FAMOUS OLD RASY CASTLE

Long Ago the Stronghold of the War like Nevilles.

Raby castle, the seat of Lord Barnard, is a famous old structure. Or the ground floor is a mighty hall into which one might drive a coach. Above it runs a dining chamber, ninety feet in length and thirty-six in breadth. remains to-day as it stood in the days when the barons for whose entertainment it was fashioned were almost the paramount power in the land. Seven hundred of the mightiest and noblest in the kingdom dined simultaneously in this hall when the war like Nevilles were established at Raby castle. The ancient chamber is good for as many to-day and there is accommodation enough for the cooking. The kitchen is a square of thirty feet, with an oven so huge that at one time it was converted into a wine cellar, the sides being divided into ten parts, each side holding a hogshead of wine in bottles.

FROM FRIEND TO ENEMY.

Transition That is All Too Easy of Accomplishment.

"How little we know what is behind the smiling masks of flesh and blood which are really all that we can see of our dearest friends!" said a woman. "De Montesquieu tells us that if we 'scratch a Russian we find a Tartar,' but it is a criticism that in a way applies to every one, for it needs only a little abrasion to transform our former intimates into hostile acquaintances, and we can hardly recognize the people whom we once so much liked i the 'Tartars' whom a slight scratch has so completely changed. We fain would ask ourselves which is the real person, the friend whom we formerly knew or the individual who seems so entirely different. It behooves us, therefore, to walk warily and refrain from jostling our companions if we would keep up our friendships."---London Telegraph.

Badger Regained Freedom.

The sportsman naturalist, St. John, one day found a badger in a trap, not much injured. Tying a rope to is hind leg, he drove the animal homestrange to say, the captive beast jogged steadily along in front of him and giving little more trouble than a pig going to market. On reaching home the animal was put for the night into a paved court, where it seemed perfectly secure. "Next morning." says St. John, "he was gone, having displaced a stone that I thought him quite incapable of moving and then, digging under the wall he got away."

Too High-Flown Language.

Dean Hole, in impressing clergymen with the necessity of making themselves understood by their congregations, often cited as a horrible example a famous classical scholar who thus addressed a handful of farm laborers in a country mission room: "In this beautiful country, my brethren, you have the apotheosis of nature and an apodeiknessis of theropratic omnipotence." The dean was not surprised when he asked one of the flock what it was about, to be answered: "It was about an hour and a half."

"Light Lunch and Music." A country girl in Dublin went into a restaurant for her lunch. She was asked if she would have a meat dinner or "light lunch and music." Being curious she chose the light lunch and music and was immediately shown into a room where other inquisitive per to a spirited if not satisfying performance upon the jewsharp by one of the waiters. She felt at the end of the meal that she had paid high enough for curiosity, but she could make no complaint.

Every Tommy Has His Tabby. If a cat doth meet a cat upon the garden wall, and if a cat doth greet a cat, oh, need they both to squall? Byery Tommy has his Tabby waiting on the wall; and yet he welcomes her approach with an unearthly yawl. And if a kitten wish to court upon the garden wall, why don't he sit and sweetly smile and not stand up and bawl, and lift his precious back up high and show his teeth and moan, as that feller groan? T. Otto Fisk DEAL DANCE

It Was All Arranged.

A London barrister used to tell of an instance that occurred in his own experience of trial by jury in Wales. A well-known local solicitor named Garnons was concerned in a case. While counsel was addressing the jury its members quietly turned from him, put their heads together and then the foreman addressed the judge: "It's no use, my lord, for the gentleman in the wig to talk any more, as we agreed in the Blue Lion last night to vote for Mr. Garnons of Rhiwgoch."

Pancakes and Long Life. That is a distinctly novel theory which is put forward as to the connection between pancakes and longevity. For one thing, it is pointed out that people live long in the mountain districts of Norway, where milk and 39 Downer Place, Anrora, III. cream are abundant and pancakes eaten in large quantities. Then we Mr. Wells, of Mattituck, ascribes hi good health to his daily enting of a to the new paper and on pancake baked by his wife.

His Ambition Realized. "At last, after forty years of hard work, my highest ambition is about to be realized," said a worthy fellow citisen who began on a capital of brains and push and is now counting his wealth in seven figures. "I have bought a house before whose doors nearly every parade of consequence will pass. I can sit in the window night or day and see the crowds go by, hear the cheering and listen to the music of the bands without having myself squeezed flat, my toes trodden upon, my clothes disarranged, my hat knocked off and all that sort of thing. Ever since I was old enough to run away from home to witness a procession I have envied the possessors of doors or windows along the line of arch, and at last I'm happy."

Some Pertinent Questions. When you see a young man flaunting his quickly gained wealth in your face, just ask yourself, "How much did he lose in getting it? How much of himself has he parted with in exchange for the money? Does it pay to sell one's manhood and character in order to get rich a little faster? Isn't it safer to take the slower and approved method? Doesn't a youth lose unless his life is square and clean, no matter what money he gets?"-Sue-
