, I think Governor Yates is growing steadily stronger with the people all DROTESTANT EPISCOPAL, St. Andrew's the time. Governor Yates has come handsomely through one legislature. He made no mistakes and I think the people are well pleased with his course during the legislature. He used good discrimination in signing and vetoing bills presented to him. Aside from some few appointments, I have at 8 and 10:30 o'clock. English sermon lst and heard no criticism of him. Yates is the only governor within my recollection against whom there was formed in the first year of his administration, a cabal to hamper him and to the governor. He ought to be given a chance to show what he can and will do before an effort is made to discredit him and his administration. As I said, he is growing with the people and some of the attacks made on him will only strengthen him." Congressman Prince states the situation too midly when he says there was a cabal formed against Yates during guage: the first year of his administration. The fact is this combination was formed before Governor Yates was inaugurated. Weeks before Governor Yates was inaugurated, certain Republicans, some of them who had been bonored by seats in the state legislature, banded themselves together for Workmen hall. J. B. Huling, Archon. Chas | the purpose of harassing and annoying the state administration. Their idea TAPLE CAMP 898 M. W. A. Meets is Car- seemed to be that it was necessary to tear down Governor Yates' administration in order to strengthen the chances of other persons who might in the future seek preferment at the hands of the Republican party.

In the future selection of members to the legislature, it will be a good thing for the Republican masses to see Wednesdays in each month in Carpenter's ball, to it that only such men are nominated as will use all honorable efforts to sustain and encourage the Republican state government. Men whose sole ambition is to succeed personally, regardless of the party's interests, should not be honored with seats in the state legislature.—Springfield Journal.

No Policy and no Leader.

Senator Vest in a recent interview said: "It would be suicidal for the Democrats to thrust the silver issue forward again," He recommended that the Democratis platform for 1904 declare for a graduated income tax, against imperialism and the colonial system, and, most particularly, for unrelenting hostility to trusts.

A few months ago Senator Vest would have been regarded as a capable adviser of the Democratic platform makers, but now his recommendations are regarded with slight favor or receive contemptuous treatment. One Democratic newspaper commenting on

Mr. Vest's statement says: "And this is all that Mr. Vest thinks there is left of Democracy in the Unit ed States. He would go phantom chasing again as the Democrats chased silver and populistic phantoms for six Sepator Vest is reminded that the income tax question has been settled by the supreme court; that before 1904 all the questions involved in what is called imperialism and the colonial system will be settled by congress and the supreme court; that nobody can tell the condition in which the trusts will be three years or two years hence. In for a platform and looking everywhere for a candidate, plainly tells a Democratic senator that what seemed to him important issues are no issues at all, or will not be in 1904.

Other Democratic newspapers tell Mr. Bryan that silver cannot be an issue in 1904. Democrats in Virginia as well as in Ohio repudiate Mr. Bryan and Bryanism. As represented by its strong men, or by its senators, congressmen, governors and its newspapers, the Democratic party is a party without a policy and without a leader. —Chicago Inter Ocean.

We know it is humiliating to the Democrat to have the Republican press refer to Bryan, but Bryan is considered the leader of Democracy until the next national convention, if they have one, deposes him, so the Demcrat will have to stand it,-Nashville Journal.

The Democratic party is fond of hurling glittering generalities at trusts, but we notice that when their leaders get a chance to invest their sheckles 8.35 a m in that sort of a corporation seven yoke of oxen couldn't keep them from it.-11.05 am Summer Press.

The Populists, Democrats and Free Silver Republicans had their grand annual fusion in Nebraska again, and the regular worry over the problem of getting them to stay fused until election 5.49 pm time will now begin,—Charleston Plaindealer.

> It sems that it is all over between Senator Jones and Mr. Bryan. Jones, by the way, is not the sort of a man to desert a vessel that is thoroughly seaworthy and is equal to a rapid rate of speed.—Champaign Gazette.

With the Republican party representing all that is good in politics, and the Democratic party representing alf that is bad, where is Mr. Bryan to get material for a third party?-Benton

The extreme heat has greatly damaged Kansas City pavements, but they 4 Quincy 11.30 a m .. 12.00 p m | are still in a far better condition than the Kansas City platform. Greenville

Another Saub for Mr. Bryan. The Maryland Democrats, like the Ohio Democrats, have ignored Bryan and Bryanism. The only difference is that at Columbus six delegates out of 950 demanded an indorsement of the "peerless leader" and his monetary doctrine, while at Baltimore not a single voice was raised against a platform containing no reference whatever to the Nebraska orator or his 16 to 1 scheme. Mr. Gorman, of course, dominated the Maryland convention, and its action represented his desire to go back to the United States senate. Hence he deemed it advisable to snub Mr. Bryan and to declare in the resolutions that "it is not necessary to do more in regard to national issues than to reaffirm our steadfast allegiance to the cardinal doctrines of the Democratic party as expounded by its illustrious founder, Thomas Jefferson." Mr. Bryan will, of course, say that this means Bryanism, but everybody knows it doesn't. The Democracy is running away from its hoodoo.

Capital and Labor. Lieutenant Governor Northcott's address at Springfield on Labor Day was a most admirable one, and one which will be widely read and universally approved. As a discussion of the relations of labor and capital it is most exhaustive and cannot but attract attention from and the approval of our best thinkers and writers on this subject. A thorough discussion of the subject in all its phases leads him to take a most favorable view of the future, which he does in the following lan-

"The crescent promise of the twentieth century is the harmonious and fair partnership and co-orperation of labor and capital. It is the heir of all the ages in the foremost files of time. 'It is the genius of American institutions, in the fullness of time, to wipe the last opprobrious stain from the brow of toil and to crown the toller with the dignity, luster and honor of a full and perfect manhood.

"I will give you the toast of the twentieth century: Here's to labor and capital-the organization of each and the co-orperation of both!"

Whistling Against the Wind.

Democratic newspapers are raising the old cry, "Reduce the army." Uninformed, as usual, as to facts and conditions, they assume that we have now in the field an army of 100,000 men, and they insist that with peace in the I'hillippines there ought to be an immediate reduction of from 30 to 50 per

The army reorganization bill of 1899 provided for a regular army of 66,000 men. The permanent reorganization act of February. 1901, provided for a regular army of 58,000 men, the president having authority to increase this to 100,000 men. When the bill was passed it was believed that the army would have to be kept, for a time at least, at the maximum strength. When conditions in the Philippines improved the president issued an order fixing the strength of the army at about 74,000

The reductons were made in lufantry and eavalry, but the artillery was maintained at the maximum strength so as to provide for our coast defenses. We have now thirty regiments of infantry, but not so many men as there were in the twenty-five regiments under the old organization, and there are not as many men in the fifteen regiments of cavalry under the new organization as there were in the ten regiments under the old. We have now in active service in the field probably 60,000 men, 60 per cent, serving abroad. The plan of the war department is to relieve all the troops that have seen service in the Philippines and China sending regiments from this country to take ther places. This is in the interest of the health of the troops, and returning regiments will be quartered in localities favorable to their recuperation from the arduous

The experiences of the Spanish war showed the folly of being unprepared for war and showed also the character of our regular army. The advantage of having seasoned soldiers ready for a campaign was as clearly demonstrated as was the disadvantage of sending unsensoned soldiers into the field. That experience dispelled from the minds of the American people any prejudices against the regular army that may have existed, and at the same time aroused the public to demand a military establishment that would meet the necessities of the nation.

We have made mistakes in the past because after every war, when we have had an army of trained and experienced men in the field, there has been yielding to a senseless clamor to reduce the army, but no such mistake will be made in the future. The Democratic newspapers are whistling against the wind. There will be no reduction of the army below the minimum provided for in the reorganization law of last February.

Somehow or other we do not read in the state Democratic platforms this year anything about "the crime of 1873" about which there was so much said a few years ago. It would be well to advertise this former all-important issue as being either lost strayed or stolen .- Sumner Press.

Once there seemed to be a disposition on the part of the country newspapers of Illinois to seek the Chicago newspapers as a fount of inspiration. but the inclination to shun them has grown with their marked departure from Republicanism.-Quinca Whig.

Governor Yates is determined to have only his friends in the offices for which he stands responsible, and he is right about it too. No man who cares for his reputation will leave it in the keeping of his opponents.--Champaign News.

Some of Carter Harrison's Chicago detectives have been caught stealing from the state of Illinois, and the state administration will make it hot for them.-St. Charles Chronicle.
