DOWNERS GROVE will have hundreds of guests when the new hotel is open. What day did you say, Mr. Sheer, the opening would take place?

AS TIME passes by, the nomination of an eighty-one year old boy for the vice-presidency appears more and more a joke. He certainly has a bright future before him and about $20,000,000 behind him.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN received $400,000 commission on the Panama canal deal for handling the money and now, it is reported, he will support President Roosevelt. Well, there is nothing cheap about J. Pierpont, anyway.

ONE healthy sign of the times is that The Reporter published two complaints last week from residents regarding municipal matters. It indicates that the people are alive to their interests, and we cheerfully give space to this class of correspondence.

THERE are about two hundred newspaper correspondents with the Japanese army at present and the Japanese generals have asked that no more be allowed to join their forces. They ought to be able to get all the news that is worth printing.

MCCLEURE'S MAGAZINE has refused to publish Eugene V. Debs' reply to Grover Cleveland's article on the Chicago strike, because it was not written in "temperate language." Wonder if Grover Cleveland would have written that article if John P. Altgeld were alive!

THERE is nothing slow about our real estate men when it comes to promoting new enterprises. Mr. Tucker is working on the opera house and Mr. Sheer on the hotel and both promising success. Now, if some one would take up the question of building moderate priced houses to rent, how this town would boom.

MORE farmers are naming their farms and the idea is worthy of general adoption. As a matter of convenience, now that the rural mail delivery is widely extended, and especially in communities where dwell a number of families of the same name, it is highly desirable. Letter the name of the farm and your own name on the mail box by the roadside so that the passer-by may acquaint himself with your name and the identity of your farm.

Most of our readers have no doubt noticed how large a proportion of the daily newspaper is filled with matters of trivial importance or reports of criminal matters and scandalous gossip. Even the better newspapers, which boast of giving "all the news that's fit to print," contain vast quantities of matter which, while not of an improper character, is certainly not worthy of serious attention, much less of remembering. A newspaper which would give only matters of weighty importance, and they carefully condensed, might adopt the motto, "All the news that is worth remembering." Such a paper could be printed in very small compass.

SOMETIMES the doctors are criticised for using stimulants to keep people alive when their cases are supposed to be hopeless. It is no doubt true that they are often convinced that their efforts will not avail, but the thing uppermost in the mind of the conscientious physician is to do everything possible for his patient. And sometimes he has his reward, as is shown in the case of Ex-Governor Nash, of Ohio. For days he was supposed to be dying and was kept alive by the use of stimulants. His physician persevered and now the ex-governor is able to be at his office. So probably it is best to let the doctors have their way.

We are Here to Stay
SOME busybody has industriously circulated the report among our merchants that The Kelmecott Press may not continue the publication of The Reporter, as the corporation was organized for general job printing. One argument advanced by the busybody, who evidently knows our business better than we do ourselves, is that if we had intended to continue the publication we would have purchased the printing plant used by the former publisher. As the comedian said: "Such foolishness makes me sick."

The Kelmecott Press paid good money for the Reporter, and intends to continue publication for ninety-nine years—the life of the charter of the corporation. Who will publish it after that date we are not at liberty to state. The reason we did not purchase the former plant was because it was of no use to us. That's all there is about it.

It is true that the principal business of The Kelmecott Press is general job printing, and if it were not we would not require the completely equipped printing plant we have now in operation.

The condition of the paper was very unsatisfactory to us when we commenced publication. We have always consoled ourselves with the thought that if it had been better we would have had to pay more good money for it. We are striving to make The Reporter the best weekly newspaper in DuPage or any other county, and from the commendation we are receiving from our readers week after week we believe we are working along the right lines and know that our subscription list is on the increase. Of course, there is always some "smart Alec" who knows your business better than you do.

Exit the Maybrick Case
MRS. FLORENCE MAYBRICK is free at last and the reading public is entitled to expect that, after a farewell appearance of the review of her alleged crime and the trial and efforts to get her released, there will be an absence of the articles that have referred to her from the news columns. For a long time the Maybrick case has been a source of news, but it cannot now continue a feature of the metropolitan press unless there is a supplementary sensation of some sort.

Don't Bark at Your Competitor
Did you ever happen to be riding on a train through the country when a farm dog would rush out and run along after the cars, barking to the fullest capacity of his lungs? The dog attracts a little attention from the passengers at first, but the train soon pulls away from him and he and his wail are soon lost in the distance. The train hasn't been injured a particle, but the dog is tired and out of wind. Well, that dog is just like a whole lot of men in this world. They lose no opportunity to bark at the trains of successful men. The dog imagines that the train is running away because it does not fight back, but the train is always back next day. And it will continue to come around long after the dog is out of wind and has gone to the happy hunting grounds.

So when you get into a field don't bid for business with a bark at your competitor. In this present rush of business affairs people have no time to pay any attention to a barker. Attend strictly to your own affairs and saw wood, and after a while you will get big enough so you won't have to bark.

Now that the toy pistol has been partly subdued why can't some scientist locate and segregate the hot wave germ?

The Difference Between Trusts
When captains of industry attempt to form a combination to control prices, and succeed in getting all but a few to join with them, they generally cut prices to force the few into the combination. In doing so they temporarily help the consumer and do not interfere with the public in buying from those who are outside the combination.

When captains of labor form a union and succeed in getting a majority of the workers organized they generally refuse to work with those who will not join their combination, and when on strike to enforce their unreasonable demands, it is only at the risk of your life that you may buy the labor or products of those who are not in the combination. That's the difference between two kinds of trusts.

A REMARKABLE OLD MAN
Lives to be One Hundred Years Old, is Still hale and hearty

It is rare indeed in these latter days, when we live out the full of our lives in half the time of our forefathers, that anyone lives to the great age of one hundred. But here and there a few reach the century mark. Such has been the experience of a friend of Mrs. D. K. Foote, of Downers Grove. The person is Archibald McTaggart, of St. Thomas, Ontario, Canada, the home of Mrs. Foote for some time. She has received a daily paper containing an account of a gathering near her old home to celebrate the one hundredth birthday of this remarkable old man. We gather a few notes from this article as follows:

Archibald McTaggart, who recently celebrated his hundredth birthday, is a son of the late John McTaggart, a farmer of Ayrshire, Scotland, where the subject of this sketch was born on July 15, 1804. He remained on the farm until he was fifteen years of age and then he left for the Lowlands of Scotland, and for a time engaged in the fishing business, but did not like it and returned to the farm. He came to Canada in 1842, when the country was a wilderness, and took up 200 acres of land, on which he bowed out a home for himself and converted it into the fruitful farm it now is. For many years besides farming he ran a saw mill in the valley in front of his farm, the motive power of which was water. But, it being necessary to introduce steam the mill was moved to another site and is operated by one of his sons. He continued in active work on the farm till ten or twelve years ago, and even now it is said could climb a hay now with as much agility as any man, if permitted. Those who know him best, the friends who gathered on his birthday to do him honor, are the loudest in their praise of the strict honor and integrity of his character. The old gentleman has lived to see a family of sons and daughters, some of them now, as age goes, pretty well advanced in years, as well as grandchildren and great grandchildren, grow up around him, all of whom he has just reason to be proud. The old gentleman has always enjoyed good health. At the present time he appears to be not as feeble as most men at 70 or 75. His mind is clear and hearing good. The only infirmity is that he is blind, having lost his sight three years ago. His memory is good, more particularly in regard to things which have happened long ago, which he can remember more clearly than happenings of a recent date.

The reception took place under the trees at the side of Mr. McTaggart's residence. Temporary seats had been arranged under the grateful shade of the branches of the apple trees, and during the formal reception the old gentleman was seated in the center of the lawn with several old friends, ladies and gentlemen, around him. He seemed to take a keen interest in the entire proceedings. Among those present were many old pioneers, many eighty years of age and over.
