Kirkland B. Armour, one of the most conspicuous figures in the western commercial world, died at his home in Kansas City at 5:55 o'clock Friday evening after an iliness of about two years. He had been a sufferer from Bright's disease, though the immediate cause of his death is given as acute inflammation of the kidneys. He was only 47 years old. At his bedside, when the summons came, were his wife and son, Watson; his brother, Charles W. Armour, who now becomes the head of the Armour family here; his mother, Mrs. A. W. Armour, and a few close friends. Mr. Armour's fortune was placed at about $5,000,000. K. B. Armour was born at Stockbridge, Madison county, N. Y. During that period of his life when young men generally attend college, Mr. Armour was walking about in top boots in the slush and blood and grime of the packing house in Kansas City, learning the business. What schooling he had outside of the district school was at the Oneida seminary. He school when he was 18 years old and went to Kansas City. That was in

Studied Business Thoroughly.

The Armour packing company had · been established two years at that time, and the young man stepped in to fit himself for the management of the business, which fell upon his shoulders when he was still a young man. He went through all the departments; he handled the shipping, the purchase, and the killing and the packing of the stock. He went right through the mill in fact, and when he stepped out he was a better graduate of this school than is many a man of his alma mater.

Then he went into the active management of the business in which he was until his death, or history before. His first official position in the Armour company was that of vice president and general manager of the Kansas City plant. From that he stepped into the presidency when his uncle, S. B. Armour, died in 1898. But even with the added duties he still retained the general managership. He was at his office every day, and he had a grasp of the details of the business that was wonderful. He was a quiet man, and he never made a fuss about anything he did. While he worked all the time, he was a leader socially, and was well known as a church goer.

He Bred Fancy Stock.

Mr. Armour was a devotee of fancy stock breeding, and his herd of Herefords is recognized as the finest in the West. His farm south was owned by C. C. Armour and himself. He did more for this breed of cattle than any one else, and it was his great pride. Armour Rose, the helfer which virtually built Convention Hall, was his gift, which he redeemed from the woman who drew her for $1,000 in gold. He afterward got $2,500, for she was probably the most advertised Hereford that ever lived. Armour Sunflower he recently gave to the hall for the same purpose. He was a very public-spirited man, and what he did he did quietly, but it was lavish and large. In the National Association of Hereford Breeders, Mr. Armour was looked up to as a leader. He was twice elected president despite the rule that a man can serve only one term. He was a director in the Stock Yards company, the New England National Bank, the Armour Packing Company, and the Interstate National Bank at the stock yards. About two years ago he became ill and then he left the management of details at the packinghouse largely to others, but he watched its general trend, and kept it well in hand, almost to his death. He had a magnificent home on Armour boulevard. His wife and three children survive him. His wife was Miss Annie Hearne of Wheeling, and they were married in April, 1881. Three weeks ago Mr. Armour was sent home on special train from New York state, where he had been seeking health, to

ANGLO-TURKISH CRISIS.

Missing at Busre. A dispatch to the London Time from Bombay gives the following additional details regarding an alleged Anglo-Turkish crists in southern Asia. According to these latest dispatches the Turks again attempted to land troops at Koweit. The British cruiser Perseus, noticing the movements of a Turkish vessel, steamed up and demanded the object of the visit. The reply was that the vessel had been instructed to land 500 men. The commander of the Perseus advised the Turkish commander to return to Busra. The Turkish vessel instead of doing this, entered the harpor and prepared to land the troops. The Perseus cleared decks for action and played her searchlight on the Turk all night. In the morning the Turkish commander visited the Perseus and intimated his intention of returning to Fao and telegraphing to Constantinople for instructions. The vessel went to Fao and is still there. Meantime Turkish troops are massing at Busra and are reported to be under command of Edhem Pasha. The Sheikh Mabourkh reports that the vali of Busra has asked him to discourage the calls of British warships and mail steamers. He has refused to do so. A British protectorate has not yet been established.

A British naval force is concentrat ing in the Persian gulf. Three warships are already on the spot and they will be augmented by the gunboat Assaye, which has already left Kurrachee, and the flagship, the secondclass cruiser Highflyer. The thirdclass cruiser Pomone will also sail for the Persian gulf so soon as she has coaled at Bombay. It is believed that fresh trouble is impending at Koweyt According to a report, Turkey has 30, 000 troops at Basra (on the Shat-El-Arab, seventy miles from its mouth in the Persian gulf), commanded by Edhem Pasha, with the object of seizing Koweyt though the Turks assert that the troops are intended to traverse Arabia with the object of suppressing disaffection in Yemen.

Postmaster General Contemplates De nying Them Right to Mails.

At Washington, D. C., Postmaster General Smith is seriously considering the denial of postal privileges to newspapers and other publications of anarchistic tendencies. While there nothing specific in the regulations of the department that confers upon him this authority, it is argued by officials that he has as much right to proceed against such publications as he had to withdraw second class mail privileges from periodicals with premium offers. It is further contended that there is no reason why anarchists should receive the protection of the very government which they are endeavoring to destroy, and that if orders are issued against fraudulent concerns they could also be issued against persons who are known to be anarchists and those who publish anarchistic newspapers.

The Influence of Kindness. There are few people so fortunate that at some period of their lives they do not droop, under the clouds trouble or misfortune. At some time grief is almost certain to come, unwelcome guest. Sorrows and troubles gather round us, causing hearts almost to break beneath their weight. It is in those dark hours that the heart needs the comfort and kindness of a sympathizing friend. We are so constituted that, to a great degree our happiness is dependent upon others. The heart is formed for friendships, and we need the smile and light glowing from the faces o others as much as the little flower needs the warmth of the sun or th cooling shower. Words of kindness fall upon the heart like the gentle dew. We know not, and may not know the good we might do in this world by simple deeds of kindness. They are worth more than silver or gold. How like angels of mercy we might become if we would be guided more by the law of kindness-kindness to all, especially to the poor and those who have strayed from the paths of rectitude! It is kindness alone that will soften their hearts and win them back eventually to the right way .-

A FEARLESS PHYSICIAN.

New York Weekly.

Benton, Ill., Sept. 30th.-Much comment has been caused by the action of Dr. R. H. Dunaway, a physician here, who for over a year past has been recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills to those of his patients who suffered from Rheumatism, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or other Kidney Troubles.

Dr. Dunaway also published an open letter last May stating positively that he himself had been cured of Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and that, after he had concluded he was going to die. He is a well man today and says he feels it his duty to do as he has done and is doing because Dodd's Kidney Pills saved his life.

Eye Indicates Character.

Physiognomists rely greatly upon the expression and color of the eye in reading character. It is said that deep blue eyes indicate a mind disposed to coquetry, but still bespeak a heart capable of pure, unswerving, ardent love. Gray eyes signify dignity, intelligence, and large reasoning powers Greenish eyes belong to a nature in which will be found, in the majority of cases, jealously, falsebood, scandal and malice. Where the white is tinged with yellow and streaked with reddish veins, the eyes are the reflectors of passion and hasty temper. Restless eyes, that cannot look one steadily in the face, denote a scheming and a treacherous disposition. Quiet eyes signify self-command, complacency, and a modicum of conceit. Black eyes tell you of slumbering passions and an active disposition, sometimes marred with a tinge of deceit. The brown eye is a dear, sweet eye, loving and tenoer, and as trusty as it is honest and faithful, indicating a nature full of generosity, kindness and happiness,-New York Weekly.

DAIRY COUNTRY.

What Prof. Henry Thinks of the New Lands in North Wisconsin.

Prof. W. E. Henry, dean of the college of agriculture, in an article on the dairy industry of northern Wisconsin, says: "After careful study of all the conditions prevailing in nor hern Wisconsin, the writer is firmly impressed with the belief that this will become one of the great dairy regions of America. First of all, there is that prime requisite for fine butter and cheese, namely, an ample supply of pure cold water everywhere accessible. Second, an abundance of wholesome stock foods. In summer time the cattle of northern Wisconsin will find in its pastures the finest of grasses and clovers (red and white clovers flourish), and timothy and blue grass pastures are as prevalent and productive as anywhere further south." If you are interested, and want to learn more about this country, we suggest that you write to D. W. Casseday, land agent of the "Soo" Line, Minneapolis, and ask him to send printed matter. He will be glad to do so.
