ECONOMIC LEAGUE.

governed. But now forsooth the rulers of the land are termed tyrannical and the horrors of a fancied imperialism conjured up because an effort is being made to introduce civilization and prosperity to the natives of islands which came to it by the double title of conquest and purchase.

"From small beginnings this country has developed till it now unquestionably stands in the world as the exponent of the ability of a people to govern itself. We are now a world power whether we like it or not and it behooves us to act as such and take the place which is ours of right in councils of civilization.

"Through stress of circumstances not of our own making; through the medium of a war forced upon us by the unholy tyranny of a foreign power over its unhappy subjects in this hemisphere, we have become the arbiters of an alien race. The peculiar heritage of freedom which is ours unsought is impossible to them. To us is intrusted a paradoxical mission. We must govern and free; we must restrain and yet liberate.

"The United States has demonstrated that a people can govern itself without a crowned king. It now attempts the more difficult task of governing others and at the same time fitting them for self government. The fact that an effort is being made to educate the Filipinos is in itself proof of the disinterested motive of the government of those islands. There would be more point in the declaration of those who decry our sway over the eastern possessions had no attempt for the intellectual development of the islanders been made. Never yet in the history of the world did a power seek to enlighten those who were destined to subjection.

"Ignorance is the arch enemy of freedom and with the establishment of schools in the Philippines will come, as the years pass, a change in the people so that they will be able to assume the direction of their own affairs. After having rescued the natives from the reign of the Spaniard the United States is in duty bound to keep watch and ward over the islands till the time comes in which they will be able to govern themselves.

"Whether the future of the Philippine Islands means an independent nation or statehood in our country I know not but of this I am assured the United States will never and should never withdraw its protecting arm from the Philippine Islands till its people have grasped the principles of free government and are prepared to govern themselves in decency and order."
