

THEY were all looking at the man who had just finished speaking. The speaker, a man of about fifty years of age, with a high forehead and a pair of glasses, was looking at the audience with a serious expression. He had a deep voice and a commanding presence. The audience was silent, all eyes turned to him. The speaker continued, his words ringing in the ears of those present. He spoke of the future of the country and the responsibilities of its citizens. His words were filled with conviction and passion, and he spoke with the authority of one who knew his subject well. The audience listened intently, some nodding in agreement, others with a look of concern. The speaker's words were a mix of the old and the new, of the tried and true and the bold and daring. He spoke of the challenges ahead and the opportunities that lay before the people. His words were a call to action, a call to stand up for the principles of justice and freedom. The audience was captivated by his speech, and they listened to every word. The speaker's words were a source of inspiration and hope for many in the audience. They were a reminder of the power of the spoken word and the impact it can have on the world. The speaker's words were a testament to his faith in the future of the country and the role of its citizens. His words were a message of hope and a call to action, and they resonated with the hearts of those who heard them. The speaker's words were a source of strength and courage for many in the audience. They were a reminder that we are all in this together, and that we must stand together to overcome the challenges ahead. The speaker's words were a message of unity and a call to action, and they were a source of inspiration for many in the audience. His words were a testament to his faith in the future of the country and the role of its citizens. His words were a message of hope and a call to action, and they resonated with the hearts of those who heard them. The speaker's words were a source of strength and courage for many in the audience. They were a reminder that we are all in this together, and that we must stand together to overcome the challenges ahead. The speaker's words were a message of unity and a call to action, and they were a source of inspiration for many in the audience.

THEY were all looking at the man who had just finished speaking. The speaker, a man of about fifty years of age, with a high forehead and a pair of glasses, was looking at the audience with a serious expression. He had a deep voice and a commanding presence. The audience was silent, all eyes turned to him. The speaker continued, his words ringing in the ears of those present. He spoke of the future of the country and the responsibilities of its citizens. His words were filled with conviction and passion, and he spoke with the authority of one who knew his subject well. The audience listened intently, some nodding in agreement, others with a look of concern. The speaker's words were a mix of the old and the new, of the tried and true and the bold and daring. He spoke of the challenges ahead and the opportunities that lay before the people. His words were a call to action, a call to stand up for the principles of justice and freedom. The audience was captivated by his speech, and they listened to every word. The speaker's words were a source of inspiration and hope for many in the audience. They were a reminder of the power of the spoken word and the impact it can have on the world. The speaker's words were a testament to his faith in the future of the country and the role of its citizens. His words were a message of hope and a call to action, and they resonated with the hearts of those who heard them. The speaker's words were a source of strength and courage for many in the audience. They were a reminder that we are all in this together, and that we must stand together to overcome the challenges ahead. The speaker's words were a message of unity and a call to action, and they were a source of inspiration for many in the audience.

THEY were all looking at the man who had just finished speaking. The speaker, a man of about fifty years of age, with a high forehead and a pair of glasses, was looking at the audience with a serious expression. He had a deep voice and a commanding presence. The audience was silent, all eyes turned to him. The speaker continued, his words ringing in the ears of those present. He spoke of the future of the country and the responsibilities of its citizens. His words were filled with conviction and passion, and he spoke with the authority of one who knew his subject well. The audience listened intently, some nodding in agreement, others with a look of concern. The speaker's words were a mix of the old and the new, of the tried and true and the bold and daring. He spoke of the challenges ahead and the opportunities that lay before the people. His words were a call to action, a call to stand up for the principles of justice and freedom. The audience was captivated by his speech, and they listened to every word. The speaker's words were a source of inspiration and hope for many in the audience. They were a reminder of the power of the spoken word and the impact it can have on the world. The speaker's words were a testament to his faith in the future of the country and the role of its citizens. His words were a message of hope and a call to action, and they resonated with the hearts of those who heard them. The speaker's words were a source of strength and courage for many in the audience. They were a reminder that we are all in this together, and that we must stand together to overcome the challenges ahead. The speaker's words were a message of unity and a call to action, and they were a source of inspiration for many in the audience.

GREAT CLUBBING OFFERS

The Chicago Daily Farmers and Drivers Journal
Published at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill., every afternoon except Sunday.
Contains all the news of the stock market, the grain market, and the live stock market. The best news of the country's activities in the cotton market, the wool market, and the other commodities markets. It is the most complete and reliable source of information for the farmer, the stock raiser, and the merchant. It is published at a low price, and is a must for every man in the business.

THE CHICAGO DAILY FARMERS AND DRIVERS JOURNAL
Published at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill., every afternoon except Sunday.
Both one year for $4.00

THE CHICAGO DAILY FARMERS AND DRIVERS JOURNAL
Published at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill., every afternoon except Sunday.
Both one year for $2.50

THE CHICAGO DAILY FARMERS AND DRIVERS JOURNAL
Published at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill., every afternoon except Sunday.
Both one year for $1.75

FREE AFTER 30 YEARS

On Being Released, Convict in Audience at West's Prison

Away from the world in prison for a quarter of a century, then suddenly set free to breathe the clear air, to feel the bright sunlight, and see the monuments to Progress erected in a great city, was the experience of Michael Hackett, former New York politician, who was liberated from Sing Sing prison after serving twenty-five years of a life sentence for murder.

In all those years Hackett had caught no glimpse of the outside world, and had obtained all his impressions quiet, but has the appearance of a fire brick, pale as chalk. The company makes the claim that it will really be cheaper than wood or coal or gas; that there will be no odor, smoke or gases, and very little ash from its consumption; that no kindling is needed to set it on fire, and that two bricks will practically last all day in either a stove or open fireplace or grate.

There is no except made of the ingredients, which are principally waste products. The very backbone of this fuel, as it may be called, is composed of fruit pits from the canneries, most of which he had seen a large quantity in his cell. The company makes the claim that it will really be cheaper than wood or coal or gas; that there will be no odor, smoke or gases, and very little ash from its consumption; that no kindling is needed to set it on fire, and that two bricks will practically last all day in either a stove or open fireplace or grate.

There is no except made of the ingredients, which are principally waste products. The very backbone of this fuel, as it may be called, is composed of fruit pits from the canneries, most

GOODALL'S FARMER

Published at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill., every afternoon except Sunday.

Both one year for $4.00

LOOKS AT SKINCAPEL

By peach and apricot. About sixteen tons of these pits a day are to be used. The shells are broken up by a machine and the inside pits are shipped to France, where they bring 15 cents a pound to make marmalade out of.

These shells make such a fast fire that it has to be modified with other inflammable, but more slow burning material, and so only a percentage of the pit shells is used in each fuel brick. These other waste materials include crude petroleum, or kerosene, and a residue from the oil fields, plugging in shavings and pulp from the olive oil mills. The combination in the proper percentage is said to make a fire that burns in the last ston.

But there is another product in connection with this fuel which the company will turn out from its factory. It will be "mud" fuel, also made of waste products, but in such proportion that it will burn in a coal stove. This is intended for the use of orchardists to promote trees and fruit from frost. And has already been used on a number of his ranches with success.

NEW FUEL OF FRUIT SEEDS

It is made in the shape of a brick and is sold in bundles of five. Before winter weather begins a new fuel will be introduced by the manufacturer in Los Angeles. Coal must be looked after at it, but a number of wells were dug in the city and some of them have been used in the same way as the fuel.

Pennsylvania Made

Illinois Soft Coal
Vergade Gravel, Feed

TELEPHONE 942 OFFICE AT 234

GO TO BRADBURY & FURLONG FOR BAKERY GOOD ICE CREAM PARLOR

CATERING A SPECIALTY

TELEPHONE 234 20 SOUTH MAIN STREET

H. J. HAWKINS

Practical Plumbing, Gasfitting and Sewerage

We aim to please all our patrons. All work done with neatness and dispatch, and satisfaction guaranteed and all. Full lines of Gas Lighting and Plumbing supplies kept in stock. See our display window.

H. J. HAWKINS

Telephone 951 43 South Main Street

Farmers and Merchants Bank

DOWNERS GROVE, ILLINOIS

ACCOUNTS SOLICITED, 5 PER CENT PAID ON TIME DEPOSITS SAFETY DEPOSIT VAULTS $100 AND UP PER YEAR

M. PLEVKA G. S. MACDOUGALL Long Distance Telephone 898

PLEVKA & MACDOUGALL

Hardware, Stoves, Tinware, Paints GLASS AND AUTOMOBILE SUPPLIES

Now is the time to have the furnace put in shape for the winter. The prophets tell us that it is going to be 40 below. We have just blazed out of the best furnace men Chicago can produce. Sibley barometer, stove pipe, furnace sweeps, 20 cents, milk can crank, $1.25 per lb., water motor washing-machines, work themselves for $12.50. See our line of hot blast stoves.

LeSchnobel's ART DECORATING

Freezing, Pastoral and Sign Painting Paperhanging, etc.

Maple Avenue East Grove Telephone 792

F. W. HOFERT

114 South Main St., Cor. Maple Ave.

ICE CREAM PARLOR

Cigars and Tobacco Fine Candies Stationery, School Supplies, Post Cards

TEA AND COFFEE BAKERY GOODS CANNED GOODS OPEN EVERY DAY

The Kelmscott Press

Operates a completely equipped modern printing plant for the production of high-class Booklets, Catalogues, Office Stationery and other printed matter.

THE KELMSCOTT PRESS, DOWNERS GROVE, ILL. Telephone 894

Chicago Office 145 La Salle St. Telephone Central 316

Value of a Constitution. It is the power in the making of the law. It is the power in the making of the law. It is the power in the making of the law.

Through the constitution of the United States, the power is given to the President to appoint and remove officers and judges, and to grant pardons and reprieves. It is the power in the making of the law. It is the power in the making of the law. It is the power in the making of the law.