Well Protected.
Friend—"Why do you maintain such large office force?" Financier—"To prevent outsiders from bothering me."
But I thought that was what your executive secretary was for?" "Oh, no. He is here to prevent the office force from bothering me."—Life.

Planting is Easy.
A cornfield makes me think of good intentions," said Uncle Ebene. "The plantin' is easy. Do big job is keepin' de woods cool."

She Was Interested.
A child who recently moved into the neighborhood became so interested in a young woman that daily she would wait for her to pass the house. One day she walked right in the woman's way and smiling said, "Whose mamma are you?"

When Ferns Become Yellow.
Place slices of raw potatoes around the ferns. The worms, which have been feeding upon the roots, will come out after the potato.

For Little Ones.
Books for children require an amount of work and knowledge altogether disproportionate to the money which the authors are going to make out of them. Is that why our best authors do not write them?—Exchange.

Or None at All.
The man who empties his purse into his head will get a bigger head, no doubt, but he will soon also need a bigger purse.—Exchange.

Embroidery an Ancient Art.
In Exodus the "embroiderer" is contrasted with the "cunning workman." The art of embroidery by the loom was extensively practised by the nations of antiquity. The Egyptians and Babylonians were noted for it. Embroidery with the needle was a Phrygian invention of a later date.

Conservation of Room.
A motorboat that has been invented, that steers with exceptional speed and accuracy under all conditions, carries its motor and propelling mechanism in a hollow fin that also serves as a keel.

Contagion.
Lots of things are contagious besides smallpox—smiles, frowns, kind deeds, evil temper, fault-finding. What kind of contagion do you carry around?—Exchange.

A Woman's Prerogative.
Even the wife of a mind reader will insist upon telling it to him.—Houston Post.
