Monday, Feb. 15. The suspense concerning the condition of Senator Hanna resulted in the proceedings in the senate being depressed. There were no speeches and more attention was given the frequent bulletins than to matters of legislation. Immediately after the conclusion of the prayer the senate went into executive session, and agreed to vote on the ratification of the Panama canal treaty on Feb. 23. The doors were reopened at 12:32 p. m. The bill to pay $200,000 to ex-Queen Lilluokalani was amended to reduce the appropriation to $150,000, but when called up for passage was lost on a tie vote of 26 to 26. of Bell Telephones. The Alton city council has taken up the fight of the electrical workers' union against the Bell telephone in Alton, and has decided to discontinue all public instruments, including the fire departments and the police headquarters. This action will destroy one of the principal fire alarm systems in the city. The reason assigned is that the Bell company has declined to accept a proposition of the electrical workers' union. The council also veted to submit to the people a proposition for issuing $25,000 in bonds to pay a judgment for $17,850 and interest for the Alton waterworks company and other bills. Judge Humphrey of the United States district court is reported to have said that in event of a failure of the bond issue the council would be obliged to pay the waterworks bills in some other way and might be sent to jail for contempt.

Another Coal Line.

Another new railroad, to be known as the Great Western, is being talked of at Harrisburg. The proposed road is to run from Harrisburg to Grand Tower, on the Ohio river, passing through Marion. A map of the road has been made, and the manner in which the promoters are going about the matter makes it pretty certain that the road will be built. All preliminary work, which has been in progress for some time, has been done on the quiet. B. F. Johnson, who built the Chicago, Paducah and Memphis road, is behind the enterprise. Including the electric road, this will make four railroads that are to be built through Saline county with a view to handling the great coal business.

There has not been a chance at any time in two weeks, in the opinion of some of the doctors, for Senator Hanna to recover, and during the last week it was a matter of hours. The last day of the senator's life made his death a matter of minutes. The end was postponed by injections of nitroglycerin, saline solution, and brandy, and by the use of oxygen. Five distinct times since midnight of Sunday were the family assembled in the sick room to see the senator breathe his last. Five times he was brought back to life and the mourning relatives separated to seek rest. Med ical science had in this instance made the death scene the acme of prolonged torture. Mrs. Hanna, who, for neveral days has been in a state bordering on collapse, swooned during one of these painful scenes, and Mrs. Harry Parsons, one of the senator's daughters, also fainted during another of

End is Peaceful.

It happened that when the end did come it was impossible to have all the members of the family in the room. The end had been deferred as long that Mrs. Hanna, under the influence of sedatives, had gone to sleep in an adjoining room. The sick man was resting peacefully. His breathing was scarcely perceptible. The doctor and nurses were at the bedside watch ing for any indication of the final dissolution. One of them was saked whether there was any sign of the end. He replied that it might not come for an hour or two; it might come any minute. While this was being said breathing stopped, and the great Republican leader had drifted into the
