The best bill yet announced by Hopkins' theater is booked for next week at the State street playhouse. At the head of the vaudeville acts is that of Al Leach and the three Rosebuds. Mr. Leach is one of the best comedians on the stage. He typifies the old-time school teacher and the three Rosebuds, who are a trio of pretty girls, are his scholars, and they play all sorts of tricks on their master. Another interesting act will be that of Sam Morris, Jennie Kelton and M. J. Hooley, who will appear in a sketch entitled, "Jack's Thanksgiving." Mr. Morris has been for years the comedian of the Hopkins stock company and as a mirth provoker he has few equals. His sketch is very amusing.
