He Always Does It.
"I defy you!" cried the stage heroine, as the heavy villain appeared on the scene. "Do your worst." And the bold, bad man took her at her word and did his very worst—or at least that was the unanimous verdict of the disgusted audience.

Fact Not to Be Disputed.
The Patient—"What? You refuse to allow my claim? You told me when I was insured that I'd get something if I was sick, didn't you?" Agent—"Well, you must have got something or you wouldn't be sick, would you?"—Puck.

Must Go Together.
It is futile to attempt to live in sections, separating business from religion and work from faith.—Hugh Black.

Mistress of Her Craft.
Mrs. Hitherto—"Have you an experienced maid?" The Employment Agent—"I can send you one who has had so much experience she can break steel enamel picnic dishes."

...the edge of the black forest, upon which bushes have been dropped by a hostile airman, has a remarkable connection with England. It is not necessary to insist upon the story that it was founded by Otto, an "English" king, in the year 600. Some maintain that the name of the place simply means "open town." But in the market place stands (unless it has been "trafed" since the war began) a statue of—Sir Francis Drake! It is not, however, as naval hero that Offenberg honors Drake, but as the introducer into Europe of the potato. While the figure holds a map of South America in the right hand, the left clasp a flourishing potato plant, with fine "Kartoffeln" attached.—London Chronicle.

Optimistic Thought.
Every lot is to be overcome by endurance.

Grafter's Argument.
A grafter generally cases his mind with the thought that the people from whom he collected the money had no business with it in the first place.
