The Horse: "Here's to that bundle scationt nerves, with the heart of woman, the eye of a gazelle, the courage of a gladiator, the docility of a slave, the proud carriage of a king and the blind chedience of a soldier; the companion of the desert plain, that turns the moist furrows in the spring in order that all the world may have abundant harvest, that furnishes the sport of kings, that with blazing eye and distended nostril fearlessly leads our greatest generals through carnage and renown, whose blood forms one of the ingredients that go to make the ink in which all history is written, and who finally, in black trappings, pulls the humblest of us to the newly sodded threshold of eternity."-Rider and Driver.

At Sundown The flery fever of the day is done; Beyond the red horizon sets the sun, And all the floating cloudlets blend in one.

French Women of Courage.

When the gendarmes descended on the village of Amanlis, France, to expel the Brothers of Ploermel from the school they conducted there, the other day, the loyal women and girls tried a new piece of strategy. They lay down in the court of the school, so that the soldiers were compelled to walk on their bodies in order to get at the monks. The soldiers did not do it, but took time to lift the ladies up and set them on their feet before they advanced. There was a very lively fight while it lasted, for the ladies did not rise willingly.

While returning home late one night recently the worse for drink, a man fell into the bears' pit at Berne, Switzerland. Fortunately he fell into the part reserved for young bears, and he went to sleep, surrounded by the animals. On discovering his plight next morning, he shouted for help and with the aid of ropes and a ladder he was drawn up into the street ap parently none the worse for the adventure. His sleep might have been of a longer duration if he had fallen few yards to the left, where the full-grown animals are confined.

All Came Over the 'Phone. The late Lord Salisbury behaved to those about him with fatherly benignity, not unmixed with humor. One of his secretaries was interrupted, on one occasion, when conversing with him over the telephone. He turned on the intruder and addressed him with winged words, Immediately afterwards Lord Salisbury was heard saying: "Go on, please; your last words were-" and he repeated verbatim the rebuke delivered to the interrupter by the angry secretary.

Dugald in Edinburgh. Dugaid McTavish, when on a visit to Edinburgh, was taken by a fellow-Highlander to see the sights of the city. The visitor was thirsty and determined to give Donald, his guide, a hint as to his condition. Consequently on passing a bonded warehouse, he said: "Donald, what wad pe in thae parrels?" "What wud pe in them but whusky?" replied the guide. "Then," said Dugald. "I wish I was a parrel."-Scottish American.

The Northern Pacific has a new and very Low Rate for for Colonists, Homeseekers and others in effect from Sept. 15 to Nov. 30, 1903.

This gives not only farmers a good chance to go homeseeking, after crops are harvested, but all others who wish to move permanently into the growing, teeming, improving Northwest, or those whn wish tho visit, at a trifling expense, the fine tourist resorts of the Northwest, are afforded an unusual opportunity. to do so.

The finest valleys in the Northwest, good for grain, hay, fruits, root crops; for mixed, stock or dairy farming; for irrigation or not, as one wishes, are found along the Northern Pacific or its branch or connecting lines. The growing, thriving towns are found there, too. It is a great country, where hunting and fishing are unsurpassed and where the hotels are first class.

Call on any N. P. R. agent for rates and detailed information or write to Charles S. Fee, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul, Minn. Send six cents for "Wonderland 1903."
