A warning to all communities, especially to village officers who have the safety of the public in charge, should be taken from the awful catastrophe which befell the little town of Boyertown, Pa., where out of a total population of 2,000, 175 people met death at Rhoades Opera House during the performance of a play, given by St. John's Lutheran church. ing a paper for the people and by the people. I hope that every man and woman in the village will take a personal interest and pride in making the paper what it ought to be—welcome and indispensable in the home of every subscriber. You can best assist me by sending or bringing in any little news item you hear. It may not be of much consequence to the community as a whole, but will interest some one, you may rest assured. Now, a word of advice. If you have a grudge against the village or your neighbor, don't bring it to the editor and expect him to exploit it for you. Root it out and bury it so deep that it can never be resurrected. You will not only be doing a kindness to the village or your neighbor, but a greater one to yourself. Any time you have a word to say for the common good and advancement of the village or its residents, or wish to criticize in a friendly spirit, come around, and we will extend the glad hand and give you all the space de-friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted them in their recent bereavement.

Only a Tramp.

A recent incident which holds in its simple outlines the possibility of past tragedy, is described in the New York Times. It is another illustration of how careless the world is of the individual, and how thick is the cloak which one may wrap about his personality. The other day a laborer employed by the Erie Railroad in Jersey City was run over by a train and had his leg cut off.

A policeman telephoned for an ambulance. The injured man lay on a grass patch, apparently bleeding to death. Just then a typical railroad tramp in dirty rags sauntered along. He tapped a policeman's elbow.

"May I ask what is the matter, officer?" he inquired.

"Man bleeding to death," replied the policeman.

"Would you mind if I looked at him?" asked the tramp. "I might be of service?"

"Go ahead," responded the officer. Bending low over the wounded laborer, the tramp asked for water to wash his hands, and then begged the crowd for clean handkerchiefs. With a half-dozen deft, rapid twists he made a tourniquet, and stopped the flow of blood.

"Are you doctor?" some one asked, as the man slipped away through the crowd.

"I used to be," he replied, as he hurried off.

Both Better Off.

"Don't grieve; your husband is better off."

"So am I," responded the young widow; "he carried $25,000 life insurance." —Houston Post.
