WHEEZER OR SNEEZER?

Have You Heard of Hyomei for Catarrh, Asthma and Hay Fever?

If you wheeze or sneeze, hawk or spit, snuffle or blow, something is the matter with the membrane of your respiratory tract, and you need Hyomei.

And you need Hyomei because it will cure you of any catarrhal or inflammatory condition that exists.

It isn't a stomach medicine, or spray, or douche, but a very pleasant, healing, antiseptic balsam, from the eucalyptus forests of Australia. You breathe this balsamic air through a small, hard rubber inhaler, and it reaches every nook, corner and crevice of the membrane, and promptly kills the catarrh germs.

Bush & Simonson will sell you a complete Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit for $1.00, on the money back plan.

"The use of Hyomei cured Mr. Cutler of catarrh in 1904. He has strongly endorsed the use of Myomei in many instances, and we are glad to go on record regarding this marvelous catarrh cure, and endorse it."—Mrs. A. Cutler, 201 Post avenue, Battle Creek, Mich.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION.

Advice Against the Use of Harsh Purgatives and Physics.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that ninety-eight per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver. This condition poisons the system with toxtons gases and waste matter which naturally accumulates and which must be removed through the bowels before health can be restored.

Salts, ordinary pills and cathartics may be truly likened to dynamite. Through their harsh, irritating action they force a passage through the bowels, causing pain and damage to the delicate intestinal structure which weakens the whole system, and at best only produces temporary relief. The repeated use of such treatments cause chronic irritation of the stomach and bowels, hardens their tissues, deadens their nerves, stiffens their muscles and generally brings about an injurious habit which sometimes has fatal results.

We have a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of its great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when it fails to produce entire satisfaction. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies. We urge you to try them at our entire risk.

Rexall Orderlies are very pleasant to take. They act quietly and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect, and they may be taken at any time without any inconvenience.

Rexall Orderlies overcome the drugging habit and cure constipation and all similar ailments, whether acute or chronic. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Price, 36 tablets, 25 cents, and 12 tablets, 10 cents. Modaff's Pharmacy, 34 South Main street.

Not What It Is For.

The recent sale of the library of William Cullen Bryant by the executors of his daughter's will has elicited an amusing reminiscence of the late Miss Julia Bryant in her childhood. An aged lady, who was for a time a neighbor of the poet and his family, had been shown into the parlor of the house, where she was making her first call.

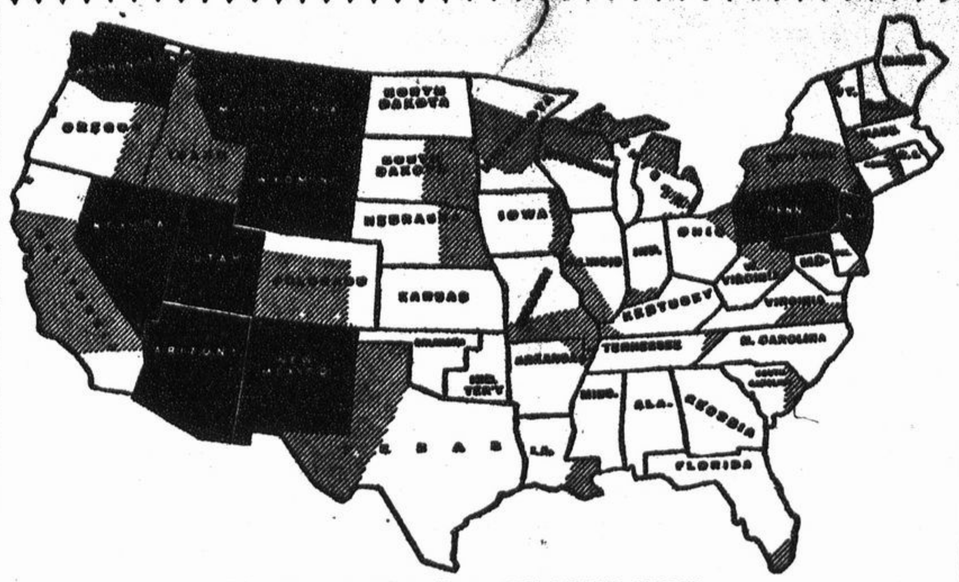
She found the small Julia seated on the floor with an illustrated volume of Milton in her lap. Although she knew, of course, that it must be the artist, not the author, in whom at that early age the child was interested, she asked genially, by way of beginning an acquaintance:

"Reading poetry already, little girl?"

Julia looked up and regarded her gravely. Then she explained, with an air of politely correcting inexcusable ignorance:

"People don't read poetry. Papas write poetry, and mammas sing poetry, and little girls learn to say poetry, but nobody reads poetry. That isn't what it's for."

Saloon Abolished in Two-Thirds of the Nation



"WET" AND "DRY" MAP OF THE UNITED STATES.

Black Signifies "Wet" Territory; White, "Dry" Territory; Shaded, Local Option Territory.

The prohibition crusade has swept forward to such an extent that in more than two-thirds of the territory of the United States the saloon has been abolished. Idaho, one of the few States which had withstood the movement, has now fallen into line. In Tennessee a drastic act was enacted, and under it the manufacture or sale of liquor in any form will be a misdemeanor. In the State of Washington a Governor and a majority of the members of the Legislature pledged to local option were recently elected. An overwhelming majority of the Legislature in Texas on a platform declaring for the submission of a prohibitory amendment means, according to the Prohibitionists, that Texas will soon probably become "dry."

Under the provisions of a recently enacted local option law thirteen counties in Oregon closed out the saloons. There are now 21 counties in Oregon in which liquor is prohibited. The elections since a year ago in Colorado have been bad for the saloon interests. Forty-two municipalities have ousted the saloons. There are now 180 cities and towns in California where the saloon is not allowed to exist. In Ohio 57 out of 88 counties have voted the saloon out of business. Under the provisions of the Moore remonstrance law of Indiana 720 saloons have been abolished within the last year. Prohibitionists also hope to soon turn Arkansas into an absolute prohibition area. In Iowa 461 saloons have been put out of business recently, leaving only 1,119 in the entire State.

Twenty-two of South Carolina's 42 counties have voted for prohibition since November under the county option law. During the last year 305 saloons and 2 breweries have been forced to go out of business in Michigan. Since a year ago 100 municipalities in Wisconsin have voted against saloon license, thus closing out more than 400 saloons. Minnesota has been arraying itself against the saloon. The Prohibitionists assert that there are now only 100 saloons left in Minnesota.

A year ago 99 counties in Kentucky had already voted out the saloon. In Connecticut the "no-license" voters voted out 300 more saloons in the last few months, while in Massachusetts 40 more municipalities have abolished the saloon. In a single day 1,053 townships in Illinois voted for prohibition, and as a consequence 1,500 saloonkeepers have had to retire from business. Maryland, in the last year, has increased its prohibition area.

A great change has been effected in Mississippi since a year ago. The adoption of prohibition for the entire State drove the saloon from the seven remaining "wet" counties. In Alabama, the State prohibition law went into effect on January of this year. Georgia, Maine, Kansas, Oklahoma and North Dakota are absolutely prohibitive States. In Florida there are at present only 250 saloons left in the entire State, while prohibition prevails in a great part of Louisiana. The anti-saloonists have been active in Virginia. In recent months they have closed out more than 400 saloons. Of the 100 counties in Virginia 71 do not now grant any form of license.

In Nebraska already 450 municipalities have voted out the saloon. In Missouri 50 counties now refuse licenses. Since 1908 the voters of Rhode Island have abolished 420 saloons, and both Vermont and New Hampshire have increased their no-license communities.

The only distinctively "wet" States and Territories at present are Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Wyoming, Nevada, Utah, Arizona New Mexico and the State of Washington which later, however, is likely to enact a local option law before long. About 315 townships in New York State are "dry" and 256 others are under partial license.

These facts show the steady and phenomenal progress made by the anti-saloon organizations within the last year. Up to the beginning of 1908 they had succeeded in transforming a great part of the United States into arid territory. Since then they have gone forward in almost every State in the Union. In South Carolina and one or two other places they have been checked, but not very seriously. Statistics compiled by the United States Bureau of Labor were consulted. Bulletin No. 77 shows that the average workingman's income, as recently investigated, amounted to $768.54 a year. Of this sum his total expenditures for intoxicating liquors were $12.44 a year. He spent almost as much for tobacco.—New York Times.

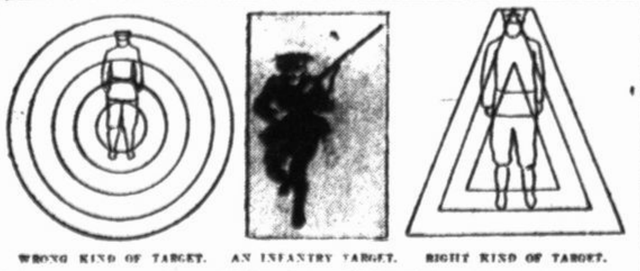
BEST TARGET IS THE TRIANGLE.

Has Been Adopted by the British Army Council for Indoor Practice.

A new design for target practice termed the Sedano target, has been formally adopted by the British army council for use in indoor ranges. It is declared by enthusiasts that more benefit will be derived from shooting at these objects than by range practice in the open, under many conditions.



WRONG KIND OF TARGET. AN INFANTRY TARGET. RIGHT KIND OF TARGET.

A striking innovation is substitution of a triangle-shaped target for the standard circular kind. It is asserted that the triangle has a direct relation to the human figure which the circular sort has not. One device used in connection with the new indoor practice is a miniature landscape across which tiny replicas of bodies of marching men can be moved. Trees, rocks, houses and hills are all simulated and the marksman is presented with nearly as many obstacles as if he were firing in the open air.

REASON WHY PARIS LEADS.

French Capital Center of Fashions and Dramatic Art for Centuries.

"Why has Paris always reigned supreme in the domain of fashion?" This is a question which many people must have often asked themselves. For centuries the women of Paris have been a dominant factor in this supremacy. Encouraged by them, the fashion artists have flourished in the peculiar atmosphere of that city. Constant contact with and contemplation of the wealth of beautiful treasures displayed in the shops, museums, streets and theaters have constituted for the Parisian woman a liberal education in everything that appertains to fashion.

The reason for the supremacy of Paris is not far to seek. Is not the history of France one long record of royal passions, beautiful favorites and extravagant adventuresses whose caprices cost countless millions? For several centuries women reigned supreme at court, in the drawing-rooms, on the stage, everywhere. All men did her homage; her slightest whims equaled commands. Affairs of state, family honor, right, wrong—everything was ignored to gratify her maddest caprices.

Her dress, jewelry and other personal adornments became vital questions. Today even there are women who can spend $5,000 on a set of furs, $1,000 on a mantle, $1,250 on a gown and pay equally high prices for other articles of toilet.

This extravagance has always attracted to Paris the smartest talent in Europe. France long led the world in the production of silks, satins, laces, velvets and all those fabrics essential to feminine attire. Dressmakers, jewelers, perfumers, were veritable artists who gloried in their work. For a long time Paris lived mainly on the creation and distribution of articles of luxury. Probably her dressmakers stand alone in having made a profound study of historical costumes for reproductive purposes. They found precious inspiration at the Louvre, Luxembourg and other famous picture galleries. M. Worth wrote a big book on his profession. M. Felix often "created" at a sacrifice, for the pure love of art.

Paris has always been the principal creative center of dramatic art; the success of a new piece is often dependent on the elegant costumes of the star actresses. Wherever the latter have toured they have left in their trail the latest conceptions of fashion, exciting the envy and desires of their foreign sisters. Again, French novelists never tire of praising the beauty, elegance and perfect taste in dress of the women of Paris. Imperceptibly cosmopolitan women have imbibed the notion that outside of Paris there is no salvation for the smart woman who yearns to incarnate the latest ideal of the mode.

End of the Honeymoon.

"Finished your honeymoon yet?"

"I don't know. I have never been able to determine the exact meaning of the word honeymoon."

"Well, then, has your wife commenced to do the cooking yet?"—Houston (Texas) Post.

Values Rise Rapidly.

Real estate values in New York city, according to the assessment figures, are increasing $1,096,970 each day.

Science and Invention

A chemical element, believed to be previously unknown, has been found by Mr. Ogawa, a Japanese chemist, in thorianite, retinite and molybdenite. The name nipponium, with the symbol Np., has been proposed for it. It is a metal apparently allied to aluminum. It has an equivalent weight of about 50, and Mr. Ogawa thinks that in the periodic system it probably lies between molybdenum and ruthenium.

On July 26 a storm, passing across the valleys near the mountain called the Luberon, in France, developed hail along a line conveying electric energy by a triphase current of 45,000 volts. Monsieur Vlolle, in a note addressed to the French Academy of Sciences, states reasons for believing that the electric line served as a conductor for the storm. The hail was developed only near the line; elsewhere nothing but rain fell.

That wonderful star, Nova Persei, which suddenly blazed out in the heavens in February, 1901, attracting all eyes by its brilliancy, and then, in a few months, faded to invisibility, except with telescopes, has recently had a critical date in its history fixed by Prof. E. E. Barnard. When it faded it changed first into a nebula—at least, its light was the light of a nebula. Afterward, as shown by its spectrum, it changed back into a star of a peculiar class, called the Wolf-Rayet stars, which seem to be a sort of cross between a true star and a nebula. Professor Barnard shows that this last change began in November, 1902, and seems to have been completed in February, 1903.

Among the earliest suggestions for making balloons was that of a floating vacuum. It was thought of in the seventeenth century but nobody has been able to construct a successful balloon on this principle, because the walls surrounding the vacuum must be so strong that the air pressure will not crush them, and the requisite strength is inconsistent with the equally requisite lightness. Lately the idea has been taken up again in Germany, and submitted to calculation. Herr Derb estimates that six spherical vacuum balloons, each ten meters in radius, formed of aluminum one lin in radius, each ten meters in radius, formed of aluminum one millimeter thick, and harnessed in a row, would possess a buoyancy of about 35,000 pounds. But the difficulty is that the balloons would have to be so strongly stayed within that the carrying capacity might be practically nothing.
