Pain

From Inflammatory Rheumatism

Would Have Killed Our Son.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills Saved Him.

When I began to use Dr. Miles' Nerve and Brain Pills six years ago. My wife had liver trouble and a neighbor gave her some of these pills to try, after which she bought a bottle of them and my wife used them until cured. Since then I have used them and I must say that I have never used any pills that gave me the satisfaction these have. It is also true that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills with most satisfaction. Three years ago our son Harry had inflammatory rheumatism. He had suffered so much that I believe if he had not given him Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills which relieved him almost instantly he would have died. I am always glad of the opportunity for praising Dr. Miles' Remedies.—James Smith, Alton, Ill.

I was afflicted with neuralgia for years and never found any permanent relief till I began using Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They not only cured my headache and neuralgia pains. Only this morning I recommend them to a friend with a severe headache and she took the Anti-Pain Pills that she had bought from me. The headache was gone. We are now in the family and find them excellent for the women folk. This high altitude climate here is very nervous. Grandma says I should tell Dr. Miles she could not live her life without the Anti-Pain Pills that she bought from me.—L. R. Morris, Helena, Mont.

To Enter Orange River Valley.
The number of Americans who may enter the Transvaal or Orange River Colony is limited to 60 a month, and each must have a permit, the blank application for which can be had of any British consul. And, too, an affidavit must be made that the applicant has sufficient means to support himself and family after arriving. Consideration of such application is often delayed for weeks and those who grow impatient and arrive in advance of their permit are generally given the option of leaving the next day or imprisonment for six months, with a fine of $2,433.

Tested Their Friendship.
Constable, the eminent British painter, once sat on the hanging committee of the Royal Academy when a small landscape was brought up for judgment and pronounced "devilish bad" by everybody but himself. He rose and made a short and startling speech. "That picture was painted by me. I had a notion that some of you didn't like my work, and this is a pretty convincing proof. I am very much obliged to you." When his colleagues recovered from their stupefaction the head carpenter was hidden to bring back the picture. But Constable would not have it.

The Question Was Rude.
An Oklahoma paper prints this story: She was from Boston, he from Oklahoma. "You have traveled a good deal in the west, have you not, Miss Beacon?" "Oh, yes, indeed—in California and Arizona and even in New Mexico." "Did you ever see the Cherokee Strip?" There was a painful silence, but finally she looked over her glasses at him and said: "In the first place, sir, I deem your question exceedingly rude, and, in the second, you might have been more refined in your language by asking me if I had ever seen the Cherokee diorobe."

Russia Needs Manchuria.
The Russian policy in Manchuria may be said to be due to the necessity of finding new markets for her industries. The great difficulty in carrying out Russia's ambition in the Manchurian market lies, strangely enough, in the transportation of her own merchandise. Despite her great railroad she has no real advantage over the foreigner. Under the present conditions of the road so bulky cargo can pay for its transportation, and even under proper conditions the major part of the freight will go by sea.

A Good Place to Stop.
He really ought not to have gone into the Latin class that day. He was called up first, and read as far as he had prepared. Then he sketched on a little farther. This is the way it went: "I, Ulysses, saw her (Dido's) heavenly form advancing like a goddess in the sunlight. I sprang toward her, and she welcomed me. Her hair fell down upon her shoulders like the sunbeams on Olympus. Her eyes shone like two jewels of the sea. I-I threw my arms—my arms—about—about her—her neck—neck—and—and—that's as far as I got, professor."—Philadelphia Ledger.

This Lunch Was a Success.
A lady in Budapest recently gave a charitable lunch party to the poor of her district. She placed no limit on the number of invitations, and the result was that 3,000 people arrived, all eager for the treat. Eventually the police had to draw their sabers to keep order among the revellers. There were no two opinions about the success of the function. The guests to a man declared they had never assisted in so intense and exciting a lunch before in their lives. They were quite cut up when the time came to go.

Centenarian Who Was Never Ill.
A fact more remarkable than centenarian longevity itself is reported in the case of a man of Italian birth named Antonio Novorini, who has just died at Serajevo, in Bosnia, at the age of 105. It is recorded of him that only last year, being then 104, he cut a new set of teeth. Novorini was born in Padua and entered the service of a Moslem landowner in Bosnia about sixty years ago. He had never known what illness was, and died suddenly whilst drinking a glass of aerated water.

Two Incurable Crazes.
One of the ways to get into swell society is to butt in through the turf or the tanbark—the race track or the horse show. A certain well-known man has already spent $500,000 on the tanbark, without penetrating the outer circle of the haut monde, and when he has spent another $500,000 he will still be butting. There are two crazes which cannot be cured—the craze for society and the craze for political office.—New York Press.

Different After Five Years.
William Gladstone, who admires Whistler, cited the other day two letters written by a collector of etchings to a certain print seller. Between the letters there was an interval of five years. The first said: "I do not want etchings by Whistler. They impress me as if flies that had fallen in an inkwell had walked on old paper." The second letter said: "Send me every etching by Whistler the price of which is not ruinous."—Philadelphia Record.

The World's Rarest Bird.
To find the rarest bird in existence you must go to the mountains between Anam and Loas, where there is a certain kind of pheasant. For many years its existence was known only by the fact that its longest and most splendid plume was in much request by mandarins for their headdress. A single skin is worth $500. And the bird living would be priceless, for it soon dies in captivity.

Big Sales of Seed.
The seed plantations around San Jose, Cal., are said to receive $5,000,000 a year from the sale of seed. The first experiment of the planters in this line were made less than half a dozen years ago. One onion patch now covers 3,000 acres, with furrows almost two miles long. A single plot of sweet pea occupies 800 acres, a bed of yellow asters 210 acres, a lettuce bed 2,100 acres. There are within a radius of eighty miles around San Jose 14,500 acres devoted to raising plants and flowers for their seed alone.

Our Oldest Public Building.
If we seek the oldest civic building in the United States we shall find ourselves in the quaint old adobe palace of the governors in Santa Fe, N. M. This long, low structure in the second oldest city of the United States has been the seat of government under the Spanish, Mexican and American regimes for nearly 300 years. It now contains the museum of the New Mexican Historical society of which L. Bradford Prince, a native New Yorker and former governor of New Mexico, is president. Governor Prince considers this "the most historic building in the United States."

The Roentgen Rays Failed.
Hearing of the efficacy of the Roentgen rays for the removal of hairs from the upper lip a lady in Hanover, age thirty-five, applied to Dr. Karl Bruno Schurmayer, a properly qualified doctor and Roentgen ray specialist, for treatment. He operated twice, but instead of removing the superfluous hairs the operation resulted in the skin of the face becoming red and the lips swollen. The lady thereupon brought an action against the doctor and was awarded $60 damages, against which he appealed, but the decision has just been upheld.

Judicial Status of Golf.
Justice Harlan, who has entered the twenty-sixth year of service on the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States, is 70 years of age and has no wish to retire. Golf must have a lot to do with his vigor. He is the judge who took a boxful of papers to the country with him one summer. Instead of writing opinions he was out on the links. His explanation of his failure to find time for his ordinary duty will be long remembered. He pointed out cheerfully that golf was not a game, but a disease, and that he had caught it.

Industrial Bohemia.
An industrial census of Bohemia shows that of its 2,905,000 population 460,327 are engaged in manufactures, and of these 201,539 are women. Most of the work is done by hand and at home. These "home" workers live in the little villages, which stretch almost continuously along the banks of mountain streams, and the women and girls, in great baskets slung on their backs, carry the raw and finished goods between home and factory over steep mountain paths, which in winter are covered with snow and ice.

Where Drought is Prevalent.
The drought in this section of the country has caused so much dust, especially in the suburbs, where the watering carts are likely to be few and far between in their visits, that many people have temporarily adopted a custom that prevails for the four dry months in California every year. This is the putting of a whisk broom or a feather duster, sometimes both, at the door so that visitors may remove the dust from their shoes and skirts or trousers before entering.—New York Sun.

Surprise for Balfour.
Mr. Balfour, the British premier, one day was riding in company with some friends along a country road when he noticed a cyclist pedaling rapidly in the rear. With characteristic friendliness the premier asked, "Shall we pace you?" But no answer was forthcoming and to the motorist's surprise, when he had proceeded about a mile, he was ordered to pull up by two constables. His voiceless friend had been a policeman in plain clothes who was testing the speed at which the vehicle was moving.

Diet of the Moslems.
All true Moslems when eating must begin with salt and finish with vinegar. If they begin with salt they will escape the contagion of seventy diseases. If they finish with vinegar their worldly prosperity will continue to increase. The host is in etiquette bound to be the first to start eating and the last to leave off. The priests recite certain passages of the Koran before and after lunch and dinner and also before drinking water at any hours of the day.

His Other Name.
The candidate for the place of coachman had been weighed and was not wanting, according to his new mistress's lights. Then the question of this name, which was Patrick, came up. The mistress objected to it in her heart, so she explained that it was her custom always to call her coachman by his family name. Had he any objections? "Not the slightest, ma'am." "What is your last name, Patrick?" "Fitzpatrick, ma'am."

New to Londoners.
The Londoner will be greatly annoyed by innovations when the American electrical cars are running in the Metropolitan underground and tuppenny tube railways. The fare will be five cents for any distance; there will be no first, second or third class; the high speed will be over sixty miles an hour, and the twenty-second limit to stops will give him a Chicago sensation in movement.

Jim Dumps and wife invariably had "Force" for Sunday evening tea. When cook went out that afternoon. "It's hot a saucer and a spoon To wash—a task not grim— And all are pleased," laughed "Sunny Jim."
