WHO SAYS THE YOUNGSTERS CAN'T PLAY BALL?

All those who saw Saturday's game with LaGrange—there was no spectators from Downers Grove—will testify that they can.

Downers was scheduled to play off the postponed game with LaGrange on their grounds Saturday, but on account of the bad weather none of the boys, expected to play and all came home without stopping off. One or two, who were still awake, were at the depot when the early afternoon trains came in and hurried everyone who would play for a uniform or some old clothes, and just nine men left Downers on the 2:20 train. When they arrived, they fell into their uniforms, handed their valuables over to Bill Dexter, who hadn't had time to get a uniform, and went after them. Bill had his pockets full of money as well as five or six watches and every one was on edge when Bill went to bat for fear he would be hit by the pitcher, or slide on some of the few city.

With five of last spring's high school players playing their regular positions, Downers played LaGrange to a 3 to 1 tie in nine innings, and if it had not been for darkness, the game would doubtless have gone on several more innings. Downers got the jump and played a dandy game all the way through, although they made three misplays, but no two of them came in the same inning and only one was costly. All of the misplays were poor throws, which were excusable considering the wet grounds and bad weather.

Curtis pitched a nice, steady game and got most of the assists, pitching himself out of several bad holes. Arno Thron and Davenport flared in a pretty double play at second base and John Moebel made a star catch of a foul against the grandstand near third. Johnny put down his head and ran for the ball and just as he looked up he slipped on something slippery and went forward in a horizontal position, catching the ball just as his elbow hit, and slid along the ground. Tom Schultz accepted three chances in center field in nice style and shared the batting honors with Anderson, Nash and Curtis of Downers and Old Man Williams of LaGrange, who poled three nod ones.

Downers will play off the game at LaGrange next Saturday and it should be a corking contest.

BOWLING ALLEYS OPEN FOR SEASON
Wednesday evening the Dicke bowling alleys were thrown open to the bowlers for the first time this season and quite a few oldtimers took advantage of the fact.

They have been planned, scraped, sandpapered and polished until one can hardly recognize them as the same alleys. They are in first class shape and as fast as any alleys can be.

It is expected by local bowlers that a successful season is coming. Plans are being formulated to start a local three-man, five-team league. Efforts will also be made to get a suburban bowling league started, with teams entered from along the Burlington.

Opinion Plainly Expressed.
The rehearsal had not gone at all to please the stage director, who, at its close, severely and unjustly criticized the leading man. In conclusion he said: "Say, do you think I have been a stage director for fifteen years for nothing?" "I can not say so to that," answered the actor suavely, "but if you haven't, you have cheated the management."

BOB AND THE BONES.

Harper Hibbe has two friends, Bob McElroy and Mr. Bones. Bob is a tech. school boy with leanings toward a professional career. Mr. Bones will be more particularly identified later.

In search of enlightenment on the mysteries of university life Bob recently visited Harper. The visit was on invitation. In fact, Harper had spent much time which might have been more profitably spent in the pursuit of his studies in arranging a reception for his friend Bob. After some desultory conversation and a hurried view of the "university books," Bob was asked if he would like to meet Mr. Bones, who, according to Harper, could be of great assistance to Bob should that youth elect to become a physician.

Bob was delighted. He said so with enthusiasm and was forthwith conducted into the presence of Mr. Bones, who lay on a hospital chair in a room which was dimly lighted by a red glow. Harper deftly removed a covering from Mr. Bones. A skeleton rattled and extended its articulated phalanges to Bob, who incontinently fled from the room. In his precipitate haste he neglected to notice that Harper was convulsed with laughter or that a porch pillar of solid cement barred his hasty flight.

After giving first aid to the injured and binding up sundry cuts and bruises on Bob's face, Harper explained an intricate system of wires by which he was able to cause the skeleton, alias Mr. Bones, to extend his hand in response to an introduction.

The credibility of the foregoing item is vouched for by a source no less authentic than Harper Hibbe, and he ought to know, for both Bob and Mr. Bones are his friends. Certain partly healed bruises on the physiognomy of Bob also lend the color of truth to the yarn.

WIVES IN ANCIENT ATHENS

Joys and Sorrows Differed Little From Those With Which Modern Women in Familiar.

Sophocles, the ancient Greek dramatist, described the young girl of his day rejoicing in the flowery meads of her youth, till the maiden became wife and mother and learned to know the painful watches of the night, spent in anxiety for husband and children.

It would have been well for her if such anxiety, the common lot of all, had been the sole cause of trouble to the Athenian wife.

It seems that ill-assorted unions were rather frequent at Athens, and if her home was unhappy, what had she to fall back on?

A man, in Mexico says, whose home is unpleasant to him, can go abroad and enjoy the company of his friends. "But we must look for happiness in our home."

Mischief was the result. The bridegroom was not extremely young, but he was thought to be a suitable man to marry to, but she had no children. Sometimes a girl child.

Kidney disease often advances rapidly that many a person is in its grasp before aware of its presence. Prompt attention should be given the slightest symptom of any disorder. If there is a pain in the back, headache, dizziness or a tired, worn-out feeling, or if kidney secretions are abnormal, or if you are afflicted by such a good kidney remedy as

Your own kidneys are weak. Don't let this be the case. Get a good kidney remedy as soon as you feel the first symptoms. It will make you feel better and give you more energy than any other medicine.

Mrs. A. Vand, of Downers Grove, Ill., writes: "I was suffering from kidney trouble and I did not know it. I tried all kinds of medicine but nothing helped. I finally got a good kidney remedy as soon as you feel the first symptoms. It will make you feel better and give you more energy than any other medicine."

My husband was very weak and I was very nervous. I tried all kinds of medicine but nothing helped. I finally got a good kidney remedy as soon as you feel the first symptoms. It will make you feel better and give you more energy than any other medicine.
