Unnecessary Intestines. The human intestine seems to be partly a relic of prehistoric times, largely useless in this modern day and age. The uselessness of the vermiform appendix, which is simply the stump of what was once an important and functioning branch of the alimentary canal, is well known. Recent operations in a London hospital seem to indicate that a large part of the lower main canal, the colon, can be dispensed with without harm. In these operations sections of the colon have been removed. The work brings up again the famous scientist Metchnikoff's debated contention that these parts of the anatomy are not only useless but dangerous.

TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO IN THE REPORTER

(From the issue of April 23, 1896.)

Frank Owen's house on North Main street was struck by lightning Monday afternoon. The roof was badly damaged as was also the plastering in the rooms in the upper story.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sine have recently moved to Downers from Wheaton. They have rented the Rogers block on North Main street and will conduct a first class bakery and restaurant.

W. S. Alden and family are making preparations to move to their future home at Star City, Ind., either tomorrow or Saturday.

J. D. Horton, our genial contractor has secured some large contracts at Niagara, N. Y., and leaves today for that place to take charge.

Miss Della Wilcox has returned from Pullman, and is visiting her sisters, Mrs. Guy Bush and Frank Owen.

Fred Rang of Naperville, has purchased an interest in the Courtright bakery, the firm name now being Courtright & Rang.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barter of Remington, Ind., have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. Al. Atwood this week.

$100,000.00 PRODUCTION OF UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

Do you know that in all the fifty years or more, that Uncle Tom's Cabin has been presented on the stage, by all kinds of good, bad and indifferent companies, not one has been able to present this masterpiece in all of its beauty or detail. They have not been able to show the real South in days of slavery, the wonderful scenery as described in the book, nor quite a number of characters, that play an important part in the story.

$100,000.00 has been spent to produce a motion picture of Uncle Tom's cabin that surpasses any stage production ever attempted. It has left nothing to the imagination. The story is complete to the smallest detail.

In this marvelous production you will see a real river of ice which Eliza crosses, a real steamboat loaded with slaves, real bloodhounds, in fact everything is real. The picture was made in that part of the South made famous by the author. When you see this production, you realize that all other versions of Uncle Tom's cabin that you have seen, were poor substitutes for the real thing.

This masterpiece will be shown complete at the Dicke theatre for one day. In addition to the showing of this picture there are seven real pickaninnies who sing real southern melodies throughout the picture. After the showing of the picture, these pickaninnies do some clever buck and wing dancing and several specialty numbers.

They also give a band concert all being splendid musicians. If you want to hear real Dixie Jass music played as only darkies can play it, come and bring the children. A special matinee will be given for school children at 2:30 and 4 p. m., Monday, April 22nd. Night prices, Children 15c; Adults 25c.

"JULES OF THE STRONG HEART"

Beautiful Photography Adds to Interesting Picture of North Woods, with George Beban as Canadian Lumberjack.

There are many things to justify the producers in the selection of "Jules of the Strong Heart", a magazine story by William Merriam Rouse, for George Beban. Aside from offering the star a role thoroughly congenial to him the story called for lumber camp and forest scenes. These the company secured and not only do they lend realism to the picture but make it beautiful. Director Donald Crisp has introduced a storm effect, which besides being excellent handied serves to heighten the strength of the plot coming as it does at a moment when the suspense registers a high water mark.

Mr. Beban's role offers him a number of scenes with a year-old infant. It is in this type of action that he shines best as a comedian and his well-known style of humor, as eccentric as his actions, is decidedly entertaining. Jules, the character Mr. Beban interprets, has a big appeal, not it is true, by rights of the actor, but more by right of the part itself and the situations through which the author has piloted it. Particularly in the latter part has he directed sympathy toward the happy-go-lucky Jules, but save for the rather blood-curdling scene in which he is tortured by Burgess one can look at the photoplay dry-eyed. The fact is that "Jules of the Strongheart" is almost wholly a comedy when it comes to the work of the title character. But in other respects it is a serious subject. And while in the face of the picture's many merits it may be irrelevant to express the wish that Mr. Beban be presented in another part as in "An Alien" where his ability to awaken a deep appeal may have full play, the desire forces itself to the surface.

However, of its kind, "Jules of the Strongheart" is so worthy that it can be heartily recommended as a comedy-drama. Harvey F. Thew and Frank Finnegan in the handling of the scenario have gotten the most from the story. Helen Eddy, Charles Ogle, Raymond Hatton and Guy Oliver appear in parts of prominence. Will be shown at the Dicke Theatre, Tuesday, April 23.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

(From the Publicity Department)

Direct word has been received from E. C. Carter in charge of Y. M. C. A. work in France to the effect that during a retreat of the allied armies, Y. M. C. A. trucks went into service as emergency ambulances for British wounded and that Y. M. C. A. tents were used for sheltering troops at night. Mr. Carter says that the transport department of the Association turned over all available trucks and cars to the Red Cross, aided the evacuation of civilian refugees and transported many of them to the Hotel Pavilion at Paris which is run by the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Carter reports that the only fatality among Y. M. C. A. workers was the death of Marion Crandell, a Davenport woman who had studied a number of years in Paris, had later taught school at St. Catherine's Academy in Davenport and had been one of about 300 volunteer women workers laboring for the Red Triangle. Miss Crandell is the second woman Y. M. C. A. worker to have met death from German shells, the first having been Miss Winona C. Martin, of Rockville Center, N. Y.

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels was the principal speaker at the dedication of the seventh Y. M. C. A. building at the Great Lakes Naval Station, Wednesday, April 10th. This building is named after Mr. Daniels and during the Secretary's address the Red Triangle work at Great Lakes was highly praised and the Jackies were exhorted to support the Y. M. C. A. at every turn. M. H. Bickham, camp general secretary at Great Lakes, has received many compliments for the constructive work he has done there. Commander Moffet is an enthusiastic backer of the Y. M. C. A. and has asked the War Work Council to allot one Y. M. C. A. building to each regiment of Jackies. At present at Great Lakes there is only one building for every two regiments. Frank Torrell, religious work director at Great Lakes, recently reported a total attendance of about 65,000 tars at Bible classes at that Station since last September.

Rehearsal. In 1868 a band of Welsh rioters made war upon the tall-paths along the highways of a large district. The captain of the rioters and his band disguised themselves in female attire, and they were called Rehearsal. This name arose from a gross perversion of a text of Scripture: "And they blessed Rehearsal, and said unto her... let thy seed possess the gate of those who hate them."—Genesis 24:30.
