Protect Your Complexion from the Wintry Blasts

On a cold, raw day your skin burns and chafes alternately. If not properly taken care of, it roughens up so that you have to be ashamed of it, and often causes you intense pain.

A simple application of the standard complexion remedies and toilet necessities that we carry will eliminate such a possibility.

We have all the well-known brands, but if we haven't the particular one you want, we'll get it for you.

MYSTERY SUR- ROUNDS DEATH OF GUST KOHLS

Struck by a "Q" Train at Hinsdale Friday Night Body Carried to Downers.

Mystery surrounds the death of Gust Kohls, a Burlington telephone lineman, who was struck by a train at Hinsdale Friday night.

M. Kohls whose home was on Warren avenue, was working along the telephone lines near Hinsdale Friday and was last seen alive in the depot there about 6:20. At 6:40 Wm. Vaughn, of Eola, who is working in the tower here, tried to throw the derail and could not. Investigating later he found a nude body wedged into the rails in such a way that they could not be moved.

Vaughn notified a train crew standing near and then called Night Policemen Venard, who removed it to Davis' Undertaking Room. Identification was made the following morning by Wm. Hanson.

At the inquest held Saturday morning no witness could be found as to which train killed Kohls or even at what point he was struck. The only intimation is in a piece of his leather overcoat found between the station and the Washington street crossing in Hinsdale.

That he was struck there and carried or rolled ahead of an engine to Downers Grove is the only supposition. When found the body had not a vestige of clothing and was mangled almost beyond recognition.

Gustav Kohls was born in Germany March 16, 1879. He came to the United States in 1893 settling at Lyons, Ill. For the last fifteen years he has steadily been employed by the Burlington as a lineman.

On August 10, 1906 he was married to Miss Kate Huze and three sons, Frederick, Gustav and Raymond besides his loving wife, survive him.

Funeral services were held Monday Rev. P. G. Nuffer, of the First Evangelical church, officiating. Interment was made at the West Side cemetery.

Nuts and Digestion.

The reason nuts are thought indigestible by some is because of the thin skin surrounding each kernel, notes a medical authority. This can easily be blanched off by pouring boiling water on the nut, and allowing it to stand for a few moments. Almonds should never be eaten with the red, tough skin on the nut meat. When boiling water is poured on the almond, this skin becomes as tough as leather. The best way to use nuts for children is to grind the nut meats or pound them, for which purpose the nut-butcher knife in the meat grinder will be found the right tool. A good nut cracker with strong spring makes nut-cracking easy, and is preferable to buying the ready picked meats on the market.

Tortoise and Water.

Tortoises in tropical islands require much fresh water for drinking and have often discovered springs of which the human inhabitants were ignorant. When such a fountain is found the whole surrounding district is soon covered by "tortoise roads" made by these large creatures in their journeys to and from the water.

sleighting and bunco party last Sunday afternoon. A very enjoyable time was had by those present. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Heintz, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kleinhaus, Mr. and Mrs. A. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. K. Plath, Mr. R. Epperly, Miss Adeline Hitch, Mr. W. Weisner, Miss Christina Askland, Miss Lucy Hitch, Margaret and Walter Hitch.

Miss Anita Riel entertained on Monday evening in the chain of parties the proceeds of which are to go to the local Red Cross branch. The guests were: Misses Edsall, Gallagher, Brett, Edith Butler, Madeline Hughes, Edna Simonson, Jewel Farrar, Florence Uhlhorn, Ruth Kidwell, Ruth Lancaster, Lillian Washburn, Marion Greene, Mable Reil and Mrs. Roland Schultz.

The Silver Tea held at the residence of Miss Germain under the auspices of the Altar Guild of St. Andrew's church, proved to be a most delightful affair. Miss Ruth Ballard and Mrs. Louis E. Jones poured, and were assisted by Miss Edith Snyder and Mrs. F. H. Kenison. Mrs. George Fischer and Mrs. Harry C. Kinsley were guests from Grace church, Hinsdale.

The mild weather of yesterday and Wednesday is the first thaw we have experienced since long before Christmas. The snow is noticeably shrinking and it can't shrink too quick. Now is the time to get out and clear the gutters so the water will be able to get away when the real thaw comes. If everyone would clean in front of their property the deed would be done.

Gettysburg Speech Called Marvel of Poetic Splendor

Lincoln's undying Gettysburg address has been put into the new poetic style by Dr. Marion Mills Miller, who finds that "the speech is as perfect a poem as ever was written, and even in the minor qualities of artistic language—rhythm and cadence, phonetic euphony, rhetorical symbolism, and that subtle reminiscence of a great literary and spiritual inheritance, the Bible, which stands to us as Homer did to the ancients—it excels the finest gem to be found in poetic cabinets from the Greek anthology downward." Dr. Miller's interesting "poetic" presentation of the address follows:

Four score and seven years ago
Our fathers brought forth on this continent
A new nation,
Conceived in liberty,
And dedicated to the proposition
That all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war,
Testing whether that nation,
Or any nation so conceived and so dedicated,
Can long endure.
We are met on a great battlefield of that war.
We have come to dedicate a portion of that field
As a final resting-place
For those who here gave their lives
That that nation might live.
It is altogether fitting and proper
That we should do this.

But, in a larger sense,
We cannot dedicate—
We can not consecrate—
We can not hallow—
This ground.
The brave men, living and dead,
Who struggled here
Have consecrated it far above our power
To add or detract.
The world will little note nor long remember
What we say here,
But it can never forget
What they did here.
It is for us, the living, rather
To be dedicated here to the unfinished work
Which they who fought here have so nobly advanced.

It is rather for us to be here dedicated
To the great task remaining before us—
That from these honored dead
We take increased devotion to that cause
For which they gave the last full measure
of devotion;
That we here highly resolve
That these dead shall not have died in vain;
That this nation, under God,
Shall have a new birth of freedom;
And that government of the people,
By the people, and for the people,
Shall not perish from the earth.

Soldier's Leave of Thirty Days,
Granted by Lincoln, Was Also
His Allotted Time.

Here is a photograph of a memorandum signed by Abraham Lincoln. It is dated March 15, 1865 (in his own handwriting), and, likewise in his own hand, says, "Allow this man thirty days' time."

The indorsement is of an application by a soldier for thirty days' leave. But the most striking point about it is that it exactly named the time that, as the event showed, was left for Mr. Lincoln himself to remain on earth. He was assassinated just thirty days later.

LINCOLN'S GOOD OLD FRIEND

Son Shown in His Treatment of "Aunt Sally."

After Lincoln's election to the presidency an old woman, whom he called "Aunt Sally," came from New Salem to say good-by to "Abe" before he "went to Washington to be president."

The president-elect was standing in the room placed at his disposal in the old state capitol talking with two men of national renown when the old woman entered, shy and embarrassed. He saw her at once and walked across the room to meet his old friend. Taking both her hands in his, he led her to the seat of honor and presented his distinguished visitors to her, putting her quite at ease by saying:

"Gentlemen, this is a good old friend of mine. She can make the best flapjacks you ever tasted, for she has baked them for me many a time."

A Few Facts About Lincoln.
He knew the value of a merry jest and a hearty laugh.
He was simple in manner, dress and bearing, but was big of heart and brain.
He was too great a nature to care one way or another about his ancestry. The living generation was of vital importance to him.
He did not advocate war for his own glorification, but to liberate human beings from slavery. All men were his brothers and his equals before his Creator.

Company H. is going to try it again. What? Battalion drill at the second regiment armoury tonight. But, believe me, if it looks like snow, many of the members will be conspicuous by their absence.

Miss Margaret Rogers, who is a student at Madison, Wis., returned Thursday after a few days visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rogers, at Warwood Farm.

Mrs. Henry Grumhaus is able to be up and around again after a siege of sickness.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clark and Mr. Horace Aldrich of the Groves visited Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Briggs last week.

Henry Grumhaus is taking treatments twice a week at the Hinsdale sanitarium for rheumatism.

Mr. E. Morgan, County Superintendent of Schools was very well pleased with the exhibits made and sent by the Lisle school to the Farmers Institute. Miss Oldfield and the children are to be commended on having such a good exhibit. On account of the bad condition of the roads not many of our residents were able to attend the Institute this year.

Miss Florence Sheldon was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clark at Downers Grove for a few days.

The farmers in this vicinity have refused to sell their milk at the price set by Chicago. They held a caucus meeting Monday morning and re-elected Dave Meyer, president and E. Riedy secretary of the local union. After the business meeting Mr. Joy Morton gave a very interesting talk on the cost of producing milk. He stated that the actual cost was $2.97 a hundred pounds of milk. He was followed by Mr. W. A. Rogers whose remarks about the milk situation cleared up some doubtful points. Wm. Schwartz, J. Barker and A. Greene as delegates were sent to the milk producers convention held at the LaSalle Hotel, Tuesday.

"RED RIDING HOOD"

A Feature Film for the Family to be Shown Feb. 11, at the Dicke
Theatre.

"Little Red Riding Hood" is riding right into popularity on the screen as years ago the famous story rode into popularity on the printed page. The new film version of the story, just put out by the Wholesome Films Corporation of Chicago, has as many thrills as a "western hold-up"—but such joyous thrills that everyone forgets the war, the high cost of living, and the scarcity of coal, while they watch the wolf eat up the grandmother (who fortunately comes to life again in the last act).

"Little Red Riding Hood" is just as good a tonic as a patent medicine—a good laugh makes a good liver, and the film sparkles with laughter all the way through. Over three hundred children participate in this production, the oldest being 12 years in age, and it is said the tiny tots not over three years appear in such amazing stunts that the spectator is not inclined to believe such little hantlings are really acting.

It will be at the Dicke Theatre on Monday, February 11. See it and bring the children, it will do you and them a lot of good.

Got Their "Lively Time."

A famous lion-tamer tells of a queer Christmas present he once received. It was a consignment from a friend abroad of three box-constructors and five alligators. "With Jim's best wishes for a lively time." The lion-tamer and his wife got the lively time desired. He says:

"I shall never forget how annoyed I was when, during the night, two of the alligators broke out of their boxes in our bedroom and began exploring. I could not find the matches, and I and my wife remained on top of the bed canopy till morning. Luckily, my wife never thought of the thing that worried me. I was afraid the alligator might call on the box-constructors and wish them a Merry Christmas, and wake them up too!"
