To be always praising a man has the effect of having those who would be his friends, be his critics instead. Country people have an idea that there is a town way of making money that they know nothing about.

When a man longs for someone understand him, he means someone who will say his faults are virtues. Every man's comfort for doing poorly is in exaggerating the obstacles that prevented him from doing well.

CHICAGO TRUST PRESS ATTACKS THE DEAD.

Chicago, Ill.—Chicago politicians are amazed at the action of the Chicago Tribune of recent date in reprinting, under an editorial head, a brutal at- | J. H. Griffithe, Becretary, tack it made on John Henry Miller, speaker of the Illinois House, some four years ago.

Mr. Miller had stood against what was known as the Mueller bill, a bil concerning "the street-car question in Chicago, just as Speaker Shurtleff had the perve to stand a few days ago against the bill proposing to juggle the taxing power so that unlimited taxa tion could be threwn upon the people by the Chicago bosses.

The Chicago trust press began at that time to hound, abuse and misrepresci Mr. Miller. Gov. Yates, always courageous, stood by the speaker and in his decided way stated the case to the people, showing that Mr. Miller was an honest and square man. The trust press, however, in its brutal way abused Mr. Miller until shiking under its maledictions, he sickened and died. He was not the first man who had been hounded to his death by the venomous Chicago trust press.

Hats Off in Parliament.

The old custom, honored by the usage centuries, whereby members of the British Parliament were given to wearing their hats in the chamber during the legislative sessions, is apparently doomed to speedy extinction. In the House of Lords the practice of keeping the head covered is still rigidly adhered to, but in the Commons It is decidedly waning, much to the disgust of many of its conservative men, who think it a miserable breach of decorum for any member not to wear his hat during his attendance on the sittings.
