Death, Due to Inflammation of the Brate, Was Expected, Physicians Have ing Informed the Family That They Had Abandoned Hope for His Recovery.

The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, the noted Presbyterian divine, died at his residence in Washington Saturday. It had been evident for some days that there was no hope of recovery and the attending physicians so informed the family. The patient gradually grew weaker until life passed away so quietly that even the members of the family, all of whom were watching at the bedside, hardly knew that it had gone. The immediate cause of death was inflammation of the brain.

Dr. Talmage was in poor health when he left Washington six weeks ago for a vacation and rest in Mexico. He was then suffering from influenza and serious catarrhal conditions. Since his return to Washington some time ago he had been quite iii. Until Thursday, however, fears for his death were not entertained. The last rational words uttered by Dr. Talmage were on the day preceding the marriage of his daughter, when he said: "Of course, I know you, Maud." Since then he had been unconscious.

At Dr. Talmage's bedside, besides his wife, were the Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage of Chicago, Mrs. Warren G. Smith of Brooklyn, Mrs. Daniel Mangam of Brooklyn, Mrs. Allen E. Don-

Wednesday, April 9. Throughout the senate session the Chinese exclusion bill was under consideration. Mr. Gallinger and Mr. Dillingham opposed it and Mr. Turner supported it. Mr. Gallinger urged that the bill was unnecessary, unjust and un-American, and was clearly in contravention of this country's treaty obligations with China. He maintained that American labor ought not to be pauperized and paganized by the admission of Chinese, and said any experiment looking to their admission would be needless and wicked. In an extended address Mr. Turner appealed to the senate to pass the bill, not merely for the protection of the people of the Pacific coast, but to prevent the entire body politic from being contaminated by the Chinese. Mr. Pacific states had expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied with the operation of existing law, and said there was no proper reason for a change, particularly as the change would involve great trouble and ex-taken after a brief executive session. Mr. Henry (Conn.) asked unanimous consent of the house to disagree to the senate amendments to the oleomargarine bill, but Mr. Richardson (Tenn.) objected, and the bill went to the committee on agriculture. The rest of the day was devoted to continuance of the debate on Cuban reci-pense. Mr. Fairbanks reported favorably from the committee on immigraby the house. It was placed on the calendar. Mr. Patterson offered a resolution, which was adopted, calling on the secretary of the treasury for certain regulations regarding the exclusion of Chinese. Adjournment was procity.

Thursday, April 10, 'An effort was made to obtain an agreement for a vote on the Chinese exclusion bill in the senate, but it was unsuccessful. The indications are that the vote will be taken next Tuesday. The measure was under discussion during the entire session, except for about an hour, during which time the postoffice appropriation bill was considered and passed. An amendment was agreed to eliminating section 56 of the exclusion bill and substituting a provision that nothing in the act should be construed to prevent any foreign exhibitor from any country from bringing to the United States such assistants as might be necessary to enable him to make an exhibition at any fair or exposition authorized by the government. Mr. Depew spoke briefly against adoption of the resolution providing for the election of senators by popular vote. In effect he served notice on those states which had limited their suffrage that if the resolution was enacted a demand would be made on them to accord all their citizens the right to vote or suffer a loss of representatives in congress. He offered this amendment: "The qualification of citizens entitled to vote for United States senators or representatives in congress shall be uniform in all the states and congress shall have the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation and to provide for the registration of citizens entitled to vote, the conduct of such elections and the certificate of the result." The usual executive session preceded adjournment. Aside from the debate on the Cuban reciprocity bill little was done in the house. Resolutions were passed calling upon the secretary of state for information regarding the alleged removal by Canadian officials of landmarks along the Alaskan border and calling upon him for the report of the governor of Louisiana and all other correspondence relating to the establishment of a British base of supplies near Louisiana and the shipment of horses and mules for the use of the British army in south Africa.

Friday, April 11. Some remarks waich Mr. Depew made in the senate Thursday concerning the proposed amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of senators by popular vote. in the course of which he adverted to southern election methods, precipitated a lively three hours' debate. When the Chinese exclusion bill was taken up an agreement was reached that voting on it should begin next Wed- | keeping." ······ nesday at 1 o'clock Mr. Teller of Colorado supported the measure is s brief speech, maintaining that it was necessary and that it was not in contravention of treaty obligations with China. Senator Hawley presented a protest from the American bederation of Labor, the International Seamen's Union and the California Chinese Exclusion committee against the substitute for the pending bill suggested by Senator Platt (Conn.). The senate then went into executive session, and at 4:45 p. m. adjourned.

In the house the speaker announced the appointment of the following committee to attend the funeral at Arlington cemetery, Washington, of General Rosecrans: Mr. Hepburn (lowa), Mr. Grosvenor (Ohio), Mr. Loud (Cal.), Mr. Steele (Ind.), Mr. Lessler (N. Y.), Mr. Elliott (S. C.). Mr. Clark (Mo.), Mr. Cummings (N. Y.) and Mr. Clayton (Ala). The postoffice bill was sent to conference. Saturday, April 14. Continuation of the debate on the Chinese exclusion bill occupied most of the day in the senate. Bills were also passed providing for an additional circuit judge in the second judicial circuit of New York and for the creation of the petrified forest national park in Arizona.

> Monday, April 14. The Chinese exclusion bill occupied the day in the senate. Senators Foraker and McLaurin (S. C.) made extended speeches in opposition to it. Mr. Foraker contended that the measure was violative of the treaty with China and was calculated to prevent America's commercial expansion in the far East. While strongly supporting the policy of the government to exclude Chinese laborers, he maintained this could be best accepted by an extension of the present law. Mr. McLaurin held that the drastic provisions of the pending bill would cut off America's cotton trade with China and thus wreck the cotton industry of the South. Mr. Teller briefly responded to Mr. Foraker, urging that the right to abrogate treaties was fully recognixed. Mr. Lodge gave notice of an amendment striking out the much-discussed clause prohibiting the employment of Chinese sailors on American ships. After a brief executive session. the senate at 4:20 p. m. adjourned.

Interest in the Cuban reciprocity debate seemed to be waning, judged house, but the earnestness of the speeches on both sides of the question increased rather than decreased in intensity. That the Republican opponents of the bill are determined to prolong the struggle as much as possible was made manifest by their refusal to allow speeches to be printed in the record. The speakers were Mesars, McCall (Mass.) and Brantley (Ga.) for the measure and Mesers. Robertson (La.) and Stevens (Minn.) against it. Mr. Robinson (Ind.) opposed annexation on the ground that it would threaten the welfare of the American wage earner. The conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill was adopted after some criticism of the pneumatic tube pro-

LIFE SENTENCE FOR MILLER

Murderer of Miss Jounett in Prison 72 Hours After Deed.

Seventy-two hours after Prof. Joseph M. Miller murdered Miss Carrie M. Jennett with a hatchet at Detroit, Mich., he was in Jackson prison, sentenced to spend the rest of his life there at hard labor. He was arraigned in the Recorder's court on the charge of murder. His attorney, who was appointed by the court, raised the question of Miller's sanity and Judge Murphy appointed a commission of three alienists, Drs. Emerson, Hitchcock and Miller, to examine Miller. After a careful examination the physicians came into court and announced that they were agreed that there was nosymptom of insanity in the defendant. Miller was then ordered to plead. and the self-confessed murderer said in a loud voice: "Guilty." Evidence was then introduced to prove the death of Miss Jennett. In sentencing Miller Judge Murphy called 'him a
