TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO IN THE REPORTER

From the issue of February 18, 1897. Last Saturday noon Mrs. Hugh M. White died at her home on Highland Avenue after a long, lingering illness. Funeral services were held Monday, Rev. H. H. Raad officiating. Burial was made at the West Side Cemetery.

The A. R. Heckman residence on Curtiss Street is nearing completion. A very enjoyable Valentine Party was given at the pleasant home of Mrs. J. G. Morton Saturday evening in honor of Miss Agnes Stewart.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Tope left Monday for a trip through the South. They will visit New Orleans during the Mardi Gras Carnival and other points in Louisiana, Florida and Alabama.

A side track is being laid from the main line of the Burlington to the Dicke Manufactory. This will enable Mr. Dicke to take care of his business in a much better manner.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Foster and children of St. Joseph, Mo. arrived last week for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rogers and other old friends in the Grove.

Died in Gostyn at the home of her daughter, Mrs. N. Patrick on February 12th, Mrs. Veronika Andrievsky at the age of 64 years. The funeral occurred from St. Mary's church on Saturday the 13th. One son and two daughters survive her.

Mrs. Wetzley, of Naperville, is spending a few days with her uncle, H. P. Courtwright.

Mr. and Mrs. William Barber, of Naperville, drove over to Downers to call on their cousin, Mrs. D. H. Naramore, last Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whiffen, of Kewanee, spent Thursday and Friday with her sister, Mrs. J. M. Barr.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foster, of St. Joe, Mo., visited his sister, Mrs. E. J. Miller and other friends in Downers last week.

NEWSY NOTES FROM LISLE AND BELMONT

LEGAL NOTICES

Had Excuse for Eating Candy. Edith's aunt had come for dinner and brought the little girl a box of candy, but warning her not to eat any of it until after the meal, as it would spoil her appetite. Edith turned to her mother and asked what the menu for the meal was, and was informed that lamb stew had been provided. "Oh, than I dess I'll eat tandy and spoil my appetite. I don't tare for lamb stew."

"FUSS AND FEATHERS"

Tuesday, February 18th.

Pete Baldwin, a veteran prospector, lives with his daughter, Susie, a pretty little uncouth optimist, in the mining camp of Starveout, suddenly strikes it rich, and Martin Ledyard, president of the Atlas Mining Corporation in San Francisco, decides to buy Baldwin's claim and requests him to come to San Francisco.

Ledyard meanwhile hears that his son, Rober has been expelled from college. When Rober reaches his home, he is coldly informed that he must go to work. Rober protests as he and work are strangers, but the stern father is unrelenting. Mrs. Ledyard slips a roll of bill into her son's hands and he leaves the parental home.

Baldwin and Susie reach San Francisco too late, however, to find Ledyard at his office. Baldwin's uncouth manners excite disgust in Mrs. Ledyard who plainly shows her resentment, whereupon Susie indignantly leaves the house, dragging her protesting father with her. Susie decides to hire someone who "is sharp on catin" and fancy manners" and the person chosen to conduct Susie and her father through the mazes of etiquette, is J. Wells Stanton, a crook, whose wife is "High-brow Flora", a confidence woman de lux.

Stanton entices him to a lonely spot and with the aid of a blackjack, poises himself of Rober's roll and beats him. Pete and Susie, while rioting, find the unconscious young man and take him home, Susie caring for him with tender solicitude.

When Rober revives the next morning, he gives Pete an unusual name and intimates that he is in need of work. Susie engages him as her social instructor, and he is nothing loth to accept after he has furtively scanned her face and found it lovely. He writes to his parents telling them that he is earning his own livelihood, but declines to give his address.

There is a general misunderstanding until Mrs. Ledyard learns that Susie has been the means of making a man of her son. She stands ashamed before the sympathetic eyes of the girl who throws her arm around her future mother-in-law with impulsive forgiveness and affection. And so everything ends happily.

GAVE LIFE FOR HER PEOPLE

Pretty Legend Concerning Maiden Worthy to Be Known as Indian Joan of Arc.

In the great northwestern country between the mighty Rockies and the beautiful Cascades are the mountains called the Huckleberry range. They spread their arms protectively about the many small mining towns of Washington. A soldierly array of pines and hemlocks keep watch over all the rough farmers, rugged miners and the few native redskins still left.

A large tribe of Indians once lived in these mountains, from the heights of which one can look far over the blue haze of Idaho, view the gleaming white ribbon of the Columbia river, or behold the white tips of the Canadian Rockies.

A tale is told by the folk of Huckleberry range about Camas, the fairest maid of this ancient Indian tribe. During one of the many forest fires of the region, when the entire range seemed threatened with destruction this Indian Joan of Arc gathered in her arms some little pink and white flowers and disappeared down the winding trail.

She went to the very edge of the fire, where the dried grasses hissed and sizzled with the flames and the blazing pines stretched out scorching fingers toward her and the dainty pines offering. Then—the legend says—the Great Spirit was appeased and sheets of rain hid the brave Indian maid from the view of her people.

Never more was Camas seen by her tribe, but every spring since then the strange little pink and white flowers have covered the wide mountains of Huckleberry range. In honor of the Indian girl the blossom is called the Camas flower.

Saves Space. If you have not a kitchen closet to hang cooking utensils in, get a large box, place it in the corner nearest your stove, paper it inside and drive nails in the sides, on which to hang different articles. Have curtains for the front and cover top with oilcloth, which will also give you a handy kitchen table at a very small expense.

EUROPE LIKES AMERICAN MILK

European people have learned to like American dairy products. Exports of condensed milk to Europe rose from 16,000,000 pounds in 1914 to 530,000,000 pounds in 1918, and there were notable increases in exports of other dairy products. Much of this is due to abnormal war demands, but the United States Department of Agriculture believes that there is both an opportunity and a tendency to expand in this direction over pre-war requirements. A normal increase in dairying in this country, the department thinks, is fully justified, provided there is the necessary increase in feed crops.

Illness and Literature. There is nothing like a good, long illness for the cultivation of pure literature. It should not be too severe or needlessly painful, for then you may overshoot the mark and be too weary to read or be read to. It is possible to have too much of even the best things. But a proper, comfortable illness, that keeps you in bed, yet leaves you free to read; that banishes all the interruptions of life, the constitutional walks, the stupid visits, the annoying correspondence, the dressing and the undressing, and all the amenities of modern civilization, and allows you to lie at peace and read your fill, is among the best gifts of the gods. You soon forget to be sleepy and lazy, your mind displays an unwanted activity, and you become conscious of an insatiable craving for books.—Ohio State Journal.
