HUNTERS SHOOT RARE DONKEYS.

Fine Specimens of the Ngai Lu.

An animal which, if I am not mistaken, has hitherto successfully eluded the pursuit of Western sportsmen, has at length been captured in his native den, two young consular officers at wilds, says a correspondent of the London Times. Messrs. Brown and Wiltached to the British and French consulates general in Chengtu, have just returned from a shooting expedition in the highlands adjoining the Szuchuan-Tibetan frontier, bringing with them two fine specimens of the ugal which is, being interpreted, the preci pice donkey.

This rare animal has the body, hide and cloven hoofs of the deer. It is of a grayish black color, with tawny legs, and weighs some 200 pounds. Except in the breeding season it is apparently a solitary animal, frequenting the most inaccessible mountain sides. Messrs, Brown and Wilden were assisted by some thirty native huntsmen. with an equal number of dogs, placed at their disposal by a friendly Hsi Fan chieftain. After following various sports for four days, the first ugai lu sighted fell to Mr. Wilden's gun while breaking cover at a distance of some thirty yards. Mr. Brown had some difficulty in obtaining his animal on the following day. The dogs followed a well-grown mare up a steep mountain- little Alexander, writes Louis Pendleton side, eventualy cornering her on a ledge of rocks some 1,000 yards above the plan was no less admirable than quaint.

was able to lean over the precipice and get a clear shot at the ugal lu below. As it was impossible to carry the heavy carcuss down the steep hillside, the animal was rolled down into the valley. where it arrived safely, with the exception of one horn slightly damaged.

These two specimens and a female shot by the native hunters were the only ones seen on the trip. Want of time prevented the sportsmen from penctrating farther into the mountains. where, so the native chief told them, are to be found the wild ox (pan niu). the dread horse bear, or ma hsung, two smaller varieties of bear, a mountain sheep called the pang yang, and the thin haien hou, or golden-haired monkey. AMUSEMENTS

AT THE CHICAGO THRATERS.

CHICAGO OPERA HOUSE.

"The Devil," with Henry E. Dixey lu the title role, will bring its engagement at the Chicago Opera House to a close on Saturday evening, Oct. 17 This engagement has been one of the most notable in the theatrical history of Chicago, capacity audiences being the rule at every performance and it is only because Mr. Savage has been unable to secure more time at the Chicago Opera House that the run of this piece has been curtailed. During the past symptom of sentility gone over with week several important changes were made in the cast, thereby improving the performance until it is now finished and artistic to a degree. Miss Marie Nordstrom is now playing Olga, the wife, Miss Ethel Clayton, a Chicago girl, is Mimi the artist's model, and Mr. Harry | comedy "A Stubborn Cinderella," for Hilliard, an actor of considerable reputation, plays the artist Karl.

This stirring drama of Molnar's has proved the wonder of all ages and ha set a precedent in the realm of dramatic literature. His Devil is an entirely new creation, a new idea, a thought of modern times, a symbolism so daring, so vital and yet filled with such keen human philosophy that its appeal far-reaching and has an effect that almost magical. Molnar is not a disciple of Ibsen, Sudermann, Pinero and other famous dramatists of Europe, but he is infinitely as great and as scholar ly as any of these giants of literature. But in his first play, "The Devil," he has displayed the hand of originality

MAJESTIC.

The Majestic theater, Chicago, for the week of Oct. 19, offers a splendid vaudeville program, being what is usually known as an "all star bill." The principal headliner will be Ezra Kendall, the famous humorist, who has delighted audiences in all parts of the globe. He has an original line of com edy talk for which he is justly noted. A European importation seen here for the first time will be Mile. De Dio, the with all its original electrical equipment. Still another special vandeville section. feature will be Mr. Homer Lind, late baritone with the Henry W. Sacage "l'arsifal" company, supported by his own company in the musical classic entitled "The Opera Singer." Merian's dogs, thirty of them, present a panto mine playlet called "A Vision of Ma lome." Hyman Meyer has a clever number which is called "The Man at the Plane," and Foy & Clark will offer their comedy act called "In the Spring of Youth." Peter Donald and Meta Carson will be amusing in their sketch called "Alex McLenn's Dream." the Frederick Musical Trio have a smart instrumental musical act. There are half a dozen other expert and skilled people on the bill, which is one of the best of the kind ever offered any where.

AUDITORIUM THEATER, CHICAGO.

At the Auditorium, commencing Sunday afternoon, Oct. 18th, and continuing for two weeks, Henry B. Harris will present "The Lion and the Mouse" with the best of the three companies engaged in its interpretation this season. Mr. Klein's excellent play will thus have the benefit of Oliver Doud Byron Depotly Donnelly, who is said to have scarced a potable species as Shirley time fancy of keeping gamecocks Rossmore, and such other reliable (a) ent as Frager Coulter, Malcolm Dumean lawns of fashionable country houses E. A. Eberle. Walter Allen, Charles Sturges, Reginald Carrington, Ella 'raven, Marion Pollock Johnson, Bent rice Craven and Margaret Shayne.

All of the above payers have been identified with "The Lion and the Mouse" from two to three sensons and be majority of them created the charactors they are still playing. This engagement will mark the second appearance in this city of Dorothy Donnelly as Shirley Rossmore, as well as Mr Byron's local debut in the role of John Burkett Ryder. So much has been beard of the success of these artists. however, local expertations run high Messrs, Coulter, Duncan, Eberle and the Misses Craven, Johnson and others of the company have visited Chicago before with the Klein play and were highly complimented for their individual work in giving life and color to Mt Klein's charming story.

The prices during the engagement will be 25 cents to 75 cents for evenings and 25 cents and 30 cents for mat iners, which will be given on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday.

RAYMOND HITCHCOCK

Coming to the Chiengo Opers House in "The Merry-Go-Round."

The new attraction at the Chicago pera House commencing Sunday night Oct. 18, will be the well known and popular comedian, Raymond Hitchcock. who will be seen in a new musical play which has met with favor in the East. called "The Merry-Go-Round." This will be the first musical show to be played at the Chicago Opera House since it has been under the present management, and it is confidently expected that with this attraction it will again take the place in the field of extravaganza and light opera that once occupied when it was the most popular house of this kind in America. Raymond Hifchcock is too well known to need any introduction to the theatergoers of Chicago or its vicinity. The "Merry-Go-Round" is a frothy affair, with pretty girls, dazzling costumes, Mr. Hitchcock, for the first time in his career, has the role of a Yankee farmer, who invades this unrestrained community, and it is said that the authors have supplied him with a part entirely to his liking. The company is an exceptionally large one, there being in the neighborhood of one hundred people concerned in the presentation, the cast including such well-known artists as Ignacio Martinetti, one musicians.

The study of humanity must be constant with the actor who would reproduce actual types in this stage of work It is said that the late Richard Mansfield owed his triumph as the Barou Chevrial, to painstaking study of the physician; that Kean went to see a no torious felon hanged in order to catch his dying expression of horror and despair. Homer B. Mason in his highly diverting characterization sprightly college lad in the musical the once proves an exception. In studying out this role, Mr. Mason did not find it necessary to seek any type, as Mr. Mason himself is a college graduate of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, and as he nightly romps and capers through "A Stubborn Cinderella" it naturally must recall his college days, when he and his classmates indulged in the same pranks and pastimes that the authors of "A Stubborn Cinderella" expect him to simulate in mimicry.
