WESTERN UNITED GAS CO. REFUSES WAR ORDERS.
Directors of the Western United Gas and Electric Company have declined an offer of a "war order" which would sell the company approximately $300,000.
A man believed to be agent of an eastern powder company appeared before the directorate and submitted his proposition. He stated that the company he represented wanted naphthalen, solvent naphtha, engel and colzol, four substances used in making high explosives.
These four substances are found in gas. He proposed the erection of a $175,000 plant near the gas works of the Western United Gas and Electric Company at Joliet. This plant would extract the four substances wanted from the newly made gas, without decreasing the quality of the gas or decreasing the quantity to any market extent.
This company agreed to pay the cost of erecting the new structure and would pay the gas company a stated amount per gallon for the substance obtained. At the end of 18 months the entire new plant would be turned over to the gas company but the powder company would continue to buy the products at the market price.
"Our company is primarily in the gas business and intends to remain in the gas business," stated I. C. Copley, president of the gas company in refusing the proposition. "Our patrons in this district represent practically all of the warring nations of Europe. It is our intention to maintain strict neutrality. We will not accept the proposition."
Similar propositions are being made to all of the large gas and coke manufacturing plants in the country.—Agora Beacon-News.

HOUSEKEEPING HINTS FOR MEN.
At this time of the year, when wife has gone to the country (Hoory!) men are often left to care for the house. The following hints are given with the object of instructing them in the elementary problems which they will be called on to face.
To Scramble Eggs: Taking a hatchet carefully chop the eggs in two. Scooping the remains up in your hands, mix thoroughly with lard or other fat. Place in a stew-pan on the stove; run off "I Didn't Raise My Boy to be a Soldier" twice on the player piano or the graphophone (or both if you own them), practice the fox-trot once around the room and the eggs will be done. Flavor with cayenne pepper and Worcester.
To Feed the Canary: A week's meal for the canary can be arranged as follows: Take seven butter slices and fill with seeds, bread crumbs, etc. Add a few worms, a dash of paprika, grated cuttle-fish bone and a half-pint of salad oil. Place in the bottom of the cage and replenish every Monday.
To Empty Ice Pan: If living in an apartment, it is not customary to let the ice-pan run over and deluge the people below, as very often their bed-room happens to be under your kitchen. To avoid this, elevate the ice-pan so as to accommodate the alcohol stove from your chaffing dish. Light the burner, and the water will evaporate as it drips from the ice-cream into the pan. If, by this plan, you set the floor on fire, the water will evaporate much quicker.

THE STROLLER.

IS YOUR BOY YOUR PAL?
If your boy, in youthful exuberation and lack of foresight, should do something that afterward he was really ashamed of, would he come to you, own up to it like a little man and say he'd made a chump out of himself, that he realized it and would never do it again in just that way? If not, then there's something wrong with you or with your boy. There's no better way to raise a boy than to make a pal out of him. The mother should pal with him and the father should pal with him. You should enter into that wonderful brain your boy has and become a part of his life. You should get his viewpoint—look at things as he looks at them. Don't hold him down and make a mollycoddle of him. He is vibrant with the joy of living. He wants to know what life is and is perfectly willing, usually to live it as it should be lived if you will show him the way. Remember, he has rights as you have. Remember that young passions are powerful passions. They need to be directed so that they will become virtues. No boy that is worth his salt wants to view life from the inside of a wall. He wants to live and he has the right to live. Don't surround him with prohibitive laws that make his life miserable. Grow people, even, won't stand that. Teach him that commands are to be obeyed, but make those commands reasonable and with a proper regard to the boy's liberty. Teach him proper personal conduct, and, above all, teach him to let other people live.
GUILTY CONSCIENCES.
The editor of a newspaper in a nearby town borrowed a gun from a friend the other day to go hunting. When he appeared with it on the street, he noticed a peculiar agitation among the denizens of his town. People rushed from store to store and little crowds gathered in the doorways and windows to watch him pass along. The editor was thinking about the vacation ahead of him, but his face, from habit, was set and stern. Suddenly a man, braver than the rest, rushed up with a dollar bill in his outstretched hand. "Bill," he said, "old boy, I've been intending to hand you this dollar for six months. It's for the subscription I owe you." The editor gasped, almost fainted, caught himself and manfully accepted the proffered dollar with a look which said "Go on! Damthetorpedoes!" The man rushed away, and several others braved the editor's gun and paid up back bills. Altogether, when the editor arrived at the office he had a nice roll, enough to pay for his vacation and some left over. But a surprise awaited him at the office. He found six bushels of potatoes, ten dozen eggs, a load of hay, two fine hogs, a skin of butter, two bushels of corn and a gallon of hard cider. In the center of his desk was a large placard and somebody had written on it: "Dear Bill: All the boys have paid up in full. Put up your gun and be friends again."
The editor of this paper thinks he'll step over to the nearby town and borrow Bill's gun.
