Palatability is an important feature of good dairy rations.

Facilities for handling milk are giving an impetus to the market.

Don't let the cows out in the storms to stand around. It doesn't pay.

It is rather a difficult task to dry up a cow when in full flow of milk.

If a cow has a habit of side-stepping while milking, examine your finger nails.

A cow producing average testing milk should yield from 7,000 to 8,000 pounds of milk in a year.

Gentleness and patience with the heifer that has calved for the first time will win out every time.

Just after the cow has freshened she should have the same feeds she has been given previous to calving.

To feed cows profitably without some home grown sort of protein, such as the leguminous hays, is difficult.

Sweet corn is one of the very best crops to grow to feed as a soiling crop to the dairy cows in summer.

It is best to reduce the milk producing food, so that a mature cow will dry and rest for a month to six weeks before calving.

Be good to the cows. These most useful animals are a safe investment. They do not go off like a fence corner and die of cholera.

Successful dairymen to largely a matter of securing cheap feed, as well as good cows. The old is one method of selecting on feed.

Orchards in New England. The conversion of New England farms into apple orchards is becoming an established fact.

WILSON ON DAIRY INDUSTRY

Extensive Demand for Products in Newly Settled Regions—Development Urgently Needed.

"In much of the west cattle raising for beef has long been the principal business," said Secretary Wilson...

"In addition, a special enterprise has been undertaken with creamery patrons in Iowa, the object being to determine whether it will pay creameries to carry on the same sort of work among their own farmer patrons...

"In the other states of the north, where dairying is already an established industry, the work of the department outside of advice to individuals upon request, consists chiefly in the propagation of cow-testing associations and the improvement of city milk supplies...

"The records of one of these associations show that the profit was doubled after four years' work. For instance, a man with eight cows found, the first month of keeping records, that he was losing five and one-half cents per cow, or 44 cents on his herd for that month...

Arriving home, Miss McMullen doffed her evening gown, and although it was long after midnight she routed out the dogs, put on her hunting garb, mounted her pony and, rifle in hand, started to follow the trail of the bobcat...

FARMER ATTACKED BY RABBIT

Horde of the Hungry Animals Made Desperate by Protracted Cold Spell Fight for Food.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—They used to tell in the pioneer days of Oklahoma of hungry rabbits attacking men on the highway and lacerating the flesh of their legs...
