as a "rear" for officials of the South Shore Route, the party entered South Bend. Dinner was served in the reg room at the Oliver Hotel. Menu cards provided by the hospitable hosts, the South Shore Route, were in red and white, carrying out the color scheme. An orchestra furnished music throughout the evening.

Several impromptu speeches were made, President Herriott, of the Press Club, acting as master of ceremonies. Resolutions of appreciation were extended to Messrs. Wallace, Faber and Euchanan, and to others who assisted in making the outing a complete success. Duncan M. Smith, of the Chicago Daily News, being called upon for a speech, responded in a pleasing manmer. Continued merrymaking prevented any one from growing weary.

Then came the return trip. There was no need to sing, "Backward, tura backward, O Time in your flight, make me a child again just for to-night." There was no age. All were young. Impromptu speeches, clever "stunts" and music continued for several hours. At midnight the party arrived in Pull-

From territory noted for its coramercial activity, the South Shore Route runs for miles into the woodland where moss-covered trees and fragrant flowers in their virgin beauty cause one to forget the dust and grime of city life. In less than an hour's ride on the Chicago, Lake Shore and South Bend Railway the pleasure seeker finds himself in a wilderness of bewitching scenery. Another hour's ride and he is again in the business world.

There is no finer trip than one on the South Shore Route. Rest, recreation and pleasure are found in a ride over the tracks uniting the interests of Indiana and Illinois.

Neglected Eye Troubles econbuild of bec.

Few young people appreciate the blessing of good eyes. It takes the grim warning of advancing years to make them realize what life would be without eyesight. The tender muscles and eyebalis of a child yield much more quickly to the skill of the oculist and optician than do the same eyes at middle age,—but in the case of either young or old I am fully equipped, from the fitting of glasses to the most difficult operations, to restore eight and remedy all eyedeformities.
